

Human Sponge Is Poor Prospect

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann: I could make a million off my life's story, but it's so fantastic nobody would believe it.

I met this man in a bus depot. (I'll call him Clark because he did look a little like Gable.) I was coming home from a trip and there he was, hungry, broke and homeless. I talked to him for a long time and he seemed refined and educated. I know you'll say I was foolish but I took him home. I'm a widow without chick or child and I have a nice, well-paying job.

I helped Clark find work, bought him a good suit, and gave him a free room and board. In return he gave me affection and was grand company.

For two years he accepted my hospitality. I was sure he'd ask me to marry him eventually. Last week the shock came. He told me he was going to marry the woman across the street. I had no idea he was even seeing her. Are there any decent men left?—HOODWINKED

Dear Hood: There are plenty of decent men left—but they aren't moving into women's homes and spending room and board in exchange for their "grand company."

If you wanted to help the man you should have found him a job and not gone for the rooming-in arrangement.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the spokesman for four college sophomores age 19—two boys and two girls.

We planned a weekend trip together, about 200 miles from here. We thought it best to tell our parents well in advance. Well, we were shocked to learn that they were all against it. They said it wouldn't look nice and that we couldn't go.

We are all good, clean kids and resent the implication. Please be on our side and print the answer.—MISUNDERSTOOD

Dear Misunderstood: I am on your side, and this is why I must tell you that two teenage couples should not be going off on an unchaperoned weekend.

I'm not suggesting that you can't be trusted. You may well have the highest standards in town. But if you want to be considered respectable you must live within the framework of society's conventions.

Young girls have lost their heads under less attractive circumstances than you describe. They didn't intend to, but the temptation was overpowering and the controls went out the window.

If you are intent on the trip, invite one set of parents along. They won't cramp your style.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend who has offered to sing at my wedding. Before you tell me "That's nice" I'd like to tell you she can't carry a tune in a bucket. She has brought up this subject four times and I don't know what to say to her. She's a very nice person, although quite pushy, but we've been close for years and I would hate to lose her friendship.

My mother says I should let her sing and that people will know she's not a professional, but a friend who is singing for sentimental reasons. I don't want her to sing. What shall I do?—CORNERED

Dear Cornered: Engage a professional violinist, organist or harpist at once. And ask your friend to be a bridesmaid.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Orbit Rockers To Play Here

Leon Smith and his Orbit Rockers will appear for another of a series of his performances here Saturday night at the Klamath Auditorium.

That dance will be one of three sponsored here during November by local promoter Baldy Evans. The Pitdown Men, a seven-piece recording orchestra, will appear for a rock 'n' roll dance at the auditorium Friday, Nov. 18. Their most popular tune so far is "Brontosaurus Stamp."

The Checkers, also no strangers to the Klamath Basin, will appear Saturday night, Nov. 26.

They'll Do It Every Time.

By Jimmy Hato

4-H NEWS

JUNIOR BRONCS CLUB

The Oct. 13 meeting of the Junior Broncs was held at the clubhouse on the Woodard Ranch.

The main purpose of the meeting was the election of officers for the coming year. The new officers are Wayne McFadden, president; Chet Ralston, vice president; Sandy Woodard, secretary; Starla Beymer, treasurer; Carol Frei, news reporter; Donna Williams, historian; Janice Payne and Nixie Adams, song leaders; Marvin Cunningham, sergeant at arms; and Diana Colby and Ross Lanphear, chaplains. Carol Frei and Chet Ralston were appointed by Mr. Woodard as junior leaders.

New members present were Ron and Dennis Rodgers, Diana Colby and Kelly Beymer.

The club attended the Achievement Night held Oct. 14 at the Henley High School cafeteria. The club won first in the mounted division at the Potato Festival held in Merrill.

Carol Frei, News Reporter.

MALIN BEEF CLUB

The Malin Beef Club held its first meeting Sunday, Oct. 30, at 2 p.m. at Earl Wilson's place. The last year's leaders, W. W. Clark and Mr. Wilson, received nice gifts from the members.

We elected new officers for this year. They are Nick Johnson, president; Don Johnson, vice president; Jill Johnson, secretary; David Clark, sergeant at arms; Donna Micka, song leader, and Kathy Clark, news reporter. It was decided to hold our next meeting at Hab Wilson's, the second Sunday of this month at 2 p.m.

Kathy Clark, News Reporter.

PG&E Given AEC Permit

BERKELEY (UPI) — The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. was awarded a permit by the Atomic Energy Commission Wednesday for the construction of a nuclear reactor at its Humboldt Bay power plant near Eureka.

The reactor—which will add a gross electrical output of 50,000 to 60,000 electrical kilowatts to PG&E's Humboldt Bay plant—is designed to answer the company's need for additional generating capacity in the Eureka area.

The present facility has two conventional steam-electric generating plants with a normal operating capacity of 100,000 kilowatts. Cost of the construction is estimated at $19.5 million. Construction is scheduled to be completed in March, 1962, with the reactor going into use the following June.

Practice Time Is On Thursday

MALIN — There has been a change in the time of practice for the Malin Community Church Choir to 7-9 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 10.

Mrs. Ernest Gray, choir director, invites anyone interested who can sing, to please contact her or attend the practice. Young people from the ninth grade up are eligible. A new choir is being organized.

"DENNIS THE MENACE"

"...AN' HELP ME TO BE A GOOD BOY. AN' A REAL GOOD FOOTBALL PLAYER!"

ASC Lists Candidates For County Committee

The following candidates are running this year for election as committeemen of the Klamath County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation program:

Malin area — Alfred C. Olet, Walter Fotheringham, Glen Haskins, Henry O'Keefe, Harry Orem, James Ottman, Frank Payor Jr., Wayne Rick, Richard Takacs and Ralph Stearns Jr.

Henley-Keno-Midland area — George M. Ager, Bill Blackman, I. E. Campbell, Jaye Plagg, Loren George, Howard Holliday, Don Johnson, Charles Sandusky, Joe Steele and Robert P. Stewart.

Bonanza-Poe Valley — Kenneth K. Behnke, M. G. Burk, L. L. Crawford, Dallas G. Givan Jr., Marvin E. Graham, Frank Grohs, Melvin W. Hunter, Antone S. Quadros, John W. Urbach and Owen R. Watts.

Fort Klamath — Grant Brown, Glen Buchanan, K. W. Collins, Ivan Doak, Harry Elliot, Bob Farris, Leroy A. Gienger Jr., Holis Kizer, John C. Siemens and Scott Warren.

Ballots will be mailed to farmers by Nov. 10, and they must be received in the ASC office, Box 690, Klamath Falls, no later than 5 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 22; if delivered in person, and they must be postmarked before 5 p.m. if they are mailed.

If a farmer fails to receive his ballot by mail, he should inquire at the county office in the Tower Theater Building on South Sixth Street.

College Board To Study Plans

WEED — The governing board of Siskiyou Joint Junior College District will meet for a regular session at 8 p.m. Nov. 10 on College of the Siskiyou campus here.

Members will continue to study building plans for college expansion. Allyn Martin Redding, architect, said he hopes to submit a cost estimate for a building program judged adequate for 500 students by William Wynn of the state Division of School Planning.

Grange News

EAST SIDE

NEW PINE CREEK — New Pine Creek Fire Department was granted use of East Side Grange Hall for the annual firemen's ball Nov. 26 and Willow Ranch Fire Department will be allowed to use it for the annual New Year's Eve dance.

Hi-Grade 4-H Club was given permission to use the hall for a box social event and dance Dec. 10. Proceeds will enrich the International Foreign Youth Exchange program fund.

Grangers also granted Mrs. Alice Allen's request for use of the hall Tuesday, Nov. 13.

The grange met Saturday. Election of officers was postponed until the Nov. 19 meeting.

HERALD AND NEWS
Klamath Falls, Oregon
Serving Southern Oregon and Northern California
Published daily (except Sat.) and Sunday by Southern Oregon Publishing Company
Main at Esplanade
Phone TIXEED 4411
W. B. SWETLAND, Publisher
Entered as second class matter at the post office at Klamath Falls, Oregon, on August 25, 1959, under act of Congress, March 3, 1879. Second-class postage paid at Klamath Falls, Oregon, and at additional mailing offices.
SUBSCRIPTION RATES
Carrier
1 Month $1.75
3 Months $5.25
1 Year $18.00
Mail in Advance
1 Month $1.75
3 Months $5.25
1 Year $18.00
Carrier and Dealers, only 10c
UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL
ASSOCIATED PRESS
AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATION
Subscribers not receiving delivery of their Herald and News, please phone
Gene Carcenter, Circulation Manager
TIXEED 4411 before 7 p.m.

SCOUT NEWS

About 160 Boy Scouts and 27 scout leaders from Klamath Area, Modoc Boy Scout Council, troops participated in a fall camporee at Spencer Creek near here Saturday and Sunday.

Charles Hale, assistant district commissioner, planned the event, assisted by James Tockey, Klamath District camping and activities chairman, and by Ron Wilkerson, district leadership training chairman.

Groups participating were Troop 7, Merrill; Troop 30, Chiloquin; Troop 33, Malin; Troop 34, Fort Klamath; Troop 70, Dorris, and Troops 5, 9, 10, 31, 42, 71, 75, 77 and 78, Klamath Falls.

Members of Troop 30 won a nature hunt. Members of Troop 31 were judged champion fire builders and water boilers. Troops 5, 31, 33, 42 and 71 tied for the lead in "the compass game."

Boy Scouts and leaders who went to Colorado Springs last summer to attend the scouts' 50th anniversary jamboree invite parents, and the public to a reunion dinner at the Willard Hotel Thursday, Nov. 10, at 6:30 p.m.

More than 100 persons so far are expected to attend. A film of jamboree highlights will be shown, along with colored slide photographs of the scouts took.

The youngsters will relate their experiences there and display some items they obtained through trading with other scouts from the nation.

The jamboree movie is available to clubs and organizations for the asking. Those interested are asked to call the Boy Scout service center.

Harold Ashley, chairman of the Jamboree Committee, is making arrangements.

MALIN

MALIN — Malin Boy Scouts of Troop 33 attended the weekend "All County Camporee" at Spencer Creek Nov. 5 and 6.

This event was for all Klamath County Boy Scouts 11 to 13 years of age. The purpose was to teach them camping skills.

George Bauer, scoutmaster, and Jimmie Rogers, assistant scoutmaster, accompanied the eight boys—Jerry Dweley, Dale Petrasek, Bruce Bauer, Bobby Fargo, Larry Turner, Bobby Byrne, Bruce Vitorin, Paul Rogers and Bob Bauer Sr., patrol leader.

Six KUHS Students Considered

Six Klamath Union High School students, five girls and one boy, are being considered by the national office of the American Field Service Americans Abroad, for the student foreign exchange program for 1961.

Jeanne Baird, Jane Black, Martha Graham, Sandra Nichols, Richard Mollison and Bonnie Lake were named by a committee of local citizens appointed by the Klamath Falls AFS Chapter.

The nominations in no way guarantee final selections by the national office. Local chapters are considered to be fortunate to have one student selected for the program.

The plan permits students of the United States to live and to study in homes and schools of other countries and for foreign boys and girls to come here.

For any further information call Gene Favell at TU 4-6520.

There Is No Longer Doubts About Importance Of Vice President Post

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A surprisingly boisterous chorus of $100-a-plate cheers erupted one night last spring when a special guest was introduced to a ballroom crowd of Connecticut Democrats.

Not completely startled by the enthusiasm, the master of ceremonies leaned toward Lyndon B. Johnson and whispered: "Next to Jack Kennedy, you've got the warmest response."

Faris Family Back From Florida Trip

NEW PINE CREEK — Mr. and Mrs. Irvin L. Faris and their two teenage youngsters, Janet and Donald, returned Sunday from a trip to Miami, Fla., that took them 7,000 miles and lasted three weeks.

Mrs. Faris, the city's postmistress, was official representative of Oregon Chapter, National Association of Postmasters, during a convention there.

The convention began Oct. 23. Among speakers were former general, James E. Farley, the host postmaster, Secretary of Defense Walter Gates and Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield.

During their stay, the visitors were treated to topflight entertainment and tours.

They spent three days in Puerto Rico visiting a friend, Mrs. Theresa Melendez, postmistress of Arroyo. They flew the 1,200 miles to the island and spent an evening with Angel Rodriguez, a government secret service agent, his wife, Carlota, and daughter, Sonia, at San Juan.

The Farises toured the island next day. They visited ancient El Morro Fort that took 100 years to build under the rule of King Charles of Spain. They also visited famous and luxurious hotels, the spot where Christopher Columbus first landed on the island, the site of landing of American troops during the Spanish-American War.

Today—next to Jack Kennedy—Lyndon Baines Johnson of Texas has the highest honor his countrymen can bestow, election to the vice presidency.

He steps into a post raised to political eminence, ironically, by the man he will succeed, Richard M. Nixon.

If there was any doubt of the newfound political significance of the vice president's chair it was buried quietly last summer in a Los Angeles hotel room when Johnson, left at the gate in his bid for the presidency, agreed to run for the second spot.

As Senate majority leader he wielded great power on Capitol Hill, and Lyndon Johnson is not one to settle for a lesser role. Johnson's legislative wizardry is well established. His lapel-to-lapel cloakroom tactics ranged from classroom logic (he once was a school teacher) to unmasked logrolling (he was chairman of the Democratic conference, policy and steering committees).

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage. Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his father, Lyndon borrowed $75 and set out for Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. He graduated in 1930 and returned later as a teacher.

In 1937 Johnson ran for Congress and won over nine opponents by singing loudly a New Deal theme that won the attention of President Franklin Roosevelt. "He was like a daddy to me," said Johnson.

Roosevelt encouraged the ambitious Texan to try for the Senate in a special 1941 election to fill an unexpired term. Johnson lost by a slim margin, but won the seat in 1948 by an even slimmer one—87 votes.

He once said he seldom thought of politics "more than 18 hours a day," and many still recall his terse explanation of why he agreed to run for the vice presidency: "I want to serve and to serve well," he said. "I will leave it to my fellow Democrats, my fellow Americans, to determine what will be the title on my door."

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage. Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his father, Lyndon borrowed $75 and set out for Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. He graduated in 1930 and returned later as a teacher.

In 1937 Johnson ran for Congress and won over nine opponents by singing loudly a New Deal theme that won the attention of President Franklin Roosevelt. "He was like a daddy to me," said Johnson.

Roosevelt encouraged the ambitious Texan to try for the Senate in a special 1941 election to fill an unexpired term. Johnson lost by a slim margin, but won the seat in 1948 by an even slimmer one—87 votes.

He once said he seldom thought of politics "more than 18 hours a day," and many still recall his terse explanation of why he agreed to run for the vice presidency: "I want to serve and to serve well," he said. "I will leave it to my fellow Democrats, my fellow Americans, to determine what will be the title on my door."

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage. Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his father, Lyndon borrowed $75 and set out for Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. He graduated in 1930 and returned later as a teacher.

In 1937 Johnson ran for Congress and won over nine opponents by singing loudly a New Deal theme that won the attention of President Franklin Roosevelt. "He was like a daddy to me," said Johnson.

Roosevelt encouraged the ambitious Texan to try for the Senate in a special 1941 election to fill an unexpired term. Johnson lost by a slim margin, but won the seat in 1948 by an even slimmer one—87 votes.

He once said he seldom thought of politics "more than 18 hours a day," and many still recall his terse explanation of why he agreed to run for the vice presidency: "I want to serve and to serve well," he said. "I will leave it to my fellow Democrats, my fellow Americans, to determine what will be the title on my door."

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage. Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his father, Lyndon borrowed $75 and set out for Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. He graduated in 1930 and returned later as a teacher.

In 1937 Johnson ran for Congress and won over nine opponents by singing loudly a New Deal theme that won the attention of President Franklin Roosevelt. "He was like a daddy to me," said Johnson.

Roosevelt encouraged the ambitious Texan to try for the Senate in a special 1941 election to fill an unexpired term. Johnson lost by a slim margin, but won the seat in 1948 by an even slimmer one—87 votes.

He once said he seldom thought of politics "more than 18 hours a day," and many still recall his terse explanation of why he agreed to run for the vice presidency: "I want to serve and to serve well," he said. "I will leave it to my fellow Democrats, my fellow Americans, to determine what will be the title on my door."

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage. Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his father, Lyndon borrowed $75 and set out for Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. He graduated in 1930 and returned later as a teacher.

In 1937 Johnson ran for Congress and won over nine opponents by singing loudly a New Deal theme that won the attention of President Franklin Roosevelt. "He was like a daddy to me," said Johnson.

Roosevelt encouraged the ambitious Texan to try for the Senate in a special 1941 election to fill an unexpired term. Johnson lost by a slim margin, but won the seat in 1948 by an even slimmer one—87 votes.

He once said he seldom thought of politics "more than 18 hours a day," and many still recall his terse explanation of why he agreed to run for the vice presidency: "I want to serve and to serve well," he said. "I will leave it to my fellow Democrats, my fellow Americans, to determine what will be the title on my door."

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage. Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

After a heart-to-heart talk with his father, Lyndon borrowed $75 and set out for Southwest Texas State Teachers College at San Marcos. He graduated in 1930 and returned later as a teacher.

In 1937 Johnson ran for Congress and won over nine opponents by singing loudly a New Deal theme that won the attention of President Franklin Roosevelt. "He was like a daddy to me," said Johnson.

Roosevelt encouraged the ambitious Texan to try for the Senate in a special 1941 election to fill an unexpired term. Johnson lost by a slim margin, but won the seat in 1948 by an even slimmer one—87 votes.

He once said he seldom thought of politics "more than 18 hours a day," and many still recall his terse explanation of why he agreed to run for the vice presidency: "I want to serve and to serve well," he said. "I will leave it to my fellow Democrats, my fellow Americans, to determine what will be the title on my door."

He was born in Texas hill country Aug. 27, 1908, into a family of modest means but rich political heritage. Both his father and grandfather served in the Texas Legislature, but it was not until Lyndon had satisfied a teen-age fling for adventure with a hitchhiking jaunt to California that he settled on a political course for himself.

SHASTA DRIVE-IN 3535 TU-2
Gates Open Tonite 6:30 Show Starts At 7:00

TONITE and FRIDAY!

OPERATION SNAFU
JANE WYMAN · CLIFTON WEBB

A PRIVATE'S AFFAIR
TERRY MOORE · GARY CROSBY

Holiday for LOVERS
GARY CROSBY · CAROL LYNLEY

TOWER PHONE TU 4-8484
WALT DISNEY

brings to the screen the NEVER-BEFORE-TOLD story of the mighty Jaguar, the savage ruler of the world's most mysterious and treacherous wilderness—the jungle of the Amazon—a kingdom of strange wild creatures...spectacular beauty and EXCITEMENT!!!

Jungle Cat

THE NEWEST MOST EXCITING OF ALL TRUE-LIFE ADVENTURES

TECHNICOLOR® written and directed by

JUST FOR FUN!
A WACKY-TALE OF A MIXED-UP PUP AND HIS THIEVIN' PAL!

WALT DISNEY PRESENTS THE HOUND THAT THOUGHT HE WAS A RACCOON
TECHNICOLOR® REX ALLEN

CONTINUOUS FRIDAY & SATURDAY
Doors Open 12:45 Show Starts 1:00

Attention Residents of Falcon Heights and Surrounding Area... Watch For Opening of...

PAY and SAVE

Located Near Falcon Heights Homes

... new general merchandise store. We are now in the process of stocking this big new store and would appreciate your suggestions as to what you would like to see in our stock. We've placed a box at the front of our store for your convenience.