

California Voters Face Two Issues

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California voters must decide two important questions when they go to the polls next Tuesday.

—Should the state commit itself now to borrow $1.75 billion in bonds to finance water projects for future growth?

—Should the system of government be modified to give Southern California in general and cities in particular more say in the legislature?

These two questions are far and away the most important issues to be decided when voters cast their ballots on the 15 propositions on the Nov. 8 ballot.

Only a simple majority is required—even on Proposition 1, the water bond issue—to turn the 15 proposals into law.

To look at the $1.75 billion water bond issue is to look at a complicated puzzle.

Would Build Project

Administration leaders have proposed construction of the Feather River Project. This consists of a huge dam near Oroville and a system of aqueducts to carry surplus water from Northern California to dry areas in Southern California and other sections of the state.

Our expanding population, now over 15 million, plus business and agricultural expansion requires that more water be made available in advance, they say.

To do this, Gov. Edmund G. Brown was forced to compromise with both ends of the state. To make the north agree, Brown proposed to offer flood control in Oroville Dam.

To save the south's doubts that it may never get Northern California water, Brown proposed to put up all the money needed to build the aqueducts complete into Southern California.

The bonds would be general obligation bonds, meaning the credit of all the state's taxpayers would be behind them. However, state officials say the bonds would be repaid with an estimated $2.4 billion in interest by revenues from the people who would buy the water.

Change in Government

On the second major issue—whether the system of government should be changed—the voters will be voting on Proposition 13.

Southern California interests, headed by Frank G. Bonelli, chairman of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors, have proposed that the state Senate be re-districted so that Southern California will get eight more Senate districts now held in Northern California.

Under our "federal system" of government, the lower house of the legislature now is chosen according to population and the upper house by geographical district. This gives the populous south control of the Assembly while the 47 northern counties dominate the Senate.

The Bonelli plan would change this so the California Senate would be split evenly between north and south. The north, with the bulk of area, would have 20 senators, and the south, with less area, would also have 20.

WAY THE WORMS VOTE

CHICAGO (UPI) — Two pretty black-stockinging coeds met Vice President Richard M. Nixon here Saturday with a sign reading: "University of Chicago book-worms pick Dick. Other worms pick Jack."

MOUNT SHASTA RESIDENTS are invited to the high school Parent Teacher Association's annual spaghetti dinner and floor show at St. Anthony's Parish Hall Saturday. Among attractions will be "The Dorlaque Sisters," Mrs. Dorothy Gilliland, left and Mrs. Marie Rosean, professional entertainers from the area.

PTA Stages Meal, Show

MOUNT SHASTA—Mount Shasta High School's Parent Teacher Association invites the public to its annual spaghetti dinner and floor show Saturday from 5:30 to 8 p.m. in St. Anthony's Parish Hall.

Visitors will see some local talent in action. The Dorlaque Sisters—Mrs. Dorothy Gilliland and Mrs. Marie Rosean—will perform several dances.

They won fame during World War II entertaining in USO canteens.

Dorae Chico and Kathy Davidson, a song and dance team, will perform with an act recalling the best offered by the old vaudeville circuits.

Jeannie Poe will perform Hawaiian dances and members of the local little theater group will recite monologues.

The event is the organization's only major money-raising program of the school year.

Warning Given On Bat Bites By Expert

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rabid bats are found in 28 states in this country and their bites can cause a particularly horrible kind of death from paralysis, an expert on virus disease warned Tuesday.

About 400 rabies-carrying bats have been found by public health agencies. They represent only about 2 per cent of the bat population but the virulence of the disease they cause makes it imperative for everybody to let them strictly alone, said Dr. Edwin H. Lennette of the California Health Department.

Addressing the American Public Health Association, Lennette said there were 92 human deaths from rabies in this country from 1951 to 1958. Three were due to bat bites.

Rabies resulting from animal bites in general, cause the victim to become feverish, squirming and delirious, but a bat bite produces a spreading type of paralysis that ends in death, Lennette reported.

If you see a bat on the ground apparently hurt, don't touch it, Lennette said. Or if you see bats flying in the daytime they may themselves be crazed by the disease and should be avoided.

A person bitten by a bat under any circumstances should get the Pasteur treatment for rabies as quickly as possible, he said.

Dole Will Get Position In SF

Dole, timber management staff officer for Shasta-Trinity National Forest since 1954 when the two forests were consolidated, will be transferred soon to head the appraisal and sale preparation section at the forest service regional office in San Francisco, forest service officials announced this week.

Dole will replace Harold F. Wise, who is becoming assistant chief of the Division of Timber Management, filling a vacancy left by the death of John Berry.

Dole has been stationed in Redding. He was with Trinity National Forest in Weaverville before consolidation. He is a forestry graduate of the University of California and has worked for the forest service since 1934.

Suitcase Contains Bodies of Babies

WATSONVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—An unclaimed suitcase, which gathered dust in a bank vault here for many years, contained the bodies of Siamese twin babies—possibly born and embalmed 32 years ago.

Authorities revealed Wednesday that the bodies were discovered, along with death and medical records, in the vault of the Pajaro Valley bank Sunday.

The vault check was made as a result of a recent law which requires a report to the state controller with an inventory of items in the bank which have not been claimed for seven years.

The babies apparently died shortly after birth. A death certificate found in the suitcase was signed in Tucson, Ariz., on April 10, 1908, and said the babies died in Silver Bell, Ariz.

The name on the death certificate was Antonio E. Herrera and the mother's name was given as Mrs. Maria Holguin Herrera.

Bank officials said they did not know how long the embalmed bodies had been in the vault. The suitcase had been noticed for many years in a part of the vault reserved for temporary deposits.

The discovery was made by assistant cashier Jim Radich and superintendent of the savings department Ken Taylor.

They told authorities that when they opened the suitcase, they first found an X-ray showing the twins after death. They lifted a blanket and found the bodies.

A certificate with the bodies, signed by O. E. Parker, registered embalmer, said:

"I hereby certify that the body (sic) of twin babies of Antonio E. Herrera has been properly embalmed and encased for shipment."

Another document was dated July 10, 1922, and signed by Dr. August W. Larson, 501 Consolidated Realty Building, Los Angeles. It said:

"This is to certify that I have carefully examined the desiccated (sic) specimen of thoracically united twins in possession of Mr. Antonio E. Herrera, alleged to have been born to him by his former wife, Mrs. Maria Holguin Herrera on April 10, 1908, at Silver Bell, Ariz., and have verified them to be genuine."

Judge Impatient in Finch Trial

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A poll of the jury hearing the second Finch-Tregoff murder trial appeared a certainty today if no verdict is reached by mid-afternoon.

Superior Judge Leroy Dawson told the 11 women and 1 man on the panel Wednesday he regarded the case as one "in which I think you should be able to reach a verdict."

The panel at day's end had weighed the fate of Dr. R. Bernhard Finch, 43, and Carole Tregoff, 23, for 31 hours and 50 minutes with no sign of an outcome in the 19-week-old trial. The illicit lovers are accused of murdering Finch's wife, Barbara, 33, on July 18, 1939.

Dawson said earlier he would poll the jury today if there were no verdict, stating he would ask the tallismen how they stood numerically without reference to guilt or innocence.

The panel was ushered into the Hall of Justice courtroom to hear Dawson answer five questions they had asked of him. The judge huddled with prosecution and defense attorneys for more than an hour before both sides agreed to the answers.

The hospital owner and his secretary-mistress are accused of murder in the first degree and conspiracy for the gun-shot slaying. The lovers' first trial ended in a hung jury after 37½ hours of deliberation.

Blaze Damages Roof Of Laundry

DUNSMUIR—About 25 per cent of the roof of the Dunsmuir Steam Laundry on Butterfly Avenue was destroyed by fire early Tuesday afternoon.

Fire Chief Jim Lambert said the blaze was apparently caused by burning particles from the boiler stack.

Firemen were able to protect the laundry and dry cleaning equipment from smoke and water damage. No loss of articles being laundered or cleaned occurred.

The building is owned and operated by A. B. Cravens. The alarm was turned in about 12:45 p.m. and volunteer firemen returned both trucks to the fire hall about 2 p.m.

A camera designed by Dr. Harold E. Edgerton made man's deepest view of the ocean—24,500 feet down in the Atlantic.
