Police Claim Motive Was Armed Robbery Try

Hartel, heard the shots, ran to the bar, and called police. Krohn had fled.

Officers attempted to comfort and encourage Young, whom they found lying in a pool of his own blood. One lit a cigarette for him.

From the registration, they went to his address at 310 South Fifth Street, a rooming house half a block from police headquarters.

Three officers guarded all exits, while two others went to the door. "Would you be looking for Mr. Krohn?" the landlady asked when she saw the officers.

At the door, one officer was crouched against the house with his gun drawn. Another was crouched in shadows, his gun drawn.

Krohn came down the steps with a butcher knife in his hand. Faced with two drawn revolvers, he surrendered immediately.

An officer found an empty, .25 caliber, nickel-plated revolver in his pants pocket.

Krohn was thrown in a drunk tank where, officers said, he was grinning and laughing this morning.

Young was able to talk with officers and District Attorney Dale Crabtree from his hospital bed. He seemed in good spirits.

His wife, standing by his side, was told by a doctor that her husband might die, officers said. "That's quite a shock, isn't it?" she was asked.

American, 12 Cubans Executed

Mountains. Two were reported to have been rebel leaders.

Radio VOZ in Havana said the firing squads were composed of militiamen. The duty officer at Santa Clara military headquarters said he had no immediate information on executions there, but the government-controlled stations usually are well informed.

Zarba, a 27-year-old adventurer who landed on the northeast coast of Cuba with a small party of invaders last week, was the first U.S. citizen to die before a Castro firing squad. Another American, Alan Robert Nye of Whiting, Ind., was given a death sentence last year for plotting to kill Castro, but the sentence was suspended and he was expelled from the country.

The U.S. embassy appealed to Castro's government Wednesday night for a stay of execution and clemency for Zarba, but this apparently was ignored.

A five-man military tribunal sentenced Zarba and seven of his Cuban invasion companions to death Wednesday night after convicting them of landing with a 27-man group on the northeast coast of Oriente province last week. A military appeals court quickly rejected defense attorneys' appeals from the death penalty.

Another American, Richard Pecoraro of Staten Island, N.Y., was reported among 167 defendants in the Santa Clara mass trial sentenced to prison terms ranging from 20 to 30 years. The military tribunal sentenced two women in that trial to 15 years.

The 174 defendants in Santa Clara were captured during a weekend roundup of guerrillas operating against Castro's forces in the Escambray Mountains of south central Cuba.

Catholic youth organizations and women attempted to organize an anti-execution demonstration at one of Santa Clara's churches Wednesday. But a mob of about 200, shouting "pardon" (to the execution wall), blocked the church entrance and dispersed the would-be demonstrators.

Runaway: Officer Nabs Youth

A 15-year-old boy, wearing handcuffs, escaped from an officer yesterday, hitchhiked into Klamath Falls and stole a car from a downtown lot.

He was arrested by a state police officer because one headlight on the stolen car was out. The officer, at the time, was not patrolling a regular beat, but had taken a drive on a whim.

Juvenile officers here said the youth, Julius David Spangler, of Chemult, was being taken to Medford yesterday to face an auto theft charge.

One mile west of King Cole, on the Greensprings Highway on Parker Mountain, the youth told his guard, Juvenile Counselor Robert Schmidt of Medford, he was sick. It was 3:30 p.m.

Schmidt let the handcuffed youth out of the car. The boy shouted, "Goodbye," and disappeared into the woods.

Spangler told officers he walked about five miles until he came to an inactive logging operation where he found a pair of gloves that concealed his handcuffs.

On a dirt road, he flagged down a car, told the driver he had had car trouble, and was driven into Klamath Falls.

Here, still wearing handcuffs, he stole a car from Jackelund used car lot and drove north. The state police officer noticed one headlight was out, stopped Spangler, and noticed the handcuffs.

The youth attempted to joke about the cuffs. He said his father was a former officer, and had cuffed him as a practical joke. But the officer didn't buy the story.

The youth was lodged in city jail, and was to start another trip toward Medford today.

Juvenile officers here said Spangler was placed in a foster home in Jackson County after being given a suspended sentence for stealing $5 from a cash register in February. He escaped from the home and returned to his mother's home in northern Klamath County.

A week ago, officers said, he was arrested for stealing a 30-30 rifle from a pickup truck in Gilchrist. A juvenile officer here recognized the boy as being wanted in Medford for auto theft, and his return was ordered.

Worker Killed In Accident

BURNEY—Roy R. Bishop, 50, was killed Wednesday when a 40-foot section of 36-inch pipe rolled over him while he was unloading the pipe from a railroad car east of here in Shasta County.

The report is that Kubek was hit on the larynx resulting in internal bleeding and was taken to a hospital. Long lined a single to right, Richardson stopping at second. That was all for Friend who

Death Takes Car Victim

FORT JONES — John William Jerry, 45, a longtime resident of the Fort Jones area, died Wednesday morning in Siskiyou County General Hospital, Yreka, from injuries he received in an auto accident near here Sunday afternoon.

The car's driver, Alfred Albers, 36, of Hoopa and Fort Jones, was killed instantly in the accident on the Fort Jones-Yreka Highway four miles northeast of here on a slight curve a mile southwest of Moffett Creek Bridge.

Both men were thrown out of the car, said sheriff's deputies and California Highway Patrolmen, when it went out of control and overturned. Albers was pinned beneath the wreckage, officers said.

Jerry was listed in critical condition in the hospital until he died. Jerry is survived by the widow, Geneva; daughters, Ida Jean and Shirley Ann; a son, Anthony; a brother, Lewis, and a sister, Mrs. Melissa Case, all of Fort Jones.

Services will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. in Girardin's Fort Jones Chapel. Burial will be in Fort Jones Cemetery.

Jerry was born February 10, 1915, at Somes Bar. He lived all his life in the Quartz Valley area. He was a logger.

Acute Shock Kills Basinite

MALIN—A common bee stung Willard Max Pedigo, 38, while he was working on the Stanley Johnson ranch here Tuesday noon. A few minutes later, Pedigo was dead.

A medical doctor said Pedigo apparently died from acute shock produced by the bee's venom. He died before he could be brought inside Malin Clinic.

Some people are extremely allergic to bee venom, the doctor said. Cases of death by bee stings are rare, but they happen, he said.

Pedigo leaves the widow, Dorothy; sons, James and Billy, and a daughter, Lovetta. Funeral arrangements are under direction of O'Hair's Memorial Chapel, Klamath Falls.

Pedigo was a farm laborer working with the potato harvest. The family was formerly from Mount Angel.

Following his Klamath Falls visit, he will return to Portland for the closing weeks of the campaign.

AGRICULTURE PROBLEM

He was also emphatic in a stand that the agricultural problem should not be a political affair. It's a non-partisan problem, he said, and should have the best thinking of all persons.

Smith also took this moment to point out that his opponent had voted against virtually every measure in the State Legislature that would have benefited agriculture while his vote had virtually always been in favor.

Smith also listed a housing program which would provide single unit dwellings in the low cost field without incurring the credit of the federal government. Such a program, he said, would be modeled after the financing structure of the Veterans Housing Program in Oregon which has been very successful and returned profits to the state treasury.
