Miracle Man Loses Job

HOLGUIN, Cuba. (AP) — Licetor Moro for years was the miracle man to the peasants around the tiny town of San Augustine de Aguazas.

Alling poor flocked to Moro. For all he had the same treatment. He waved a finger over their heads and told them:

"Now you've been operated on. Come back in seven days to have the stitches and imaginary bandage removed."

Last Friday, one of Moro's patients, not satisfied, went to Holguin Hospital for treatment. There in the waiting room he found Moro.

A crowd soon gathered around the miracle man. But the haggard Moro was dispensing no treatment. His baby daughter, Maria Eufemia, was gravely ill with blocked intestines and needed an operation at once.

"I am willing to pay all that's necessary," Moro told the doctors, pleading for them to save his child's life.

The operation was successful, and Maria Eufemia was reported out of danger today. But San Augustine de Aguazas no longer has a miracle man.

Mrs. Ester Hyatt's birthday was celebrated at the Youth Club square dancing party held at the Willow Ranch Cook Shanty last Friday evening.

Paul Burr, a student at Fort Jones High School, moved from Fort Jones to the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Merle Burr, Greenview.
