

Sew Stylist, Seamstress Schedules Free Lectures

Home sewing is on the upswing in this country. Sales of piece goods and patterns point out that fact very clearly. Also, there are more youngsters sewing than for a long time and homemaking classes have become more popular in high schools.

J. C. Penney Company, recognizing this trend, is bringing an expert seamstress and stylist to

GENEAL HALLOWS

GENE R. SMITH

Klamath Falls to present free lectures twice daily on three days next week.

Geneal Hallows, stylist and Bishop Method representative for the Advance Pattern Company, will conduct a beginner series of Bishop Method lecture-demonstrations on the second floor of the J. C. Penney store on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The free lectures will commence at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. each of the three days.

During her store presentation, Miss Hallows will discuss home sewing from both a construction and a fashion viewpoint. To demonstrate the basic fundamentals of the Bishop Method, she will construct a simple blouse and skirt before the audience. Techniques such as "cutting to grain preservation," "stay-stitching to preserve the lines of the pattern," and "unit construction" will be demonstrated.

In addition, Miss Hallows will show the audience a made-up wardrobe of clothes made from Advance Printed Patterns, featuring the Bishop Method of clothing construction. Each style in the wardrobe is graded according to sewing techniques so that the beginner can learn sewing skills by starting with the simplest garment and progressing to the most advanced.

Miss Hallows will be available to discuss individual sewing problems with those in the audience.

Dr. Charles Loomis, dean of Cornell Medical College, has this to say on the subject: "When the young folks are taught the worth and ways of recreation, they are taking out an insurance policy against nervous disorders, and in middle age, when they come to collect, they will find themselves reimbursed a hundredfold."

Recreation areas are safety zones. The recreation department can contribute greatly to safety in providing leadership, supervision and adequate facilities for play. This is especially true of the summer playground program, the supervised swimming program and the winter sports centers which involve activities quite often associated with accidents. The learn to swim program alone would be reason enough to justify the existence of a summer recreation program.

Through good leadership an activity can retain the elements of fun and excitement and still eliminate the hazard of accidents. Then the instruction given in sports with emphasis on the correct method and proper conditioning greatly reduces accidents.

Recreation and community spirit. A vital and dynamic recreation program can make democracy work. In the recreation program, as they enjoy themselves at play, people of all ages learn to get along together and to accept their responsibilities in a democratic group. The recreation program should provide a common meeting ground upon which people from all walks of life can join together.

SEARCH FOR KIDNAPERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Police today hunted three thugs who Tuesday kidnaped truck driver Harvey Locke, 47, of Bangor, Pa., and stole his truck containing $20,000 worth of textiles. The thugs released Locke several miles from the midtown street where the hi-jacking occurred after driving him around in a car for more than three hours.
