R. R. WOODMAN

Rites Tuesday For Woodman

TULELAKE — Funeral services for Robert R. Woodman, 62, well known businessman and rancher in the Tulelake community for 23 years, will be held at 11 a.m. Tuesday, February 23, from O'Hair's Memorial Chapel with the Rev. Wayne Wattman, pastor of the Tulelake Community Presbyterian Church, officiating. Final rites and interment will be in Klamath Memorial Park.

Active pallbearers will be Marvin Rose, Jack Fensler, Derwood Dable, Dave Hatfield, Bob Heiney and Dale Sprout. Honorary pallbearers will include Everett Sprout, George Milligan, Austin Milligan, Melvin Long, Ed McVey and Ernest Novotny.

Mr. Woodman died February 19 in Klamath Valley Hospital where he had been a patient for several days.

He was a native of Guthrie, Oklahoma, born October 12, 1897. The family later moved to Paxton, Nebraska, and in 1937, Mr. and Mrs. Woodman and family came to Tulelake. They owned and operated the Tulelake Five and Dime Store for some time. For the last 20 years, Mr. Woodman had farmed.

Survivors include the widow, Gladys, Tulelake; four sons, Robert D., Yuma, Arizona, James D., and Donald R., both of Tulelake and Jerry of Rupert, Idaho; a brother, Oren Woodman and one sister, Mrs. Paul Droel, both of Boise; also 12 grandchildren.

Local Firm Wins Trophy In Ice Cream Sweepstakes

Crater Lake ice cream maker Reed Fosbury was awarded the sweepstakes trophy for the finest ice cream in the state of Oregon at Oregon Dairy Industries' 49th annual convention at Oregon State College.

Crater Lake strawberry ice cream was judged first place winner in the contest and the Crater Lake vanilla and chocolate were both judged outstanding.

Dairy plants throughout Oregon compete each year at the Corvallis contest, sending in their best ice cream to be scored and judged by experts.

The Crater Lake ice cream department is supervised by Fosbury who has been in the ice cream business for 18 years. He moved to Klamath Falls from Lewiston, Idaho, last year. He is assisted by Fred Meyer, Darrel Bowlby, Jerry Shallcross and Esther Hoelzer. His department produces annually more than one million pounds of ice cream which is distributed throughout Southern Oregon and Northern California.

High awards for ice cream are regular occurrences for Crater Lake ice cream makers. In recent years, Crater Lake chocolate ice cream was judged first place in

Men Fashions Battle Bulge

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The 42nd annual convention of the National Association of Retail Clothiers and Furnishers moved into full swing today with a battle cry to do away with men's paunches, in styles at least.

Slimness is the word for men's styles this spring, said Arnold Michaels, Oakland, president-elect of the group.

"The new silhouette emphasized longer lines," Michaels said. "Lapels are longer and narrower. Trousers legs are also narrower."

All this was designed to make paunch-sporting men look slender, he said.

Michaels predicted at the opening of the five-day convention Sunday that men's clothing sales will increase 10 per cent during 1960.

Prime factors in the sales increase prediction, he said, were the additional importance of the young men's market, more interest in sportswear, and the rise of synthetics and summer wardrobes.

He said sales in men's clothing were up 7 to 8 per cent last year. It was the first time since 1927 that the men's wear industry had increased its share of the consumer's disposable dollar.

Survivors Show Some Recovery

The two survivors of Friday's plane crash at Alturas, B. M. Buckley, 44, of Klamath Falls, and Drace Fountain, 44, of Alturas, were still "doing as well as could be expected" in Modoc Medical Center this forenoon, according to Modoc County Sheriff E. M. (Buck) Server.

Hospital authorities stated that 52 per cent of Buckley's body was burned, but they give both men "a good chance" of recovery, the sheriff stated.

Dolan Southard, 43, of Bieber, who lost his life in the crash, died of burns, the sheriff-coroner's report stated.

Solons Ponder Tax Aid Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Self-employed persons now stand at least a 50-50 chance of being awarded a permanent break on their income taxes to help them save retirement funds.

Prospects that some such legislation will become law this year rose with the disclosure that the Treasury is modifying its adamant opposition. The Treasury now is drafting a plan of its own.

Informed sources said the plan would be presented soon to senators as an acceptable—or at least less objectionable—alternative to a House-passed bill strongly opposed by the administration. These sources said the administration might urge enactment of the Treasury plan.

The Senate is under strong political pressure to approve some version of the House bill. The Treasury's action in developing an alternative plan reflects belief that some legislation probably will reach the White House.

If a measure is passed, President Eisenhower's tax and political advisers want it to be a bill he can sign. An election-year veto could have wide political repercussions.

The House-approved bill would permit self-employed persons to defer payment of income taxes on certain amounts placed in retirement funds.

The deferral would apply to 10 per cent of income but could not amount to more than $2,500 annually except for older persons near retirement who would get a better break.

The tax advantage would go to an estimated six to seven million self-employed persons including lawyers, farmers, doctors, dentists, engineers, architects, shopkeepers, and unincorporated businessmen who don't have company pension plans.

The plan being drafted by the Treasury would exact a price for the tax relief from some of these people. It would deny benefits to any self-employed persons with employees who don't provide their workers with a pension. No such restriction is contained in the House-passed bill.

Driver Agrees, Flees, Leaving Man To Cougar

OLYMPIA (AP) — Peter McMichael, 69, was walking along a road in a wooded area just inside the city limits when he saw what he imagined was a cougar eating a deer carcass.

"All I had was my pocket knife," McMichael said. "The cougar looked at me and I looked at him."

"About that time a car came down the road."

McMichael said he flagged down the car and when it stopped he pointed to the big cat in the roadside woods and asked the driver if it was a cougar.

McMichael said the driver looked, exclaimed "My gosh, yes," rammed his car into gear and zoomed away, leaving McMichael in the middle of the road.

McMichael said he folded his knife and tiptoed away.

GUEST SPEAKER at Klamath Soil Conservation District's annual meeting last week was Dr. A. L. Hafenrichter of Portland, a veteran of more than 30 years in the work of developing improved varieties of grasses and legumes. His talk gave particular emphasis to the importance of improving irrigated pasture lands in order to get maximum return in milk production and increased gain on beef cattle. The meeting drew the largest attendance in the history of the local district.

Youths Admit Church Theft

Two youths were taken into temporary custody Sunday by city juvenile officers following their apprehension by Marysville police Saturday.

The youths, 17 and 15 years old, admitted a burglary in a church locally before they ran away recently, officers said. The burglary netted small change from a coin operated machine.

They gave themselves up to officers in California, local police added, and one youth's father brought the pair back.

They are being held in the city jail pending action by county juvenile authorities. Officers indicated a petition would be filed against the youths citing them to juvenile court.

Police also took a 17-year-old girl into temporary custody Monday morning for violation of curfew. She was found at Moore Park.

Her mother was charged with allowing a minor to violate curfew, and the girl's companion was charged with aiding curfew violation. The case was referred to county juvenile officers.

In other action, officers arrested Louise E. Burke of Klamath Falls for drunkenness over the weekend and lodged her 4-year-old daughter in the county juvenile home.

The woman was carrying a pistol, police said. She was jailed. The arrest was made at 530 Broad Street.

Chamber Notes Banking Boost

The chamber of commerce reported today a sizable increase in bank debits for the county during January. The factor was one of five by which the chamber measures county business activity.

Bank debits (checks) worth $44,002.79 were written last month, compared to checks worth $32,416.79 written in January a year ago. The January figure also was up almost $4 million over last December.

Other measures of activity, compared with January 1959: Postal receipts $35,011, up from $33,908 a year ago; parking meter receipts $4,382, down from $5,065; building permit values $186,820, down from $244,000; number of water users within Klamath Falls city limits 9,113, up from 8,875.

Store Reports Stolen Boots

A "customer" got away with a $20 pair of cowboy boots at the Montgomery Ward and Company Store, Ninth and Pine streets, Saturday, city police said.

A shoe clerk said he was fitting another patron and had to leave the area for a moment. A man who had been shopping in the area took the boots, he reported.

Vandals were active, too, over the weekend. Robert L. Coleman, 754 North Tenth Street, told officers someone slashed a seat cover in his car with some sort of sharp instrument early Saturday while the car was parked at home. He estimated damage at $40.

Jim Foote, 725 North Eleventh Street, reported that someone tossed a rock through his windshield as it was parked behind Klamath Auditorium Friday night.

Cyclist Hurt In Car Crash

William D. Freeman, 28, of Tulelake was injured in a motorcycle accident Saturday morning at Sixth and Division streets, city police said.

Freeman was taken to Klamath Valley Hospital by Peace Ambulance for treatment of a mangled knee. He was said to be recovering in fair shape Monday.

Witnesses said Freeman told them before police arrived that his brakes failed. He was riding a motorcycle north on South Sixth and struck the rear of a car driven by Perry K. Watson of Merrill.

Watson said he was slowing down for a car ahead which was stopped for a pedestrian. No citations were issued. Both vehicles were damaged considerably.

Police also investigated a hit-run accident reported by Myrna Hukari of Merrill Saturday evening. She said she was driving down Old Fort Road and was struck from the rear by a car behind her. The other car sped around her and on, she said.

Her car received minor damage.

LEONTYNE PRICE

Noted Soprano Scheduled For Concert Appearance

Leontyne Price, who will appear in Klamath Falls February 26 as an artist of the Community Concert series, is one of the few great sopranos in the world today.

She attained her eminence as one of the select few within an amazingly short time because of the unusual beauty and richness of her voice, penetrating artistry, personal charm and versatility.

In the spring of 1952 Leontyne Price was an unknown music student at the Juilliard School of Music. Today she is one of the most sought after sopranos in the field of music, in the leading opera houses, for recitals everywhere, and as a featured soloist under the world's greatest maestros of symphony orchestras.

It was as Mistress Ford in a Juilliard School production of Verdi's "Falstaff," that she first set waves of excitement vibrating throughout the music world. She went on to now-historic success in the American classic, "Porgy and Bess," to operatic successes in Vienna, Berlin, London and Paris, and in this country.

Her progress as an opera star has continued in an outstanding way. Her "Tosca" performance with the NBC Opera Theater in 1955 over the national network was a memorable event in musical history.

In the fall of 1957 Miss Price made her debut with the great San Francisco Opera Company and went on to triumphs within two months in three major European companies, at the Vienna Staatsoper, London's famed Covent Garden and finally in the fabulous Opera Arena of Verona, Italy.

Her appearances with the New York Philharmonic and Boston Symphony, on radio and television and through her recordings, has given her great talent to a wide audience.

She was born in Laurel, Mississippi, where she received her first musical training as a pianist. Her ambition was to become a music teacher in public schools.

Her parents sent her to Central State College in Wilberforce, Ohio, bound convoy. The British vessel suffered extensive damage to its stern but there were no injuries.

City and suburban fire departments answered three calls over the weekend.

Suburban firemen battled the season's first grass fire Saturday. They were called to the railroad right of way along Kane Street at 3:30 p.m. No damage was reported. No cause was determined.

They also were called to the home of Jesse Smith, 5041 Miller Avenue, Saturday shortly after noon, where a playhouse in a tree caught fire. The structure was scorched, but no other damage resulted. Firemen speculated a boy was playing with matches.

City firemen were called to Sixth and Main streets Sunday at 1:50 p.m. Gasoline was leaking from a car. No fire was involved.

TANKERS COLLIDE

PORT SAID (UPI)—A British and a French tanker, both empty, collided in the mist-shrouded Suez Canal Sunday while in a south-bound convoy. The British vessel suffered extensive damage to its stern but there were no injuries.
