C of C Hears State Aide

"One of the greatest frauds ever perpetrated on the American people is the wishful thinking that government can solve any problem we may have if we just pass enough laws and spend enough money" Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. told the Awards Banquet of the Junior Chamber of Commerce here Thursday night.

Citing the problems of divorce, juvenile delinquency, violence, nervous breakdown, and alcoholism he said, "These are problems of the human heart and the human mind and we might as well make up our minds that we can't buy easy, pat answers to them."

We will solve our social problems only when we get back to fundamental principles of individual responsibility, family unity, and spiritual guidance and stop relying so much on government, he said.

Turning to the economic field, Appling said "We will be a lot better off when we start devoting our efforts to making the free enterprise system work instead of being so anxious to trade it in favor of socialism. It has brought us the highest standard of living on earth and we had better not forget it."

Appling described socialism, which he said is luring the "left-wing political demagogues today as nothing but a giant exercise in wishful thinking."

BASHFUL CAVE DWELLER

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI)—One entry on the 1960 census for the Juliaetta area north of here is likely to read: "Unkown man. Dwelling, cave."

Roy Mossman, north Idaho census supervisor, said Monday that is the only way they can list the man who flees everytime a woman census enumerator approaches his cave to question him.

Some 30,000 gallons of water are required to convert waste paper into one ton of pulp.
