Fragrance

"A beautifully dressed woman without an aura of fragrance is as 'incomplete' as a picture without a frame," says the Fragrance Foundation, and outlines some tips in the fine art of framing your own fashion picture for an exhilarating picture could there be one of the provocative and sexy scents belonging to the 'fruit' family, a sparkling blend with a dominant citrus note.

First consider the fashion mood of your costume and then select a perfume that "looks" right with it. Although fragrance is the invisible fashion accessory, it has the power to create a strong image in the mind of every one you meet. And the variety of types of fragrance, each with its own type of different perfume that is as striking and sophisticated as your costume. An Oriental, for example, the short pleated blend with its rich, deep tones skirts that swing out in front of the fashion parade this year have a gay, light-hearted feeling. Top fashion's pet, and this year beige is a plectrum costume with one of the new back-of-the-head betones perfect fragrance accent here is seen every season, the woman who wears the most magnificent flowered hat she can find. If a many blossomed collection is your focal point of fashion, concentrate on a floral fragrance to intensity the lush blooming effect, either a single flower essence or a fragrance bouquet that blends a whole garden of flowers. And whichever fragrance you choose, do wear it boldly for full effectiveness. Lavish cologne or toilet water on your skin before dressing; then apply perfume in the same scent to all the pulse spots (temple, throat, and arms) just before you go out.

WHETHER you're a darkening blonde, a brownette or a redhead with a secret desire to be a blonde, it couldn't be easier to lighten and brighten your hair to a new loveliness. Richard Hudnut's Light and Bright is an easy-to-use lightener for home use.

LIGHT & BRIGHT

Wishing for a new wardrobe and something to give you a real boost? With the first sign of spring every woman's thoughts turn to refurbishing, not only her wardrobe, but her appearance, and a wonderful way to do both is to change your hair coloring. Yes indeed! Your whole wardrobe perks up, your clothes take on a new look when you lighten and brighten your hair and at the same time your spirits go up-up-up!

Richard Hudnut's unique hair lightener for home use makes this something easy to achieve and in such a short time!

There are many ways of doing this—you may wish to lighten your hair all over—or you may just wish to give yourself "streaks of light" to highlight your own natural coloring. Or, you might like to add a "touch of light" to the ends of your hair—or a "nimbus" of blondness to surround your face. Whatever you desire it couldn't be easier.

With Light and Bright you can become golden - topped without worry about a too drastic change or damage to your hair.

This colorless liquid requires no mixing and no timing. It's simply applied directly to the hair—but you control the color because the lightening process is so gradual. After the very first application, your hair will be brighter, lighter and prettier—and you stop there if that is all the change you wish. But if you want a lighter shade, just wait one day and repeat with another application. The effect is lasting and won't fade or wash out. And when your hair starts showing darker at the roots, you simply retouch it with Light and Bright—in just minutes!

To add "streaks of light" just cut a slit in a piece of cardboard—about 3/5 inches. Pull the section of hair you want lightened through the slit and hold the card against your head to cover surrounding hair while you simply apply Light and Bright where you want the streak to be.

For "touches of light" on the hair tips—just brush Light and Bright on the ends of your hair only.

And—for a "nimbus" effect, comb Light and Bright through the strands of hair that frame your face.
