Dam Hearing Set Monday

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Federal Power Commission hearing will proceed as scheduled Monday in a dispute over dam construction in the middle Snake River between Idaho and Oregon.

FPC Examiner William C. Levy rejected Friday a request by Washington Public Power Supply System that the hearing be put off until Jan. 9.

Owen W. Hurd, managing director of WPPSS, said Levy's ruling would be appealed. A commission spokesman said this would not delay the hearing.

Cross-examination of witnesses for Pacific Northwest Power Co. is scheduled for Monday.

WPPSS, an organization of nine public utility districts, is applying for permission to build Nez Perce Dam. PNP, a combine of several private utilities, is seeking a permit to build Mountain Sheep Dam.

The projects are mutually exclusive.

The public power group had asked for more time so it could study filings in the case and prepare for cross-examination.

REAs Favoring Nez Perce Dam

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Region Nine of the National Rural Electrical Cooperative Association went on record Friday in favor of Nez Perce Dam instead of Mountain Sheep Dam on the Snake River between Idaho and Oregon.

The Washington Public Power Supply System of Kennewick, an organization of nine public utility districts, has applied to build the Nez Perce project. Pacific Northwest Power Co., made up of several private utility firms, wants to build Mountain Sheep instead. The regional organization voted to hold its 1962 meeting in Eugene, Ore.

HOME PRO CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Clayton Heafner, twice runnerup in the U.S. Open, quit the tournament trail several years ago and operates the Eastwood Golf Club in Charlotte.

MRS. BERT C. THOMAS, left, and Mrs. Ida (Jim) Grimes have served on local election boards since the days before women had the right to mark X before the name of a candidate. This week they recalled many humorous happenings during the years. They will serve again on Nov. 8, both in Precinct 25 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Larson, 1933 Melrose. Mrs. Larson is board 'parliamentarian,' keeps business in order. Mrs. Grimes will serve as chairman of the board. Mrs. Thomas as clerk. There will be hot coffee, but with the increased number of voters, there will be no time for the board to visit with those they register.

Women Recall Early Days At Polls

By RUTH KING

Few housewives had a nickel to call their own and few, certainly, expressed a political opinion without eyebrows being raised by the less daring, in the days when Ida Grimes and Helen Thomas first served together on an election board.

It was 1914 when Mrs. Thomas, long public spirited, made her first appearance on election day and only a bit later when Mrs. Grimes, equally interested in women's rights, joined her. They will serve again this year, together, on the same board in Precinct 25.

Women then had not yet worried about calories, baked with a prepared cake mix nor driven a compact car. But they did know what the $3 earned on an election job would buy.

So competition was keen, for women were just emerging from their cocoons of anonymity. Some women served on the boards who fumbled the ball and left the keen-minded to untumble the fumbles.

Five persons made up the board which registered the voters and also served as a counting board. Once, Ida Grimes recalls, a board worked more than 36 hours to straighten out errors, without sleep.

Election time was practically a holiday... the women saw old friends they had not seen since the last election. They chatted and heard about new babies and the latest arrivals in town... they knitted and crocheted and wrote letters on the back of election sheets.

They eagerly awaited meal-times and ate with gusto, "on the county."

Ballot boxes were big, "sometimes barrels, painted shiny black with high white precinct numbers." When noon arrived the polls were closed for one hour and the election board, with ballot box aboard a car, wended its way to a restaurant to dine. The schedule was repeated at the dinner hour.

When the job was complete each woman took home her bottle of ink and the steel pens they used "as a sort of gratification."

Woman suffrage was fomenting across the nation then and women in Klamath Falls were as eager as any for a voice in their own government. They protested by voice, by pen and by petition and resorted to "wooing the men" to their way of thinking on the ballot question with "tea and cakes."

C. R. DeLap, father of the present County Clerk Charlie DeLap, was then in the courthouse. Determined to support the "rise of women," a handful of hardy ones here, Mrs. Don Zumwalt, Mrs. Francis Boyd, Mrs. B. S. Grigsby, mother of Mrs. Ida (Jim) Grimes, and Mrs. Helen (Bert C.) Thomas among others, brushed aside the whispers, "that only coarse women vote," and began their campaign to win the men.

They took the names from the poll books at the courthouse and wrote endless cards to the men voters asking them to vote for woman suffrage.

They organized "get-togethers" with refreshments to tell their reasons for wanting to vote. The movement rolled across the nation, state by state, with women of 11 states permitted by state law to cast a presidential vote in 1916.

By January 1, 1919, women of 30 states had won their fight. Oregon ratified in January, 1920, in a special session of the state legislature and on August 26 of that year, Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby proclaimed the Suffrage Amendment a part of the Federal Constitution.

See you at the polls!

Indictments Returned Against 7 For Libel In Attack On Sweetland

PORTLAND (AP)—The Multnomah County grand jury Friday handed down seven indictments on charges of political criminal libel stemming from a printed attack on Monroe Sweetland, the Democratic candidate for secretary of state.

Four persons were arrested. The three other indictments were issued under the names of "John and Jane Doe."

Arrested were Mrs. Louise Gronert, 56; Clude Pike, 41; Henry J. Dieringer, 65; and Homer A. Rogers, 79, all Portland area residents. Dieringer posted $1,000 bail. The others were released on recognition of their attorney.

The four were among 31 whose names were on the printed handbill.

Mishap Hurts Two

Two men were injured in a near head-on crash on Highway 97 just south of Modoc Point late Friday afternoon.

In the Klamath Valley Hospital were Loy W. Johnson, 35, Route 2, Box 1035, Klamath Falls, and Harold W. Williams, 34, Star Route, Box 11, Chiloquin.

Hospital attendants said that Williams was being held for observation and Johnson suffered fractures of the right leg and left elbow.

Investigating officers of the state police said that Johnson started to pass a Ned Putnam logging truck, driven by Keith S. Gentry, 37, 2946 Patterson Street. Both vehicles were southbound. As Johnson made his move, he collided with a northbound car driven by Williams. Police said that Williams was driving with one headlight, causing Johnson to misjudge the distance of the oncoming vehicle.

After colliding with Williams, Johnson's car continued to the left side of the road where the vehicle was hit by the logging truck and then came to a stop in the right side of the road.

Williams' car stopped in a borrow pit on the southbound lane. Gentry was uninjured, police said, and added that there were no citations issued pending further investigation.

The victims were taken to the hospital by Peace Ambulance Service.

FIELD GOAL PAYS OFF CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The 11-yard field goal North Carolina State's Jake Schaffer booted against Carolina this fall was the first scored against UNC since 1952. That year, Wake Forest's Bill George booted a nine-yard field goal to beat the Tar Heels, 9-7.

Mrs. Gronert long has been a vigorous public opponent of those with whose views she disagrees. Pike has argued his political views on a program he purchases on an Oregon City radio station. Dieringer is a retired postman.

Rogers said of the handbill, after his arrest: "I don't know much about it, but I understand they have complete evidence on him (Sweetland). I happen to be an ardent right-winger."

Sweetland said he did not ask for the indictment. He explained: "On Thursday I was asked to appear and testify before the grand jury, which I did. I understand this is a criminal matter between the state of Oregon and the accused."

"The libelous smear attack against me has shocked and outraged decent and fair-minded citizens of Oregon."

Dist. Atty. Charles Raymond said he took the evidence to the grand jury as required under the state Corrupt Practices law unless penalty of expulsion from office if he did not act.

Sweetland said: "I am grateful to the distinguished citizens of our community who, I am informed, came forward to testify to the grand jury as to the utter falsity of the statements about me: a federal judge, a district court judge, a distinguished labor leader and a former president of the American Political Science Association."

The handbill was issued by a group calling itself the Oregon Committee for Honest Politics. A second printed paper was distributed Friday, just as the indictments were handed down.

Democratic State Chairman Robert Straub told county chairmen of the party of the indictments in a telegram, and added: "If this printed sheet or any other defamatory material attacking either Democratic or Republican candidates is circulated in your county, you are advised to present the matter to the county district attorney for appropriate criminal action against the persons responsible."

Sweetland's Republican opponent, Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr., said earlier that he deplored the attack on Sweetland and what he said were whispering campaigns directed against himself.

An Open Letter from Carol Howe to the people of Klamath County

Soon you will elect the officials who will represent you during the next few years. Regardless of your party or interest they will need to know how you feel about governmental affairs in order to properly represent you.

During this campaign I have been impressed by the kindness and friendliness of people in all walks of life; however, I have consistently refused to make promises or fill out the many questionnaires which have been mailed to me by interest groups.

My reason has not been a lack of interest or sympathy for various proposals, but simply because I feel that for a full understanding of a problem the opposition should be heard. If you have received no commitment from me please consider that decisions should be made only after full information is available.

In case you choose me to represent Klamath County in the next legislature you will be choosing a representative willing to listen to your cause and free to vote in the best interests of the county and state.

Sincerely, Carol Howe
