Lay Off Joy Juice. Take A Good Look

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Last Sunday my wife and I attended a wedding. We had to stop at a couple of cocktail parties on the way. I admit I was a little high but I certainly was not drunk.

A very handsome guy (prematurely gray at the temples) was also at the wedding. He got quite chummy with my wife — in fact you might even say he made a pass at her. This guy has been a long-time friend and I didn't think much about it. As I said, I was feeling good and thought it was "all in fun."

After thinking it over it seems to me he was way out of line. Should I have a talk with him and set him straight?—THINKING IT OVER

Dear Thinking: I don't know your idea of "feeling good" but I've seen characters who felt so good they couldn't move.

Now is no time to have a talk with a fellow about something you think you saw through blood-shot eyes.

The next time you go where liquor is served try an experiment. Lay off the joy-juice and take a good look at what goes on around you. You may just go to cocktail parties forever.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

half of his platoon. They were divorced within five months.

This fellow is from out of town and nobody here knows about his past. My folks are very strict, and terribly concerned about what people think. I'd feel like a sneak if I didn't tell them. On the other hand it isn't their business, is it? Should I tell them or not?—STUMPED EARLY

Dear Stumped: Tell them. Skeletons have an uncanny way of falling out of closets. When they do, they make quite a clatter. It's most unnerving, when unexpected.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Two Measures On Ballot Look Alike, But One Will Cost Taxpayers Money

By PAUL W. HARVEY JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

Ballot Measures 6 and 8 would authorize bonds for state buildings. They look somewhat alike. But there's a big difference: One would cost the taxpayers money and the other would not.

No. 6 would permit the issuance of $47.5 million in new bonds for construction of dormitories, student unions and athletic facilities at the state university and colleges. This is the one that would not cost the taxpayers anything, because the bonds would be financed by rentals and fees paid by the students.

But Measure No. 8 provides for a 10-year $40 million program for construction of buildings for state institutions, departments and higher education. This one would cost the taxpayers $2.7 million a year for 20 years.

The state Board of Higher Education is pushing hard for the dormitory bond bill. It says that new dormitories are needed badly, and it fears that the voters may confuse that measure with No. 8.

There is no organized opposition to the dormitory measure. Such bonds have been issued for many years, and the bonds always have been self-financed. The measure, by granting the authority for the $47.5 million in bonds, would be boosting the ceiling to $71.5 million.

In submitting Measure No. 8 to the people, the Legislature decided that since posterity would use the $40 million worth of buildings, then let posterity pay for them. It contains a limit of $15 million on the amount of bonds that could be issued in any one year.

There is no question but that many new buildings will be needed. The question is shall bonds be issued, or shall the buildings be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis?

Agency Gives Ruling On Timber

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department opinion that patents held by Al Sarena Mining Co. on timber land in Oregon can not be set aside was made public Saturday.

Rep. Charles O. Porter, D-Ore., said he had been so advised by an official at the Justice Department.

Last month, Porter told the department Al Sarena had sold the timber rights in Rogue River National Forest to the Steve O. Wilson Co. of Medford, Ore.

The Al Sarena case was a hot political issue in 1954 and 1956. The Democrats claimed the Eisenhower administration was allowing Al Sarena to have valuable timber on the pretext that it was interested only in the ore in the land.

Porter claimed that the sale of the Al Sarena timber rights was a "strong case for voiding the mining patents issued to the Al Sarena Mining Co."

In a statement, he said the Justice Department's reply "misses the point."

"I hardly expected this administration to be interested," Porter said.

"This is one of its own outlandish scandals and the administration doesn't intend to do anything about this give away of property belonging to the tax payers of the United States."

FIREFIGHTERS FOILED
FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (UPI)—Fire Chief Robert J. Ogden gathered members of the Command and Control Battalion together Wednesday to show them how to put out a fire in an Army barracks.

He couldn't do it. Workers who built the scale-model barracks for the demonstration had used wood that was too wet to burn.

Fake Ceilings Nixed

DUNSMUIR — Construction of false ceilings in the remodeling of buildings in Dunsmuir will be prohibited on final passage of an ordinance amending the building code, the city council decided at its last meeting.

Ceilings may be lowered only on removal of existing ceilings, under this new regulation.

This measure was adopted upon recommendation of John Metzler, building inspector, who explained to the council that the existence of two or more layers of ceilings in a building constitutes a fire hazard. Should a fire occur, he said, its control is made more difficult and dangerous.

THE REFRESHING DIFFERENCE IN REFRESHMENTS

MILK IS FOR MODERNS

THE CLEAN LOOK of action scores the style coup of '61!

Styling is stirring up a storm. With just that alone, Buick would be out front for '61; but Buick has never been content to do things by half. So underneath its body beautiful is a new Wildcat V-8 with new gas savings and go; a new Turbine Drive with new bite (standard on all full-size Buicks); a new Hide-Away drive shaft for flatter floors; a new Safety-X frame that lowers the sills, quiets the ride.

Those are the kinds of things people are saying about the new Buick. For Buick's talk about styling is stirring up a storm. With just that alone, Buick would be out front for '61; but Buick has never been content to do things by half. So underneath its body beautiful is a new Wildcat V-8 with new gas savings and go; a new Turbine Drive with new bite (standard on all full-size Buicks); a new Hide-Away drive shaft for flatter floors; a new Safety-X frame that lowers the sills, quiets the ride.

Those aren't all. This Buick is built around an all-new Comfort Zone. Though trimmer and meeker outside, Buick has more head-room, leg-room, shoulder-room inside. The seating's softer. And as you drive, Control Arm Suspension smooths the bumps, flattens the corners.

But no words or picture can do this Buick justice; you have to drive it to appreciate it. Come to your Buick dealer's—and add to the comments!
