Cous Cous Is Fair Fare

NEW YORK (UPI) — In Chicago or Casablanca, this cous-cous would be party fare.

Soak one cup of dried chick peas overnight in water to cover. Next day, drain and set aside. Stir 2½ cups of semolina in a bowl with two cups of water and one teaspoon of salt. Rub semolina between hands, about one foot above bowl, allowing it to drop into bowl. Repeat process several times, being careful not to let lumps form. Soak semolina until the water is absorbed.

Melt one fourth pound of butter in a large saucepan. Brown well three chopped onions, a five pound chicken, disjointed, and two pounds of lamb, cubed. Add just enough water to cover, plus chick peas, three tomatoes, cubed, three green peppers, sliced, four carrots, sliced, one teaspoon of black pepper and one fourth teaspoon or less, to taste, of cayenne, and one half teaspoon of salt.

Place semolina in a large strainer or colander over the saucepan, cover and cook 1½ hours over low heat. Add one half package of frozen green peas, one cup of yellow squash, cubed, one medium sized zucchini, sliced, and one half cup of seedless raisins to the chicken mixture. Cook 45 minutes more, or until chicken is tender.

Before serving, stir one fourth pound of butter into the semolina with a fork. Mound semolina in the center of a platter, arrange the stew around it and serve to 8-10 persons.

EASY
NEW YORK (UPI)—Easy dessert: fresh berries served on meringue shells. Top with a dab of whipped cream or ice cream.
