

GN Plans New Tracks

Great Northern Railway plans to install four new tracks in its suburban yard that crosses Washburn Way. Superintendent Paul Cruikshank told the county court the railway has asked permission of the Public Utilities Commission for the tracks.

One track would replace an existing track, but the others would be additions. They would bring the total crossing Washburn Way to 19.

The county court renewed its appeal for Air Force funds to aid construction of an overpass on Washburn Way. An overpass has been under consideration for months, but has been delayed pending financial arrangements with the federal and state governments.

There were 656,000 marriages recorded in 1959 in the U.S. During the same year, there were 167,787 divorces and annulments.

DAIRY PRINCESS selection rules were studied this week by Farm Bureau Women. The organization is lending its support to the statewide contest which is sponsored by the Farm Bureau and Oregon Dairy Products Commission, Portland. Shown, from left, are Mrs. Earl G. Kerns and two of committee she named last Wednesday, Mrs. Ed Born of Henley and Mrs. John Toffel of Bonanza.

Rules Given For Selection Of Queen

Klamath County Farm Bureau Women have received the contest rules from the state headquarters covering selection of a Klamath County candidate in the statewide Dairy Princess contest, according to Mrs. Earl G. Kerns.

Initial committee members named by Mrs. Kerns at the Farm Bureau Women luncheon at the Winema Hotel on Wednesday include Mrs. Ed Born of Henley, Mrs. John Toffel of Bonanza, Mrs. Ray Hobson of Merrill, Mrs. Stan Masten Jr. and Mrs. Stan Masten Sr. of Poe Valley and John Harris, Klamath County Farm Bureau dairy chairman, Langell Valley.

The state rules state that the queen shall have a dairy background. Nominations are being received from all over Klamath County, naming girls who have had 4-H Club dairy projects and who have some dairy background. Entry blanks are available from the county Farm Bureau office on South Sixth Street.

To be eligible, a girl must be a high school graduate or a member of a graduating class, not less than 16 nor more than 25 years of age and never have married. May 1 is the deadline for submitting dairy princess candidates for the 1960 state contest so the local dairy princess must be chosen before that date, Mrs. Kerns pointed out.

The contest is part of the June Dairy Month promotion. As a kickoff for the dairy promotion, Earl Kent, of Klamath Falls Creamery Company, was guest speaker at the luncheon. He talked on consumer preference trends in dairy foods.

Back in 1890, when milk was 8.9 cents a quart, wages were 16 cents an hour, making it necessary to work nearly a half hour to buy one quart of milk, he pointed out. In 1953, milk had increased in price to 23.4 cents a quart and wages had gone up to $1.77 per hour. At that time, it took 7.9 minutes of labor to purchase a quart of milk. Last year, only 6.8 minutes of labor were required to buy a quart of milk, he stated.

"Fifteen per cent of the food dollar goes for dairy foods today," Kent said, "but this 15 per cent buys 25 per cent of the family's food needs."

Witnesses To Plane Mishap Spin Pattern Of Horror

Editor's Note: The witnesses, mostly farmers, to the crash of a Northwest Airlines Lockheed Electra in which 63 persons died Thursday all saw and heard a little differently, yet their reactions fit into a pattern of horror.

TELL CITY, Ind. (AP)—These are the ways Hoosiers remember—and try to explain—the awful sight and sound of a crashing airliner:

Cyril Powers: "I was just inside my barn and I heard two explosions. They weren't loud. It was more like two shots. I went outside and looked up. It was cloudy and the first thing I could see was a wing come through the clouds. Then the rest of the plane came through and it still had the left wing on it. The plane was falling at less than a 45-degree angle, almost straight down. I heard an explosion after it hit the ground and saw clothing and stuff blow up in the air. The concussion nearly knocked me to the ground."

Albert Harper: "I saw an awful big plane coming down end over end."

CARRY PARROT FEVER
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Health officials reported today three out of four pigeons tested in Memphis were found to be infected with a disease commonly called "parrot fever." The officials said they were attempting to determine if the pigeons could pass the disease to humans.

Two parts were coming down. It's so messed up, I can just say it looks terrible." Theodore Wilson: "I heard an explosion. I saw this plane falling. It hit the ground and blew up again. I was in World War II and I've heard plenty of sounds like the explosion from the air before. It sounded like a 500-pounder or a 16-inch shell exploding up in the sky. Parts of the fuselage, mail, bodies and debris of all kinds were scattered all over."

Mrs. McKinley Roberts, country storekeeper: "I heard an explosion which made a terrific thud, I saw a plane, or maybe it was just part of a plane going down. It was on fire."

Jake Wagner, 83: "I was working in my woodlot when I heard what sounded like a crack of thunder. It was tolerable loud. Then I heard another, not quite so loud. I saw a big ball of fire coming down. It hit the ground in my barley field. I couldn't see no bodies. Pretty soon the sheriff came and looked around and he couldn't see anything that looked like people either."

Local Men Attend Meet

Three local men attended a recent meeting of the South Central Oregon Section of the Pacific Northwest Pollution Control Association at Grants Pass.

They were Chester Barnes, sewage plant operator at Oregon Technical Institute; Wilbur Mills, plant operator at Klamath Municipal Airport, and Ival Taylor, operator at Malin.

The group, represented by treatment plant operators from Medford, Central Point and Grants Pass as well as the Klamath Basin, discussed several topics pertinent to their work.

Grants Pass City Manager Hugh McKinley welcomed delegates. Richard Hanson, operator of the Grants Pass disposal plant, led a tour of the city's sewage facilities.

Eight Taken To Prison

Eight Klamath County prisoners were taken to the state penitentiary Thursday by three sheriff's deputies and a city police officer. The prisoners were committed for offenses ranging from first degree murder to burglary.

Those removed to the penitentiary: Leonard Marvin Lugo, 21, sentenced to life for the murder of Joseph Owen Martinez; Leonard Thomas Powers, 25, sentenced to 15 years for armed robbery; Frank G. Sutton, 39, sentenced to three years for contributing to the delinquency of a minor; Charles Hood Jr., 29, sentenced to three years for aggravated assault.

William Joseph Peterson, 35, sentenced to five years for forgery; John Shadduk, 29, sentenced to five years for forgery; Harold S. Smith, 36, sentenced to three years for burglary.

The prisoners were taken in two cars and were escorted by Deputy Sheriffs Harold Perkins, John Holloway and Archie Davig, and by Odell Olson, city police officer. Lugo had filed notice of appeal to the state supreme court. His request for a trial transcript, to be paid later through a promissory note, was denied by Judge David R. Vandenberg.
