Labeling Law Is Aid To Shopper

Shoppers can plan on getting more from buys on spring wardrobes with the new textile fiber law that requires labeling of all fibers by "family" and fiber trademarks.

Some of the benefits of the new law are explained by home economists of the Oregon State College extension service.

In the past, they say, the shopper almost had to be trained as a chemist to identify some of the 16 fiber "families" and more than 60 tradenames given to man-made fibers. In some cases, experts could not tell by look or feel the make-up of many fibers.

With the new labeling law, the required labels must contain the fiber "family" name and percentages of fibers, by weight, in the product. In addition, the label must contain the name—or other registered identification—of the manufacturer or other persons marketing or handling it.

Home economists offer labeling of rayon as an example. Rayon, a manufactured fiber, is now sold under about 45 tradenames, which vary greatly and differ in suitable uses. Yet, regardless of the trademark, all rayon should receive about the same care. Under the new law, the "family" name—rayon—must appear on the label in equal size print with the fiber trademark.

Articles of wearing apparel, costumes and accessories, draperies, floor coverings, furnishings, bedding and other textile products commonly used around the house must be fully labeled under the act. Furs and woolsens have been labeled for several years under previous laws.

Once the shopper knows what she's buying, she's in a better position to care for her purchases, say specialists. To aid shoppers in understanding the new law, Mary Routh, OSC clothing specialist, has written a new bulletin, "Read the Fiber Label for Clues to Clothing Care." Oregon residents can obtain free copies at their county extension office, or from the OSC bulletin clerk, Corvallis.

matter of FACT

During World War I Benito Mussolini, then a socialist, was arrested for advocating war against Italy's ally, Germany. Under him, Italy became a German ally in W.W. II.

Always Tested
FREE
by Competent Technicians
at ACE TV!

And, to keep you from making useless purchases, we operate tube TESTERS, not tube SELLERS!
Over 74 of the tubes that check WEAK when tested, will work perfectly in the set; most of them, in fact, BETTER than a cheap replacement.

As an example, most weak audio (sound) tubes will put out more than wanted by merely turning up the volume control.
So we simply say, don't be confused by a tube SELLER misrepresenting as a tube ANALYZER. Have your tubes properly tested by your favorite service shop. They WILL save you money!

And for the finest in Radio-TV service, it's ...
