WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks re-treated in only moderately active dealings today.
The market took to the downside right at the opening. It had failed to make any worthwhile rally by late afternoon, although prices hovered slightly above morning lows.
Volume for the day was estimated at 2.8 billion shares compared with 2.75 billion Friday.
Steels, motors, chemicals, metals and drugs were lower from the start. Building materials displayed firmness at one time, but then retreated. Tire shares followed a similar pattern.
Utilities acted better than much of the market. Consolidated Edison and Southern California Edison posting small gains.
News that new car stocks on Nov. 1 totaled a record for the date created scattered selling in auto shares. Ford was weakest, losing more than 1 point as the company announced a small plant layoff in the Cleveland area.
Metals weakened as settlement of the Chile copper strike at Anaconda's mine was expected to increase supplies.
Steel shares were affected by the low operating rate and reports it would continue in that area. U.S. Steel dropped 1 1/2 and Bethlehem nearly 1.
U.S. government bonds deepened their losses. Corporate bonds were mixed.

Sale Price Of Property Is $60,322

KLAMATH AGENCY — Personal property items owned by the Klamath Indian Tribe sold for a total of $60,322 to tribal members here last week.
The sale was the last of a series of 15, in which tribal property was disposed. The property was appraised at $41,929. The sale included three track-type tractors, eight other motor vehicles, furniture, office equipment, household items and fire fighting equipment.
All items sold to members of the tribe. By rules of sale, tribal members were allowed to meet the highest bid and take the property. They were able to pledge money from their share of revenue from timber and property sales resulting from Klamath Indian Reservation termination. Each tribal member will receive an estimated $43,700 from the federal government as payment for community property.
Still to be sold are three huge parcels of timberland. They are the North Marsh Unit, containing an estimated 46,000 acres of pine forest land worth an appraised $11,047,000; the Sycan Unit, containing 562,000 acres and worth $6,403,000; and the Modoc Point Unit, containing 56,000 acres worth $3,784,000.
Bids will be opened in the Indian Sales Office in Klamath Falls at 2 p.m. Dec. 1. Each must meet the appraisal price and each must contain a plan approved by the forest service for sustained timber yield management.
When that sale is through, the Indian office will close, since its work will be finished.
Mrs. Idella Edgar is administrative assistant and operates the office. She has worked there since the office opened in 1953.
If no bids are acceptable, the property will become national forest land next April.
The reservation will not be liquidated until August of next year.
Klamath Agency, including more than 50 buildings and 101 acres situated between Chilquin and Fort Klamath, is expected to become the property of 10 tribal members Thursday.
They submitted the high bid for the property during a sale last August. If the sale is approved by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the partners will receive the key that day from Victor Sisson, agency fire control officer and a lifelong resident there.

OVER THE GARDEN GATE

KLAMATH FALLS CLUB
As landscape project for the Klamath Falls Garden Club, the group has volunteered to assist in the landscaping of Moore Park. Members are planning the landscaping of the area just inside the main gate, with plans centered on an interest in birds of the region. The project is being undertaken with the cooperation of the City Park and Recreation Department, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hugh O'Connor.
Finances for the project are being raised by means of a rummage and plant sale, to be held on Wednesday, Nov. 16, at the Piggly Wiggly Building, Seventh and Pine streets. All members are urged to bring rummage and plants. Anyone wishing pick-up of items may call TU 2-0668 or TU 4-8215.
A 16-year-old Klamath Falls boy was charged with hunting without a duck stamp Friday afternoon by City Juvenile Officer Ray Howard.
Howard said the boy and a 14-year-old companion were hunting across Link River by the Copco station. The boys had six ducks in their possession.
Two 17-year-old boys from Beatty were charged with violation of curfew early Monday morning. Police officers saw the boys changing a car tire on Halsey Street near Washburn Way at 1:10 a.m. Monday. The boys ran when they saw the officers, but were caught.
One boy said his sister had been drinking and driving and that she had rammed the car into a telephone pole.
State police reported another weekend traffic accident. A car with five passengers overturned Sunday afternoon on Highway 97 near Sand Creek. There were no injuries.
Driver of the 1961 car was Carolyn Connell Creighton, Boise. Police said the vehicle skidded into the ditch, turned completely over and came to rest on its wheels.
Trovillion's condition was listed as "poor" by Klamath Valley Hospital Monday morning. Two other airmen, William Floyd Acree, 25, and Jack A. Hicks, 23, were in Kingsley Field Dispensary Monday morning with multiple lacerations.
State police officers said Acree was apparently driving the car south on Altamont at a high rate of speed. The vehicle failed to make a sharp turn about two-tenths of a mile north of the base's main gate, went off the road and into a marsh.
The vehicle was removed from the scene by Bill's Wrecker.

George Krohn Testifies As Defense Side Begins

George W. Krohn took the witness stand in circuit court Monday in his own defense. He was charged with assault with intent to kill in the Oct. 13 shooting of Elks Club bartender Carl B. Young, 59.
The 33-year-old unemployed male stenographer told the 10-woman, two-man jury of his drinking history. Defense Attorney Hal F. Coe directed the questions to Krohn. The stocky, swarthy defendant appeared calm on the stand. He testified clearly and in detail.
Krohn said he had been drinking heavily for the past 10 years. At the time of the shooting, he was drinking at least a fifth of whiskey a day and then going out to bars at night where, he said, he usually had "15 or 20 straight shots." He testified that for the last five years he has had increasingly frequent, dizzy spells, blackouts and nightmares.
"Many times I have forgotten where I was," Krohn said. "My blackouts have often lasted all night. I just wake up and find myself someplace but I don't know how I got there."
Krohn said he had been in Hillside Hospital for a week in March due to his drinking. He didn't drink for three weeks after he was released.
"Then one night I drove to Dorris and bought a pint," Krohn said. "I drank it before I got back to Klamath Falls. That started me drinking again."
Under examination by Coe, the defendant said he woke up in mid-morning of Oct. 12 and drank two fifths by 4 p.m.
"I don't remember leaving the house," Krohn said. "The next thing I remember, I was in the American Legion Club. Then, I recall entering the double doors to the Elks Club bar. I had been there maybe three times before."
Krohn said he remembered sitting down on the left end of the bar. He said a guest book was placed in front of him and he recalled writing "one or two" checks.
"Then I had a feeling of falling backwards," Krohn said. "I was standing next to the back door and then I was flat on my face. I remember walking back to my sister's place (a rooming house at 310 South Fifth Street, two doors from the Klamath Falls Police Station)."
Krohn remembered talking to his sister; then he said he went outside and was arrested. He had only fragmentary recollection of the remainder of the evening.
Krohn has entered a plea of not guilty by reason of temporary insanity due to chronic and excessive alcoholism. Deputy District Attorney Robert M. Redding had begun Krohn's cross-examination just before noon.

Skid Cause Of Accident On Saturday

A Klamath Falls man, Franklin Russell Jones, 29, 1742 Menlo Way, was killed Saturday night when his car skidded on Highway 97 near the Kirk Junction, rolled over and came up on its wheels.
A passenger in the car, Sherry Ann Pridemore, 18, 212 Gate Road, escaped with minor injuries and bruises.
State police officers said Jones' vehicle had been traveling north on Highway 97 when it apparently slid on the pavement and went out of control and tumbled into the left-hand ditch.
Jones and Miss Pridemore were rushed to the Chilquin Medical Clinic by the Chilquin disaster car. The young man died at the clinic at 8:10 p.m. Saturday. The car was towed away by the Modoc Towing Service.

Wants To Know How To Lose Him

Dear Ann Landers: I just put down another magazine article on "How to Hold Your Husband." I wish someone would write an article on "How To Lose Him." My little boy is irresponsible, short-tempered, egocentric and constantly threatens to leave me. Unfortunately, he never does. I've even offered to pack for him.
All the magazine articles say a wife should soothe her husband's shattered nerves and bolster his sagging ego by telling him how wonderful he is. How can you tell a man he's wonderful when he comes home stoned; screams, swears, and passes out before he gets his shoes off? The next morning he can't remember what he did with the car. This is wonderful!
I've heard it said that trouble builds character. Well, I've had so much trouble in my life that character is sticking out all over. What I need is a vacation from him. What do you suggest, Ann Landers?—MARYANNA
Dear Maryanna: A vacation from him.
Dear Ann Landers: I hope you remember me. I signed my letter One of Nine Children.
I wanted you to tell us what to do about an 80-year-old father who has a pension check. Your answer was a lot of high-sounding philosophy but no advice. Remember, I told you my five sisters married pretty well and could afford to take the old man in, but they don't want to be bothered. The rest of us have a hard time paying our bills. Pa's pension is only $68 a month, but it would help some. Don't you think the one who takes him in should get his pension check, too?
Please don't talk so fancy. Let's have some plain language.—ONE OF NINE
Dear One: If it's plain language you're looking for you came to the right place. You nine kids are a disgrace to the human race. It's strange how one father can take care of nine kids when they are young—but nine kids can't take care of one father when he's old.
If none of you is willing to take your dad in, then put him in a nursing home. He'd probably be happier there than with children who don't want him.
You sound like such dolls you'll probably need the poor guy's pension check to cover the cost of his care in a home—in which case go ahead and use it. If this isn't plain enough, please send me your name and address. I'll use my own stamp.
Dear Ann Landers: Our son is brilliant but he deliberately did poorly on a scholarship examination because he did not wish to go to a certain college. His dad wanted him to go for sentimental reasons. Our son did well on the college boards and now my husband is forcing the boy to attend the school of his choice even though the boy made it clear that he hates it.
Frankly I don't know who's right. My husband says it's time the boy was forced to do something constructive as a matter of discipline. What do you say?—MRS. M. D.
Dear Mrs. M. D.: Insisting that your son attend a school he "hates" is a mistake. You can force him to drag his body there, but his mind will be closed. Before you throw out more money get the objective advice of a professor.
To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.
(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)
