Agency Staff Prefers Smith Carries Campaign To County On Thursday

The Federal Power Commission's technical staff has found a multipurpose high dam to be superior at the Middle Snake River site of the proposed High Mountain Sheep project. In a telegram to the Herald and News Monday morning from J. H. Ferguson, news director of Pacific Power and Light Company, the action of the staff was reported. The telegram said, "Development of the power and flood control resources of Middle Snake River with a multipurpose High Mountain Sheep project has been found superior to the alternate Nez Perce plan by the technical staff of the Federal Power Commission. Findings of the commission's engineering staff have just been placed in the record for the hearings to begin November 4 before the federal agency on the rival applications for a license to build major powerplants on the Snake River. "The FPC staff studies were based on several parallel basic assumptions as to project starting time and interest rates of money, and show more power is developed, greater flood control benefits are obtained and substantially better net annual benefits favoring the high mountain plan of development. "A spokesman for Pacific Northwest Power Company, which has long sought to build a 600-foot High Mountain Sheep project, noted Monday the staff report places the technical group of the commission in agreement with the engineering studies and conclusions of the power company. "The Washington Public Power Supply System, formed by PUDs of Washington state, proposes to build the Nez Perce dam below the mouth of the Salmon River at a site that has brewed up a storm of protest among fisheries, agencies and sports fishermen. It would block salmon runs into the Salmon River tributary of the Snake. "On the assumption that the alternative plans could be completed in 1967, the FPC staff said the High Mountain Sheep plan would have a power advantage over the Nez Perce plan of 177,999 kilowatts of prime power. At an interest rate of 4 1/2 per cent, the net annual costs of High Mountain Sheep plan would be $609,000 less costly than Nez Perce, the FPC staff said. "On the assumption that High Mountain Sheep could be in service in 1967, but that Nez Perce or lower canyon was delayed an additional 10 years to 1977, the agency's staff found that at 4 1/2 per cent interest rate, the advantage for High Mountain Sheep would average $11,211,000 every year over a 60-year period. "In economic feasibility studies, the FPC gave High Mountain Sheep a benefit to cost ratio of 1.47 to one against a maximum of 1.35 to one for Nez Perce. The staff generally approved the designs for both projects, finding each competent and sage. "Cost estimates submitted earlier by both applicants received general acceptance by the agency staff, which adjusted High Mountain Sheep to cost of $190,662,000 and put a figure of $425,914,999 on Nez Perce dam. "The High Mountain Sheep plan calls for a dam at High Mountain Sheep on the Snake River at a site leaving the Salmon River open to passage of fish, a low-head regulating dam, a China Garden site downstream, and considers that after fish passage problems are solved for the Salmon River, the lower canyon site on that river could ultimately be built. The Nez Perce Dam proposed by the PUDs would impound lakes in both Snake and Salmon River and have a regulating dam at China Gardens. "Pacific Northwest Power Company was formed by Portland General Electric, Washington Water Power, Montana Power Company and Pacific Power and Light Company."

Elmo Smith, Ex-Governor, Elmo Smith, Albany, will carry his campaign for the U. S. Senate to Klamath Falls Thursday, October 13. This will be his final visit in this area prior to the November 8 general election. Norman Wilson and Darrell Heard are heading the Klamath County Smith for U. S. Senator Committee as chairman and co-chairman, respectively. Marlow O'Connor is secretary. Wilson stated that the "flying candidate" will have a busy round of campaign activities while in the city. Details of the day will be announced soon. However, it has been determined that at least one major address will be on the agenda. Wilson also announced that the results of a recent statewide poll have been released by the Elmo Smith State Headquarters. The survey, taken in September, showed that the voter trend is 48 per cent for Elmo Smith and 52 per cent for Maurine Neuberger. Wilson stated that a survey was also taken in July. "Comparing the second poll with the first, we find that Smith has gained 15 per cent and Mrs. Neuberger has lost 15 per cent and, as a result, the Smith campaign workers have stepped up their campaign activities and in many cases are working around the clock to assure the election of Elmo Smith as our next United States senator," commented Chairman Wilson. Former Governor Smith has been active in politics for many years as mayor of Ontario, president of the Senate, and governor of Oregon. He became governor following the death of Paul Pat-

Mountain Sheep Dam

Police Hold Local Men Four men suspected of possessing money order forms stolen from a post office branch here in September now are being held in Oakland under a federal charge. City police here said the men, two of them from Klamath Falls, were arraigned before a United States attorney on a charge of defrauding the United States government. Included were Rick C. Lynn, 35, Klamath Falls, and Charles A. Mann, 27, San Jose, formerly of Klamath Falls. They, with James Ferguson, 27, Denver, and Robert R. Barrett, 24, Los Angeles, were arrested in an Oakland hotel last Thursday. In their hotel room, police found money order forms worth a maximum $29,400, two pistols, and postage stamps. Police suspect at least one of the four men participated in a post office branch robbery in the Bay Lou supermarket here September 28. Officers said 34 money order forms, each with a maximum value of $100, were stolen from the branch post office. Mann told Oakland police the four men had cashed about $3,000 worth of money orders before their arrest. A fifth man, James Rutledge, 29, Klamath Falls, was arrested in San Jose Friday. He was not arraigned in federal court, however. Police here said the four men arraigned could be held to a federal grand jury, or could waive grand jury hearing and go to trial. The charge involves cashing fraudulent money orders — not stealing them — so trial probably would be held in California, police said.

Police Check Car Mishap

City police were called Saturday to investigate a car resting on its wheels halfway between Lakeshore Boulevard and Upper Klamath Lake, about 200 yards west of Fremont Bridge. Officers found the car had skidded 100 feet and had rolled before landing right side up between the road and the lake. No driver was to be found, and the car bore no registration papers. In the car were found a 30-30 rifle, a box of ammunition, a suitcase, and other personal possessions. Later police learned the car was registered to Ronnie Reeves, former Klamath Falls resident now living in Lodi, California. Police said Reeves apparently called his mother, Mrs. Marian Reeves, to tell her of the accident. He said he was not driving, and he also mentioned loss of his wallet containing $65 to $70. Officers said they have not yet learned who was driving the car, which was towed from the accident scene. Other accident reports: Robert Alfred Green, 73 High Street, told police he was driving on South Sixth Street near Owens Saturday evening when he turned his head to look behind him. In that moment, his car moved too close to a car in the next lane. It sideswiped the other vehicle, driven by Lucille M. Crawley, 1746 Bryn Street. Willis Martin Robinson, 1433 Derby Street, was cited for reckless driving after his car struck a parked car owned by Charles Rader at 1920 Main Street about 9:30 p.m. Saturday. Robinson received minor facial cuts, police said.

Thieves Strike Feed Company

MALIN — Thieves broke into Malin Grain and Feed Company over the weekend and stole a typewriter worth $100 and an electric calculator worth $400. The theft was discovered Sunday at 10 a.m. by the company's proprietor, Jerry Brown. Klamath County sheriff's deputies who investigated said the thieves entered through a rear room window. They stole nothing except the business machines. A safe and a drawer containing money were not touched, officers said. Deputies believe the theft occurred Saturday night. The firm, which deals in grain storage, cleaning and sales, is located along the Great Northern Railway tracks just east of the city limits.
