Judge James M. Main of Medford has ordered the state to re-submit its case against Robert L. Huitt to the next session of the grand jury.

The judge sustained a demurrer which alleged that the indictment returned by the jury in its last session did not contain sufficient facts to constitute a crime.

However, the judge ordered the case resubmitted to the grand jury. Huitt was not released from jail, where he has been held in lieu of $1,000 bail.

Judge Main ruled on the demurrer Monday, shortly after he was assigned to the case by the supreme court. Ramirez on Friday demanded disqualification of both judges David R. Vandenberg and Charles H. Foster on ground of alleged prejudice.

Assault Case Being Heard

The state continued today its case against Mrs. Cleo Williams, 31, accused of participating in an assault and robbery on a Chiloquin street last July 29.

After a six-man, six-woman jury was selected and visited the scene of the alleged crime, the state called Carl W. Tomlinson, now of Saratoga, California, but formerly of Portland and Chiloquin.

Tomlinson testified he was watching the Wednesday night fight at a Chiloquin home where he met Mrs. Williams and Leon Pearson, 33, Mrs. Williams' codefendant in the assault and robbery case.

He said he had left the home in early evening, and was attacked from the rear, beaten, and robbed. He said $120 in cash, $60 in travelers checks, and a watch were stolen.

Other witnesses expected to be called by Deputy District Attorney O. W. Goankey today were Chiloquin Police Chief Lewis Jones and 8-year-old Roberta Kirk.

Attorneys for the defense are David R. Vandenberg Jr. and William Bradshaw. The case is being heard by Judge James M. Main of Medford.

Jury members are Thelma Clugston and George Brothank of Madison, Gertrude Powell of Kenosha, and Janie B. Golden, Joyce Utley, Lenore H. Owens, Alexis L. Runyan, John T. Martin, Paul King, Miles Cain, James W. Weaver, and Herbert J. Riggs, all of Klamath Falls.

3 Arraigned For Assault

Three youths were arraigned in district court Tuesday on assault and battery charges filed by a young woman, Melody Joy Estep. Hubert Ross Boggs, 23, 239 Main Street; Roy Willis Boggs, 21, 516 High Street; and Edward Lee Cooney, 21, Geary Ranch, were accused of teasing Miss Estep's arm and beating her on the head and face February 27 in Tiny's Tavern on South Sixth Street.

The defendants asked further time to consult attorneys and were ordered to reappear before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor at 10 a.m. Wednesday. Hubert Boggs was released on $500 bail; the others were returned to jail in lieu of bail.

In other district court action, a legal compromise was reached between Donald Ernest Brailier, 22, and Raymond Orville Gregory, 23, both accused of stealing hubcaps belonging to Rodney Comer.

In another case, Gertrude Mobley, 44, also known as Gertrude Moore, waived a preliminary hearing on a burglary charge. She was to have had the hearing tomorrow on a charge she entered a home at Mowich and stole two watches. She was held to the grand jury and was returned to jail in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Rites Slated For Strofeld

William E. Strofeld, 73, assistant curator of Collier State Park Logging Museum, died at his home, 507 South Fourth Street, Monday, March 7. He had been in failing health for several months.

Mr. Strofeld had been active in the logging industry of Northern California and Southern Oregon for more than 50 years. He had been employed by the Weed Lumber Company, the Swan Lake Lumber Company, the Modoc Lumber Company, Ewanna Box Company, Shaw - Bertram Lumber Company and others.

Since 1946 he has been building the Logging Museum at Spring Creek, gathering up old equipment and restoring it. He logged the poles and split the sugar pine shakes single handed, for the several buildings at the park and was known as a master hand with the broad ax.

Mr. Strofeld never married. He is survived by a brother, George Ager, Yreka; a half brother, Herman Kurtz, Hornbrook; nephews, Audrey M. Ager, Chisita, Marcus Ager, Yreka, and Arthur Ager of Canada.

Funeral services will be held in the Girdner Funeral Home, Yreka, at 2 p.m. Thursday, March 10. Final rites and interment will be in the Yreka Cemetery.

Crash Victim Still Critical

Condition of Mrs. O. D. (Leona) Reeder, 50, injured in a two-car accident early Sunday morning, March 6, is still critical. She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, O. D. (Babe) Reeder, which collided with one driven by Steven Southwell at the intersection of South Sixth Street and Hilyard Avenue near the Merrill-Lakeview Junction.

Mrs. Reeder suffered two broken ribs, a punctured lung, head lacerations, a broken ankle and broken bones in a foot.

It was first believed Mrs. Reeder had less serious injuries than her husband who was thrown from the car face down into shallow water when their car crashed into an irrigation ditch. He sustained multiple bruises and suffered from shock.

Mrs. Reeder has been employed for some time at Bob's Self Service Laundry on East Main Street. The Reeder car was totally demolished.

Investigating officers said it was raining hard at the time of the accident. Reeder, traveling toward Klamath Falls, attempted a left hand turn from South Sixth Street to Hilyard Avenue. The Southwell car was traveling south. Young Southwell was less seriously hurt. No charges have been filed.

Women File For JP Post

Two women filed for justice of the peace in the Odell District Monday, thus closing the only uncontested election race in the county.

The new candidates are Marjorie Stumbaugh and Marguerite F. Harris. They will oppose Richardson A. Walker, incumbent justice who was appointed to the office last fall.

The new candidates chose separate means to place their names on the non-partisan primary ballot. Mrs. Stumbaugh filed 27 petitions, hearing signatures of 27 qualified voters. Mrs. Harris filed a $5 filing fee.

Charles DeLap, county clerk, said the non-partisan office will be on a separate primary election ballot for the four precincts of the Odell District. The term of justice lasts for six years.

The primary election is May 20. The filing deadline is 5 p.m. this Friday.
