

RECENT GUESTS at the Ted Hyde home, 1320 Pacific Terrace, were Mrs. Hyde's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Paul Howe of Washington, D.C. The Howes arrived March 27 just after their arrival aboard the SS President Cleveland in San Francisco following a two month stay in India. Dr. Howe, a retired colonel and at present a nutrition consultant in Washington, was a representative of the United States to the first World Agricultural Fair held in India, at which the United States was the only free country exhibiting. Mrs. Howe, an accomplished weaver, returned with many lovely woven pieces, which she is pictured showing her daughter. She spent much time studying the Indian dyes and weaving techniques which are now being taught by the government.

ANNOUNCED recently in Eugene by Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Voeltz is the engagement of their daughter, Katherine, to Kenneth Ray Barke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett L. Barke, of Klamath Falls. The bride-to-be is a graduate of Eugene High School and attended University of Oregon. Her fiancé is an art major at the university. A June wedding is planned by the couple.

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russ McFall and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Greenbank are parents of Ronnie and Marla. They are the grandchildren of Mrs. Earl McFall. The families all reside in Tulelake.

Extension Units Plan Festival

The annual Homemakers Festival will be held this year at the Peace Memorial Presbyterian Church, 4431 South Sixth Street, on April 28. The theme will be "Extension — A Homemaker's Garden".

Guest speakers will be Evelyn Funk, state extension agent, and J. D. Vertrees, county extension agent.

Doors will open at 10 a.m. for viewing of project displays. A dress showing of the pattern fitting workshop will be from 10:45 until 11:45. Tea and coffee will be served at noon.

Projects studied this past year by the units throughout Klamath County were rug and upholstery cleaning, beef cookery, soups, pattern fitting, laundering of synthetics and kitchen storage of electrical equipment. Completed project work will be shown at the festival.
