

Bank Account Is Feared Lost To Confidence Man

FORT JONES—Siskiyou County sheriff's deputies believe a confidence man has bilked a Scott Valley couple of about $9,000 since mid-September.

They issued an all-points bulletin for the arrest of Raymond Lee Gardner Jr., 23, Elma, believed to be en route by auto to an eastern state.

The victims, said deputies, are Mr. and Mrs. Norman Marvin, who operate a ranch on East Side Road near Fort Jones. Officers said Gardner extracted the money from Mrs. Marvin with promises of interest in Greyhound Bus Lines coffee shops in Yreka, Medford and Redding.

Gardner, said deputies, contacted Mrs. Marvin, 50, September 18 and received $400 from her, ostensibly to buy equipment for a coffee shop in Yreka. Mrs. Marvin told deputies Gardner offered her half interest in the business.

He contacted Mrs. Marvin again September 27 and requested and received $500 toward purchase of the equipment, deputies said.

They continued with this account of some of the transactions and events that followed:

Gardner approached Mrs. Marvin next October 12. This time he asked for $1,600 which he promised to use as a down payment on a coffee shop in Medford. Mrs. Marvin gave him $400, mentioning that her checking account could provide no more.

Gardner returned October 16 and asked for $1,800 in cash. Mrs. Marvin drew the sum from Etan

Branch of Scott Valley Bank. Gardner told her the money would be used to buy a car needed in the business. The remainder, he said, would be applied toward the down payment on the Medford coffee shop.

He came again October 21 and asked for $5,000 in cash to be used as a down payment on a shop in Redding. Mrs. Marvin withdrew the amount from the bank.

Gardner on October 24 paid $6,000 for a new station wagon at Maginnis Chevrolet Company in Yreka.

Meanwhile, on October 26, Mrs. Marvin's husband learned of her dealings with Gardner and asked the suspect to meet him at his ranch. Gardner told him that he had been too busy to make arrangements for securities and to provide receipts for money received.

On the same date, Gardner rented a trailer in Yreka for 12 days, naming his destination as Pennsylvania. He packed up and left Scott Valley.

Officers believe he was accompanied by his father, Raymond Lee Gardner Sr., in another car. The younger man was described as blond, 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighing 148 pounds. The car he bought was a white 1960 Chevrolet bearing California License Number SKT-193.

His father is believed to be driving a 1959 green Chevrolet or GMC three-quarter-ton pickup bearing an unknown California license number.

MWD Okays Water Contract; Governor Brown Will Sign

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Gov. Edmund G. Brown today prepared to execute a contract with the Metropolitan Water District to provide Feather River water to Southern California.

Directors of the MWD voted almost unanimously approval to the controversial contract in Los Angeles Tuesday, and Brown said he was "very happy" and at the reversal of its former stand against the contract.

However, the governor said there were a few reservations. He pointed out that since the state submitted the final contract proposals to the MWD, financial consultants had suggested changes for contract provisions dealing with determining water charges. "They deserve careful analysis and consideration by all parties," Brown said. "I am agreeable, however, to immediate execution of the present contract—with the understanding that amendments will be discussed at a later time, and, if they prove acceptable to all parties, can be placed in the contract."

Brown said the contract, offered to the MWD two weeks ago, would not take effect until 90 days after the 1961 legislative ends.

"It is a good contract," he said. "I was willing to sign it then, and I am willing to sign it now."

Directors of the MWD approved the contract 1,291-31 on a formula allocating one vote for each 10 million of assessed valuation. Numerically, the directors voted for the contract 26 to 5.

Approval of the contract, as negotiated on Aug. 21 and revised Oct. 25, came after eight months of deliberation on controversial issues in the proposed pact. Some of the issues still are matters of contention.

The directors also gave their endorsement of Proposition 1 on the Nov. 8 ballot, which would approve the $1.75 billion state water issue.

MWD spokesmen conceded that not every point in the proposed contract met with unanimous approval—but that the proposal as it stood would be better than no contract at all.

The directors also gave their endorsement of Proposition 1 on the Nov. 8 ballot, which would approve the $1.75 billion state water issue.

MWD spokesmen conceded that not every point in the proposed contract met with unanimous approval—but that the proposal as it stood would be better than no contract at all.

The directors also gave their endorsement of Proposition 1 on the Nov. 8 ballot, which would approve the $1.75 billion state water issue.

MWD spokesmen conceded that not every point in the proposed contract met with unanimous approval—but that the proposal as it stood would be better than no contract at all.

The directors also gave their endorsement of Proposition 1 on the Nov. 8 ballot, which would approve the $1.75 billion state water issue.

MWD spokesmen conceded that not every point in the proposed contract met with unanimous approval—but that the proposal as it stood would be better than no contract at all.

The directors also gave their endorsement of Proposition 1 on the Nov. 8 ballot, which would approve the $1.75 billion state water issue.

MWD spokesmen conceded that not every point in the proposed contract met with unanimous approval—but that the proposal as it stood would be better than no contract at all.

The directors also gave their endorsement of Proposition 1 on the Nov. 8 ballot, which would approve the $1.75 billion state water issue.

MWD spokesmen conceded that not every point in the proposed contract met with unanimous approval—but that the proposal as it stood would be better than no contract at all.

A FIERCE TIGER stalked the streets of Dunsuir during the kiddies' pre-Halloween parade there this week. Kevin Young smiled sunnily for the camera to show that he was really harmless.

THE LONE RANGER and Tonto (Ralph Rodley and his Mexican hairless chihuahua) made an appearance during the Halloween kiddies' parade this week in Dunsuir.

California Briefs

Tulelake

Mrs. Evelyn Galloway and daughter Ruth visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gillis (Linda Galloway) at Washtucna, Washington, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Mrs. Ray Laird is a patient at Klamath Valley Hospital following a fall in the kitchen of her home. She is reported to have suffered a severe back injury.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Jensen, Los Banos, accompanied by Dwight Lowe, Anderson, California, are here for the hunting, guests of Jensen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jensen. Lowe is manager of the Anderson Branch, Bank of America. Lloyd Jensen, who recently moved from Anderson, is in the local department of the bank at Los Banos.

Norman Ryckman has returned from visiting his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Nelson and family, Durham, California.

Demos Seem Sure To Hold Control Of State Senate

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Control of the state Senate seems almost certain to remain in the hands of the Democrats although Republicans expressed hope today they may pick up some seats in the Nov. 8 election.

Democrats in the 20th century never had numerical control of the upper house of the legislature until the 1958 election when the Democratic tide broke a 20-20 tie and Democrats wound up with a 28-12 advantage.

Regaining eight seats this year, even the most optimistic Republicans admit, is an almost insurmountable task.

The Republican problem is compounded by the fact that only half of the Senate—20 members—faces the voters next Tuesday. And out of the 20 holdovers whose districts are secure until 1962, the Democrats are in the saddle by a 16-4 margin.

Republicans would not only have to keep control of the eight districts they now hold in Tuesday's election but they must knock over eight Democrats in the remaining 12 districts at stake.

While it would take a political miracle for this to happen, Republicans do believe they have a good chance of winning four Democratic seats. However, Democrats are equally optimistic.

25th: Fred S. Farr, D, incumbent, led the fight in the Senate to abolish capital punishment. His stand is a major issue in a campaign with Republican William F. Bryan, Salinas attorney. Republicans hope for a victory here.

29th: A.A. Erhart, Republican senator, died after the primary. His place on the November ballot was taken by Vernon L. Sturgeon, mayor of Paso Robles. The Democratic candidate is Thomas F. Nolan, San Luis Obispo, and Democrats are hopeful.

31st: Democratic Sen. John J. Hollister is reportedly in trouble. Hollister was elected four years ago by 460 votes out of almost 50,000 cast. His opponent this time is William D. McKillop, Santa Ynez real estate broker.

39th: The only incumbent to lose in the June primary was Sen. J. William Beard. Republicans are hopeful their nominee, Harry R. Sones, El Centro, can outpace Beard's conqueror, Aaron W. Quick, Calexico. However, the district's registration is almost 2-1 Democratic.

The University of California scientists Monday presented a report to the American Public Health Association meeting here.

They said that the fungus grows like a mold in the arid soil of the southwest during the rainy season. Tiny particles of the fungus float into the air when it dries and are breathed in by animals and humans.

The scientists said that about 60 per cent who contract the fever don't get sick with it, but the other 40 per cent come down with a flu-like ailment that involves the lungs. Sometimes an operation is necessary and recovery may take weeks or months.

In about 1 case in 500, the infection spreads from the lungs into other organs and then is often fatal. But tests on animals show that the new vaccine would cut the death rate in these serious cases from 50 to 5 per cent, according to the scientists who developed the new vaccine.

They are Dr. Hillel R. Levine and Dr. C. E. Smith, who worked on the vaccine at the university's Naval Biological Laboratory under grants from the Navy.

A board of 16 directors from the basic five-county area—four each from Alameda and San Francisco counties, three each from Contra Costa and San Mateo, and two from Marin—was proposed. The agency would ultimately embrace all nine Bay Area counties. Policies and programs of the new agency and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District would be "closely coordinated," Nahas said.

The council also recommended that the Bay Area's six state-owned toll bridges and the district-operated Golden Gate Bridge be placed under the proposed new regional agency by the legislature. Operation of public airports and seaports would be assumed by the authority only with the approval of the local communities now operating the facilities, the council suggested.

A board of 16 directors from the basic five-county area—four each from Alameda and San Francisco counties, three each from Contra Costa and San Mateo, and two from Marin—was proposed. The agency would ultimately embrace all nine Bay Area counties. Policies and programs of the new agency and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District would be "closely coordinated," Nahas said.

The council also recommended that the Bay Area's six state-owned toll bridges and the district-operated Golden Gate Bridge be placed under the proposed new regional agency by the legislature. Operation of public airports and seaports would be assumed by the authority only with the approval of the local communities now operating the facilities, the council suggested.

A board of 16 directors from the basic five-county area—four each from Alameda and San Francisco counties, three each from Contra Costa and San Mateo, and two from Marin—was proposed. The agency would ultimately embrace all nine Bay Area counties. Policies and programs of the new agency and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District would be "closely coordinated," Nahas said.

The council also recommended that the Bay Area's six state-owned toll bridges and the district-operated Golden Gate Bridge be placed under the proposed new regional agency by the legislature. Operation of public airports and seaports would be assumed by the authority only with the approval of the local communities now operating the facilities, the council suggested.

A board of 16 directors from the basic five-county area—four each from Alameda and San Francisco counties, three each from Contra Costa and San Mateo, and two from Marin—was proposed. The agency would ultimately embrace all nine Bay Area counties. Policies and programs of the new agency and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District would be "closely coordinated," Nahas said.

The council also recommended that the Bay Area's six state-owned toll bridges and the district-operated Golden Gate Bridge be placed under the proposed new regional agency by the legislature. Operation of public airports and seaports would be assumed by the authority only with the approval of the local communities now operating the facilities, the council suggested.

A board of 16 directors from the basic five-county area—four each from Alameda and San Francisco counties, three each from Contra Costa and San Mateo, and two from Marin—was proposed. The agency would ultimately embrace all nine Bay Area counties. Policies and programs of the new agency and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District would be "closely coordinated," Nahas said.

The council also recommended that the Bay Area's six state-owned toll bridges and the district-operated Golden Gate Bridge be placed under the proposed new regional agency by the legislature. Operation of public airports and seaports would be assumed by the authority only with the approval of the local communities now operating the facilities, the council suggested.

A board of 16 directors from the basic five-county area—four each from Alameda and San Francisco counties, three each from Contra Costa and San Mateo, and two from Marin—was proposed. The agency would ultimately embrace all nine Bay Area counties. Policies and programs of the new agency and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District would be "closely coordinated," Nahas said.

The council also recommended that the Bay Area's six state-owned toll bridges and the district-operated Golden Gate Bridge be placed under the proposed new regional agency by the legislature. Operation of public airports and seaports would be assumed by the authority only with the approval of the local communities now operating the facilities, the council suggested.

A board of 16 directors from the basic five-county area—four each from Alameda and San Francisco counties, three each from Contra Costa and San Mateo, and two from Marin—was proposed. The agency would ultimately embrace all nine Bay Area counties. Policies and programs of the new agency and the Bay Area Rapid Transit District would be "closely coordinated," Nahas said.

The council also recommended that the Bay Area's six state-owned toll bridges and the district-operated Golden Gate Bridge be placed under the proposed new regional agency by the legislature. Operation of public airports and seaports would be assumed by the authority only with the approval of the local communities now operating the facilities, the council suggested.

LAST RESORT

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—While

Gov. Edmund G. Brown was riding in a helicopter Tuesday with Democratic presidential candidate Sen. John F. Kennedy, the pilot of the craft asked:

"Governor, can you get me out of a traffic ticket?"

"No," replied Brown, "but if you are convicted I can pardon you."

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Democrats feel the scene was

The latest professional poll—this among 3,018 voters in 16 of the 58 counties—favored Nixon 49.9 to 43.9 per cent, with 6.2 per cent on the fence.

But Las Vegas bookmakers list Kennedy as a 7-5 favorite in California.

Kennedy Is Seriously Challenging Nixon In Home State, Demo May Win

Editors Note—It takes 289 electoral votes to win the presidency, and six great states have about 70 per cent of that total. Here's an Associated Press story on the prospects in California, which has 32 electoral votes, the same number as Pennsylvania and second only to New York. Articles on Illinois, Texas and Pennsylvania will follow.

set in 1958 when Gov. Edmund G. Brown, a Catholic, led a Democratic landslide that captured every state office but one.

This year the party staged a successful registration drive that gained 619,000 voters since the primary and boosted its 3-2 registration lead over the Republicans to 1.4 million. The GOP picked up 406,000 in the same period.

Democratic leaders say they're concerned about the "silent vote"—those people who are quiet about it but intend to mark their ballot against a Catholic president.

"If it weren't for the religious issue, there would be no doubt of the outcome," says Roger Kent, Democratic state chairman, who nevertheless predicts Kennedy will carry California by a comfortable margin.

Gov. Brown, a self-styled optimist, predicts the Democratic ticket will coast in by one million or so.

V. John Krehbiel, Republican state chairman, says he isn't worried by registration showing the GOP badly outnumbered. That's an old story here, and Californians have built a tradition of independent voting.

Krehbiel is convinced, he says, that Democrats will cross party lines, as they did for President Eisenhower, who carried California each time by more than 600,000.

In the last 22 presidential elections, California has voted Republican 13 times, Democratic 8 and

Both camps insist they'll take Los Angeles County, home of a good 40 per cent of California's vote, although a political veteran remarked, "I don't know if anyone really knows the answer in Los Angeles."

The eight counties which make up Southern California command fully 60 per cent of the state total. This year, for the first time, Democrats lead in registration in the entire area. In the state as a whole, only three counties are predominantly Republican in registration.

Both sides agree on one point: The television debates helped Kennedy, hurt Nixon.

On the other hand, Republicans contend the Democrats have lessened Kennedy's chances by intra-party squabbling that first broke out at the Democratic National Convention.

The Democrats, however, appear to have patched up their differences pretty well.

For instance, Sen. Clair Engle of California, who backed Brown's preference for Kennedy and supported Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, is now active as vice chairman of the Kennedy-Johnson campaign.

Delegates who held out for Adlai E. Stevenson at Los Angeles swung into line after the former Illinois governor vigorously took the stump for Kennedy in California.

Despite the prevailing opinion, there are some people who discount a close outcome. They think it will be decisive one way or the other. It's true enough that in six of the eight elections of the past 32 years, the margin of victory has been 475,000 or more.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested at the doctor's preliminary hearing, was released on $25,000 bail following the first trial. She was arrested, however, four months later when she failed to appear in court on schedule.

Carole, 23, who was arrested