

Record Cranberry Crop Available Says Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department spokesmen said Monday a record crop of cranberries of high quality is available this year for the Thanksgiving-through-Christmas season.

At the same time they said sales so far have been slow compared with previous years even though government officials have attempted to blot out the cancer scare in this specialty crop last year.

Sales suffered sharply last year when the government cracked down just before Thanksgiving, the peak of the season, on cranberries tainted with a weed killer that was reported to produce cancer in test animals when used in large quantities.

Extensive campaigns by federal agencies and the cranberry industry are expected to boost sales of the turkey garnish during the next two months.

The department estimated this year's crop at 1,344,000 barrels—each barrel having 100 pounds of cranberries. That is 9 per cent above the crop last year and 35 per cent above the recent 10-year average production.

Because of the big crop this time, retail prices for fresh berries are reported about 2 cents a pound lower than a year ago. The prices of canned cranberry sauce and other products are slightly higher.

Last year, Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming startled the public with an announcement by the Federal Food and Drug Administration that some cranberries might be endangered by the weed killer.

Only a small part of the 1959 crop was rejected as contaminated, but the fears of consumers damaged the cranberry market.

Police Mull Unexplained Death Of 5

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (UP) — Authorities today refused to accept any explanation but murder for the deaths of four men and a youth whose bodies, horribly burned, were found sitting in a burned-out car on a remote dead end road.

But one major question remained. If it were murder, how were they killed?

The bodies, discovered Sunday by a little girl, were sitting upright, in natural positions. The doors of the car had buckled in the intense heat, but had not jammed. The car apparently had run off a dirt road into a creek bed, but had halted without turning over.

Traces of Gas

Autopsies performed Monday disclosed traces of poisonous carbon monoxide gas, which is contained in auto exhaust fumes, but it could not be determined whether the gas was the killer. State Police Sgt. James Cox said he was continuing the investigation on the assumption the deaths were no accident.

Two of the charred bodies were sent to Kettering Crime Laboratory in Cincinnati, Ohio, for further examination.

"I have never seen bodies burned so badly as these were," said Pike County Coroner Raymond S. Call. The fire had burned the head off at least one of the victims.

"I believe that such intense heat could not be developed merely by the burning of the interior of an automobile," Call said. "I believe the fire was fed."

Robbery Possible Motive

State police indicated robbery was a possible motive. They said John Yates, father of one of the victims, told them his son had had more than $200 in his wallet when he was last seen Saturday night.

The victims, all coal miners except the youngest, were identified as Harmon Robinson, 42; Denver Yates, 25; Harvey Ratliff, 24; the driver; Bob Hopkins Jr., 22, and his brother, Louis, 16.

State police said the five were last seen Saturday night, and that witnesses indicated they had been drinking.

"We have so very little to go on," Cox said. "We all have our theories, but they are merely theories and we can't disclose those."

Keep Trap Shut, Gabby Hubby

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I went together a year and then we became engaged. The engagement lasted almost six months. I'm ashamed to tell you that during the engagement the pressure of his pleading was too much for me, and I gave in to him.

We have been married four months and are happy, except for one thing. Whenever we are among friends he gets on the subject of virgin-brides. When he insists, vehemently, that there isn't a girl in the whole world who waits till marriage, I want to crawl into a hole and die. I've tried to explain to him that when he talks like this he advertises the fact that he didn't get one. He says I'm wrong and that people always assume "present company is excluded." How about this?—RED IN THE FACE

Dear Red: Your husband should stay off the subject and keep his big trap shut. Of course he places you in a terrible position when he makes these ugly comments. I hope all you single girls are listening. This is another strong argument in favor of holding the fort. Many a guy who puts on a big pitch is disappointed when he wins the Great Debate. He becomes disillusioned about womanhood in general, and his own girl in particular. He may tell you it will never make a difference but too often when the great love begins to tarnish a little, the past is used as a club to beat you over the head.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are having a misunderstanding concerning a relative. Please settle it. My sister's husband brings a lot and gets on my husband's nerves. I say the girl is a brother-in-law to my husband. My husband says he is nothing. Who is right?—SWORD'S POINT

Dear Point: You both could be right. The guy may be nothing (real nothing, that is) but men are brothers-in-law when they marry sisters.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: You would be doing a lot of working people a favor if you'd publish this. Many college boys need to see it in print before they'll give it a thought.

I'm a night club waiter in a city where there are many college students. I know many of these kids aren't rich — in fact some struggle to get by. But, it seems unfair to take a date to a club and sit there a whole evening, getting service, and then leave nothing for the waiter but a mess to clean up.

Most of these kids come in four and six together. You'd think they could order one drink less, and scrape together a dollar to give to a waiter or a waitress. They serve them for three hours. They

Suspension Hits Clubs

NEW YORK (AP) — The night club where Sophie Tucker performed without a valid entertainer's license has been slapped with a four-day police suspension, beginning Wednesday.

Police added the name of Sherman Billingsley, owner of the Stork Club, to their growing list of violators of cabaret licensing laws.

Miss Tucker recently sang at Jack Silverman's International restaurant with an expired license. The suspension means that the establishment may serve food and drinks, but cannot offer entertainment. Comedian Joey Adams was to have begun an engagement at the club Wednesday.

Billingsley and three of his waiters were found to have no identification cards when police inspected the Stork Club Monday.

Under a 1941 ruling, all cabaret employees and performers must have identity cards—in effect, licenses—to work. They must be photographed and fingerprinted and pay a $2 fee.

A citizens' committee touched off investigations when it charged that police corruption was involved in the issuing of the licenses.

A hearing was scheduled today for Jules Podell, owner of the Copacabana where Frank Sinatra has admitted singing without license.

Police said they found violations of work, state liquor or health laws at El Morocco, the Embers, Armando's and many other of the city's 1,200 cabarets.

Murder Charge Trial Dated

NEWPORT (AP) — Jerry Wayne Gibson, 21, Lebanon, waived preliminary hearing Monday on a first degree murder charge. He will go before the Lincoln County grand jury about Nov. 28.

Gibson is accused of slaying Lawrence Bruce Ludahl, 18, when Ludahl intervened in an argument Gibson was having with his estranged wife. Gibson was trying to persuade his wife to return to him at Lebanon. She had refused. They had been married only since October.

Gibson was ordered held without bail.

Seeks Romance

LONDON (AP) — Actress Shelley Winters flew into London over the weekend all set to make a movie and "fall in love with an Englishman."

Miss Winters, who divorced actor Anthony Franciosa Friday, came to Britain to play the role of the mother in "Lolita," the film of the novel by Vladimir Nabokov.

"I'm seriously considering coming to live over here," she told newsmen. "The pace is so much slower in Britain than in America."

"You've got so many intellectuals," she added. "And another thing, I'm single and I'd like to fall in love with an Englishman."

But she ruled out actors — "I think they do not make good husbands."

Election Expense Report Details Senate Race Cost

SALEM (AP) — Reports filed with the secretary of state's office showed today that the fight for Oregon's U. S. Senate seat was the most costly of all in the Nov. 8 election.

There were numerous big contributions to both Maurice Neuberger, a Democrat who won, and Republican Elmo Smith, his opponent.

Mrs. Neuberger had 28 contributions of $500 or more. Total contributions listed by her committee were $96,208.

Smith's campaign committee reported spending $84,812 and receiving $89,944.

The chief contributions to Mrs. Neuberger were $10,000 from the Oregon AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education, and $11,600 from the Friends of Maurice Neuberger, Washington, D. C.

There were four contributions of $1,500 each to Smith's committee from J. Howard Pew, J. N. Pew Jr., Mary Ethel Pew and Mabel Pew Myrin, all members of a wealthy Philadelphia, Pa., shipbuilding family.

Mrs. Neuberger got $5,000 from the Pennsylvania Democratic State Finance Committee.

Here is a list of the major contributors who gave $500 or more:

Mrs. Neuberger:
Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kaplan, New York, $1,000.
Mrs. Marshall Field, New York, $500.
Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Washington, D. C., $500.
Dr. Julius F. Neuberger, New York, $500.
Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lehman, New York, $1,000.
Mrs. Gifford Phillips, Los Angeles, $500.
George D. Pratt Jr., Bridge-water, Conn., $500.

Police Jail Novelist

NEW YORK (AP) — Author Norman Mailer, 37, whose latest book is "Advertisements for Myself," has been arrested on a charge of stabbing his wife, Adele, during a party in their Manhattan apartment.

Mrs. Mailer, 35, in critical condition with a knife wound in the stomach and one in the back, told police: "He didn't say anything. He just looked at me. He didn't say a word. He stabbed me."

Mailer had a penknife when detectives arrested him Monday night when he arrived at University Hospital to visit his wife. He was booked on a charge of felonious assault.

He refused to discuss the stabbing with newsmen. Later, his attorney, John Cox, told detectives that when he conferred with Mailer he had "encountered difficulty in talking" with him.

Police quoted Mrs. Mailer as saying her husband had "homocidal tendencies" and that his family had been trying to persuade him to see a psychiatrist.

Mrs. Mailer showed up at the hospital about 8 a. m. Sunday, three hours after the stabbing. She first told doctors she had slipped at a party and fallen on broken glass. They doubted the story and notified police. After an emergency operation she told officers of the stabbing.

It was the second time in eight days that Mailer had been arrested. A week ago Monday he was arrested at Birdland, a jazz nightclub, on a disorderly conduct charge after he argued with the management over a $7.60 bill.

Last June, Mailer, acting as his own counsel, was found guilty of drunkenness by a Provincetown, Mass., judge. Mailer was acquitted, however, on a charge of riot and disorderly conduct.

Study Denies Aid To Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate study says there is no place in U.S. governmental machinery for a "first secretary" to aid the president.

Proposals which were considered would provide for such a secretary out-ranking other Cabinet members and supervising major operations of the government.

"The president of the United States cannot be relieved of his burdens by supplying him with a 'deputy' to do what only he can do," said a staff report from the Senate subcommittee on national policy-making machinery.

Its chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., expressed the personal view that creation of the new post might add to the president's policy-making burdens rather than reducing them.

President Eisenhower has been expected to recommend some such proposal as part of his promised plan for reorganizing the government. The idea came from New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who headed a presidential advisory committee on the subject.

Jackson issued his personal statement in making public Monday night the report of his subcommittee staff. But his position as Democratic national chairman gives at least some indication that his views coincide with those of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Rockefeller had suggested that a first secretary could exercise delegated presidential authority on all national security affairs "at the prime ministerial level."

The staff study said such a plan would appear at first glance to lighten the load on the president. But it said putting a first secretary between the president and his Cabinet members "would inevitably generate friction and resentment."

Son Shoots Robber

WILSONVILLE, Ore. (AP) — A 30-year-old Hubbard man was shot in an attempted grocery store holdup at this community on the Portland-Salem freeway late Monday night.

Police said two other men escaped in an automobile, wrecked it against a pole a short distance away and fled on foot into farm fields. Police spread over the area in search.

The man shot at Lowrie's Food Market was Donald William Farrell. He was taken to St. Vincent Hospital in Portland. His condition was not determined at once.

Police said he and another man grappled with the store owner, William Gilbert Lowrie, 45, but a wild shot from a bandit's gun alerted Lowrie's son, Terry, 18, who ran to his father's aid with a .22 caliber revolver. Young Lowrie said he wounded Farrell and put a couple of bullets into the fleeing car. Police said the bullets hit window glass on the car, but failed to penetrate.

Hawaiians Visit Salem

SALEM (AP) — Four Hawaiian officials visited the Oregon capitol Monday to get ideas for a new capitol in Hawaii.

In the group were Leo C. Pritchard, Hawaii's administrative director, state Reps. George Koga and William Bains - Jordan, and Cyril Lemmon, architect.

Oregon was the last stop on a tour that took them to New Mexico, Nebraska, North Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas and Arizona.

"The best was the last," said Lemmon. He said Oregon's capitol presented the best arrangements of any they had seen.

Arriving Pair Nip Burglary

DEPOE BAY (AP) — When Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Losey heard noises as they arrived at their tavern early Monday, they investigated cautiously. He went to the front door, she to the back.

A man suddenly darted out the rear. He got away although Mrs. Losey clipped him on the head with a pistol as he fled.

They notified sheriff's deputies who a short time later arrested a man walking along a road south of Depoe Bay. He had a bump on his head, the sheriff said.

AF Successfully Tests Space Capsule Ballute

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has safely brought back to earth a 500-pound space capsule using a combination of a drag balloon and a parachute.

The device, called a ballute, was tested successfully for the second time Monday at Santa Rosa Island, Fla. The capsule was shot to a height of 32 miles by a three-stage missile.

Four other rockets were launched during the day in re-entry tests at the Eglin Air Force base site. Three of these also involved ballutes.

The ballute system, developed by Goodyear Aircraft Corp., worked this way:

As the third stage of the rocket reached 75,000 feet, still coasting upward at 1,100 miles an hour, a nine-foot balloon was released from the tail section.

The balloon popped into shape in a tenth of a second and was reeled out on a cable to stabilize the 500-pound capsule and slow it down by atmospheric drag.

A strain gauge measured the amount of drag and radioed the information to the ground, while a camera recorded the balloon's performance.

The capsule eventually reached a height of 170,000 feet. When the balloon had slowed it to less than the speed of sound (760 miles an hour), a parachute popped out and lowered the package into the Gulf of Mexico test range.
