Scream Foils Purse Theft

Ruth Heidrich, 326 Washington Street, told city police two young men tried to steal her handbag as she walked toward the county library Wednesday evening. She said she and a friend approached an alley on Third Street between Main Street and Klamath Avenue and were accosted by the men. One grabbed her bag and both ran toward Main Street. She screamed and gave chase. She said. The culprit dropped the bag. Officers also learned of two apparent attempted burglaries during the night. Sister Superior Marie Angelita of Sacred Heart Academy said someone broke a pane on a door leading to the school kitchen, unlocked the door and entered, but stole nothing. And Roy Jackson, 2314 South Sixth Street, told officers someone forced the sliding bolt off a door leading to his office there and entered. Again, nothing was found missing. Gary Dunn, 500 North Ninth Street, notified police of the attempted theft of his luggage as his car was parked Tuesday evening on Pine and North Eleventh streets. Dunn said something probably scared the thief. He found one handbag off the wheel but still at the scene. Leonard Moran, 630 Pine Street, was not so lucky. He lost all four of his flipper-type caps to thieves while his car was parked Wednesday night at Pine and Sixth streets. He said the caps were worth $30. And Wayne Martin, 1945 South Sixth Street, complained a thief took a 10 by 10 foot cloth cover from his boat where it was parked Wednesday night at 1945 South Sixth Street.

Witnesses Plan Meet

James H. Morse, manager of the "Seek Peace and Pursue It" Circuit Convention of Jehovah's Witnesses, began supervising the transformation of the Klamath Auditorium into a giant "steel kingdom hall" today, in preparation for the weekend Bible conference which begins Friday at 6:45 p.m. "Volunteer craftsmen have worked up plans for the proper installation of all equipment," Morse said. "It may surprise some to learn that all planning and actual installation work is done by Jehovah's Witnesses who receive no pay for this," Morse added. "Twenty different departments, including administration, rooming, information, refreshment, cafeteria, first aid and check rooms are being set up, and even a crew to keep the auditorium spick and span during the Christian gathering," he continued. Morse was ordained as a minister 20 years ago in Medford, Oregon. He has since attended four international conventions and some 31 district and circuit gatherings. Mrs. Morse works closely with her husband in the missionary work in the Ashland area. He has been employed as a bookkeeper since 1948 and is currently employed as office manager at a wholesale lumber company in Medford, Oregon. He received his appointment as convention manager in April, 1956. "The highlight of the convention program comes Sunday, April 17, at 3 p.m.," the minister said. "Lester M. Dugan, a traveling minister from the New York headquarters, will deliver the free public Bible address, 'Finding Peace in a Troubled World.'" Morse concluded.

Worden Lad Asks Time

A 17-year-old Worden youth asked for additional time in district court Wednesday before answering a charge of assault and battery upon a gasoline station attendant. The request was made by William James, who was remanded to district court after hearing before Juvenile Judge Charles H. Foster. James and Lawrence Jones, 22, were accused of attacking attendant W. A. Gossett at a Worden service station Sunday night. Officers said the youths ordered gas, then challenged Gossett to a fight. Gossett attempted to dissuade them, but when one approached with a knife, Gossett struck each with an oil can and beat each youth with his fists. The youths fled, and stopped by a hospital to see whether their jaws were broken. They were not. James was ordered to enter plea April 21 at 10 a.m. and was returned to jail in lieu of $100 had. Jones, to plea at the same time, was released after posting bail.

Deadline Said Near

Chairman Earl Wilson of the Klamath County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee today urged wool growers who sold wool or lambs during the 1959 marketing year which ended March 31 to file their applications for payment under the national wool program as early in April as possible. Early filing is highly desirable, Wilson said, because the information on applications is needed for use in computing the average price received by growers. This must be done before the payment rates for shorn wool and unshorn lambs can be determined. Since April 30 falls on Saturday this year, the final date for filing applications is May 2, 1960. "The applications being filed at this time are to show all sales of wool and unshorn lambs during the period between April 1, 1959 and March 31, 1960. For a sale to be considered completed during that period, title must have passed to the buyer, the wool must have been delivered, and the last of the net sales proceeds must be available. Wilson urges growers to be particularly careful in reporting purchases of unshorn lambs on their applications. Inaccuracy on this point is the most troublesome problem in administering the wool payment program, he said. Under the wool program, payments are made to growers as an incentive to increase wool production. The payment rate is the percentage necessary to bring the national average price received by growers up to the incentive level of 62 cents a pound. Under the percentage system, the grower who receives the highest price for his wool also receives the largest payment.

Assessment Ratio Posted

County Assessor Hap Caldwell posted today the county's assessment ratio for the 1960-61 tax year beginning July 1. It is 20 per cent, the same as last year. This means that real property will be entered on assessment rolls at 20 per cent of its market value. Thus, a home valued at $100,000 on the market would be valued at $20,000 for tax purposes. The ratio next goes to the County Board of Equalization for approval. The board is expected to review the ratio Monday. The ratio then goes to the State Tax Commission for review. Few complications are expected, because the ratio is unchanged from last year.

Charge Dropped

An assault charge against Harold Walker, 23, 4308 Abram Street, was dropped in district court Wednesday on ground of insufficient evidence. Walker was accused of firing a .25 caliber pistol into a parked car and wounding Raymond Riddle, 26, Medford, in the forearm. He was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, a felony. At Walker's preliminary hearing before District Judge D. E. Van Vactor, Attorney Freeman Murray moved for dismissal of the charge on ground the state could not positively identify Walker with the shooting incident of April 4. The judge agreed, and Walker was released. State witnesses presented by Deputy District Attorney Ernest Gordon were Chauncy Scott and Capt. Kenneth Douglass of Kingsley Field, Hiddle, Wendell Eggenman of Chiloquin, and City Police Lt. Archie Huff.

Mother Kneels In Court; Weeps For Dead Baby

By TOM STIMMEL He also said evidence would show Ethel Breeding Bursik show Gairson stopped beating the kneeling on the courtroom floor baby when it began to bleed from this morning and went bitter tears over the death of her 11-month-old son. The 20-year-old mother was the state's star witness in the first-degree murder trial of William Olen Gairson, a ranchhand who swore in a near-shout, "Yes, I did it. He told me not to interfere, or he'd kill me, too." She told of taking the baby to Bonanza in search of a doctor, finding none, and taking it on to Malin. It was then that she quoted Gairson's reference to the electric chair, but she could recall nothing else said to her. Beddoe asked the court for permission to place a leading question, but the judge sustained the objection of Defense Attorney Warren Lesless. Beddoe had said in his opening statement yesterday that Gairson had given Mrs. Bursik a differential, and cupped her hands in front of her knees. "He was down like this, and he was beating the baby's head against the floor," she wept. Her voice trailed off into tears. Beddoe asked Judge James M. Main for a recess so the small, bewildered witness could collect her emotions. Mrs. Bursik, second witness in the state's case against Gairson, said Gairson had threatened twice last December to kill the child, Gary Lee Bursik. She also testified that Gairson expressed fear of "getting the electric chair for this." Beddoe had told a seven-woman, five-man jury yesterday afternoon that testimony would show that Gairson had beaten the baby brutally - fatally - because it had bitten him on a finger. These conflicting stories were emphasized in opening statements yesterday afternoon. At that time, Lesless told the jury in reference to Beddoe's opening remarks, "These matters Mr. Beddoe has told you are not matters of fact. They are matters he thinks the state will be able to prove." Lesless told the jury "the evidence is going to show exactly what happened. We will show it from the witness stand." Earlier he said, "We are not going to tell you all we know now." But he referred to the earlier story - that the baby was dropped in play - and said, "Ethel continued to tell this same story, and she told it to a number of people. After repeated interrogations, she told the story Mr. Beddoe told you today." The courtroom was jammed for the morning session of the trial, now in its fourth day, but developing interest for the first time because of a long delay in obtaining a jury. All 60 spectator seats were filled this morning, and half a dozen spectators were standing.

Trees Planted By Girls' Group

MERRILL - Merrill Camp Fire and Blue Bird girls planted 150 Douglas Fir trees at the Veiling remnants of Foreign Wars hall, around homes of members, and at the Walt Fotheringham ranch here Saturday. They also planted a mountain ash at Merrill Elementary school. Trees at the Fotheringham ranch will form a windbreak when they get large. The planting was a special Arbor Day portion of the girls' national "She Cares-Do You?" three-year conservation project. The Rev. Lloyd Henderson officiated. Members picnicked after the planting. Lesless, in his opening statement, reviewed in detail the earlier life of Ethel Breeding Bursik, and remarked that at the time of Gary Lee Bursik's death last December 17, Mrs. Bursik had a 25 caliber automatic in her tenant house on the U-I Ranch near Bonanza. He said the gun belonged to her.
