

NATIONAL LIBRARY WEEK, April 3 to 9, uses the slogan, "Wake Up and Read," to promote reading of books across the nation. Interesting and attractive displays of available books are set up in windows of several business firms this week. Taken from the shelves of the city library are these volumes on gardening, timely at this season of the year. Glancing through one book are, left to right, Addie Mae Nixon, city librarian, Mrs. Ralph Stearns and Mrs. Walter Brown, president of Oregon Federation of Women's Clubs, who is a member of the state sponsoring committee for National Library Week. — Photo by Kettler

TWENTY FIVE YEARS AGO Ellen McVeigh and George Clark were married in Salem on March 26. This year on that date the well known couple were hosts to their many friends at a cocktail party at Reames Country Club. The refreshment table was beautifully appointed with silver, tall white tapers in candelabra and an arrangement of calla lilies backed by silver leaves. The Clarks, pictured with their daughter, Nancy, a junior at the University of Oregon, have resided in Klamath Falls during most of their married life. They are both active in most civic and social affairs of the city. Mrs. Clark is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Boque, longtime residents of this area. — Photo by Kettler

left. Miniature dolls dressed in frilly frocks centered the small tables. Individual places were marked with silver tipped net carnation place cards in pastel shades. — Photo by Kettler
