

A gift of beauty is one that's bound to add sparkle to her Christmas. This year, you can pick and choose from a really brilliant array. Bottles have been designed as keepsakes when the contents are used up. Many will be the antiques of the future. A whole hatbox full of fragrance (left) is just one idea. One beauty house has made this hatbox available in black-and-gold pint size to be filled with any combination of their perfumes, cosmetics, lotions and bath creations. The very modern bottle (inset) contains a perfume that's a rich, Oriental blend. It can be matched in scent by dusting powder, bath oil, perfume patty and daytime essence. The great, big cut-glass bottle (right) on the dressing-table is an Italian import containing an American toilet water in carnation scent. The bottle, of course, is meant as a keepsake. Scattered about on the table are little glass chess pieces which contain perfume. The pieces may actually be used for chess when the scent is gone.
