Phoners Goof; Wires Crossed

PITTSBURGH, Kan. (AP)—The police department's telephone system went out and someone jokingly suggested burglars had cut the wires and were at work in a bank. The burglar alarm from the State Bank started ringing.

The desk officer sent all cars to the bank and all available men at headquarters headed there on the run.

The burglar alarm from the First National Bank started ringing.

Then the telephone company's test room called to beg pardon for getting the wires crossed.

GRANGE NEWS

Alice Hoover, Home Ec chairman, extends an invitation to all grange ladies and friends to attend a meeting of the Midland Home Ec Club Tuesday, April 5. Due to illness, Virginia Benoit will be unable to have the meeting at her home as planned. Instead, it will be at the Midland Grange Hall with a noon no-host potluck luncheon, followed by a 1 p.m. business meeting.

Thirteen candidates received the third grange degree, conferred by Shasta View Grange Master Ray Brackman and his staff of officers during ceremonies recently at Midland Grange Hall.

The candidates were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Barnes and Henry Davies of Shasta View Grange, and Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Hargrove, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Warsback, Merle Stewart, Hilbert Schneider, Peter Scalla and Alice Abbott of Midland Grange.

Fourth degrees were conferred on Mr. and Mrs. Carl Youngren of Riversdale Grange, Roseburg; Mr. and Mrs. Everett Wilson of Western Star Grange, Linn County, and Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Mitchell of Midland Grange by Alex Cammock, master of Midland Grange, and his staff.

Fourth degree candidates presented the "Harvest March." Ethel Youngren of Midland Grange recited a poem, "I am a Granger, by Gosh."

Members learned that Henry Hendrickson, state grange deputy of Sherwood, Oregon, will attend a Midland Grange meeting April 30 to show pictures he took of Klamath County grange activities and those he took during a recent tour of Sweden. The meeting will be open to the public and will begin with a no-host potluck dinner at 6:30 p.m.
