

DR. HESTER TURNER

Lady Lawyer Plans Talk

"School Relations and Law" will be the topic discussed by guest speaker Dr. Hester Turner at the dinner meeting of the Klamath County Oregon Education Association (OEA) to be held at the Pelican Cafe at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, October 20.

Dr. Turner is director of Professional Services, OEA; is a lawyer, having received her LL.B. degree at the University of Arizona in 1946, and her degree in education at Oregon State in 1956.

She is a member of the Arizona Bar Association and the Oregon Bar Association.

In announcing the meeting, Lou Corrigan, president of the Klamath County Chapter of OEA, said the business meeting will include a discussion of the local plans for American Education Week, November 6-12.

Board Votes For Hearing

SALEM (AP) — The Board of Education today voted to recommend that the Textbook Commission hold a hearing on complaints against some public school textbooks.

The action came after several people had called some of the books objectionable.

George Burgess, Tigard, said a literature text for 9th graders, "Adventures for Today," is "cheap dime novel trash." He said some other books were equally objectionable.

May Darling, member of the board, said the complaints should go before the Textbook Commission. "We have no authority to say whether the books are good, bad or indifferent," she said, citing the law which provides that the board name a five-member commission to adopt the textbooks. The board then is required to enter into contracts with the publishers for them.

It was suggested to the board that a lay committee be named by the board to make recommendations to the commission.
