Keep Eye Open For This Kook

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I've dated a boy for two years, but never steadily. During that time he has frequently followed me when I've turned around in the street and seen him sitting behind me. Often when I've returned from an evening out he's parked in front of our house, or sitting on the porch. Sometimes he's on the front steps or stretched out on the lawn.

I find his behavior annoying but I never considered it any more than that until a friend told me he must be nuts, and maybe dangerous. What can I do about it?—ENID

Dear Enid: The boy may be only a pest but there's no reason for you to be hounded by him. Ask your father to keep an eye open for this kook and when he catches him on your property to make it plenty clear he's not to follow you or hang around the house ever again. The boy should be told also if he shows up once more, the police will be notified.

Dear Ann Landers: Our son is 23. He served his time in the Army and now has a job that pays him $110 a week. He dresses like Prince Rastier, wouldn't wear a shirt without cuff links and has very high-class taste in food.

He spends every cent on himself and is in debt to the clothing stores. He owes on a new car and takes girls to the most expensive places in town.

My husband makes less than our son does and yet he often has to lend him money. Don't you think a boy 23 should pay something for room, board, laundry and maid service? I've hinted a few times but he says he wouldn't insult us.

SERVICE SINCE 1921

by offering us money. — JUST FOLKS

Dear Folks: Tell this spoiled, self-centered leech that you'd like to be "insulted" with about $25 a month. This should have been decided when the young man came back from the service and went to work. If he thinks he can do it cheaper, elsewhere, invite him to try it.

Dear Ann Landers: You never had a problem like this before, in fact, you may have to ask someone to help you find an answer—unless you happen to play the bassoon yourself.

I'm 19 years old now—a boy—and have wanted to play the bassoon since I can remember. I begged my folks for years to buy me one, and they finally did—six months ago.

The trouble is they won't let me practice. Whenever I start my mother says she has a splitting headache or my pa says I'm interfering with his TV program, or my sister says she can't hear her hi-fi. When no one is at home and I take out the bassoon, the neighbors phone up (we live in a four family flat) and tell me the baby is trying to sleep, or Grandpa isn't well.

How can I ever get accomplished if no one will let me practice? Please help me.—LEWIS

Dear Lewis: Every school has a few music rooms where kids can practice to their heart's content. Take the bassoon to school, get permission from the music instructor and you can blow your brains out several hours a day if you want to.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-address envelope.
