Public Relations Course Studied By Actor-General

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Grade B movie on an austerly budget could provide better props than Brig. Gen. James Stewart has for working his two weeks of active duty in the Pentagon Air Force headquarters.

The temporary desk assigned to the tall, taciturn actor is pushed up against the desks of another brigadier general and a colonel. It has no telephone. The pen doesn't work.

There is a tray of paper clips, a desk blotter, and a large pamphlet describing the administrative organization of the United States Air Force.

public information are on an in side ring of the gigantic Pentagon building. The view from the window includes a concrete wall and a row of windows across the way.

Reserve officers have "mobilization assignments," the job they would be assigned in event of war. Stewart's assignment is deputy director of information. He is getting on-the-job training.

Supervising is Maj. Gen. Arno H. Luehman, USAF director of information. Stewart is the stand-in for Brig. Gen. E. B. LeBailly, the regular deputy director of information.

The Air Force apparently is grim in its determination to give the actor a crash course in the art of public relations. There is a detailed schedule which looks like a film-shooting script—it carries Stewart through a score of briefings, meetings and conferences.

He hears about chains of command, press releases, photographic problems, training films, magazines and books and even how Hollywood productions can be useful or distasteful to the United States Air Force.

Stewart sits in on staff conferences where the public relations experts tell each other how high policy should or shouldn't be translated into news announcements, or how to cope with "flaps"—the Pentagon word for a tempest in a teapot.

This is all new for a man whose peacetime job is acting in movies and whose wartime assignment was to fly bombers. But he says he likes it.

Military briefings aren't new to Stewart. He says that during the past few years he has been on active duty several times at the USAF's Strategic Air Command headquarters at Omaha.

To his colleagues in the Pentagon, he is just General Stewart. The place is full of generals.

Margaret is the feminine Greek word for a pearl.

Results Noted In Honesty Test

NEW YORK (AP)—Two press agents plugging a movie called "A Touch of Larceny" decided to test the honesty of busy New Yorkers.

They dropped 10 wallets, each containing $5 and an identification card, on midtown streets and then watched.

Seven persons who picked up the wallets promptly called the telephone listed on the card. They talked to a theater manager who told them they could keep the money and pick up passes to the film.

The two men and a woman who found the other three wallets haven't been heard from.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FALTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy chew, no sticky taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FALTEETH at any drug counter.

ALBION, N.Y. (UPI)—While Assistant Fire Chief Tony Piazza was in bed with the flu, his men paid an unexpected call at his home. A kitchen fire had broken out in a rear apartment the family rents.
