Social Secretary-To-Be Is Young Career Woman

WASHINGTON (AP)—The social secretary-to-be of the White House is a successful young career woman who fits right into the scheme of new things to come.

She is Letitia K. Baldrige, already an enthusiastic harbinger of plans by the next first lady, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, to make the White House a showcase for great American art and artists.

Miss Baldrige is an expert on art. She's the author of one book and working on another. She can type, use a transcript machine, play a fast game of tennis and strum a melodious guitar.

She speaks French and Italian fluently, and she cooks the dishes of both lands. "A marvelous cook," a friend said of her.

Miss Baldrige is a tall blonde known to all her friends as "Tish." She's an old school friend of the young mother who will become first lady Jan. 20.

Through some 20 years the two have continued their friendship. Miss Baldrige once told a reporter she had watched Mrs. Kennedy "grow through the years with grace and serenity" and added "she's going to bring a great deal of distinction to the White House."

Miss Baldrige says she was formerly a Republican, but voted for Kennedy. And so, she said, did her father, attorney Malcolm Baldrige, a Republican representative from Omaha in 1931-33.

Her story is one of the girl from Omaha who went East to school, worked as a government girl, went to Europe, became an embassy social secretary and came back to New York in a public relations job.

She and Mrs. Kennedy, the former Jacqueline Bouvier, went to the fashionable Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn. Miss Baldrige was two classes ahead. Both went on to Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N. Y. Mrs. Kennedy was studying in Paris the year Miss Baldrige was social secretary to the wife of Ambassador David K. E. Bruce.

Later, Miss Baldrige was social secretary to Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce in Rome, from 1953 to 1956. This was the job about which she wrote her book, "Roman Candle."

Prior to her new appointment, she was director of public relations for a New York jeweler.

She comes to her new job, she says, "very happy, very excited and very scared."

She told a press conference last week that she was asked by Mrs. Kennedy several weeks before the election to take the job "if my husband should win." Miss Baldrige said she replied, "You bet I will."

As social secretary she will handle everything from formal state dinners to answering mail for the first lady.

No Suit Filed

SALEM (AP)—No suit has been filed to challenge the constitutionality of Oregon's 1957 School District Reorganization Law, Cecil Quesseth, attorney for the state Department of Education, said Friday.

Wednesday's Supreme Court decision involving Morrow County had only a limited application, he said. Supreme Court attaches confirmed this.

This Supreme Court decision applies only to those few cases where boundaries are unchanged. The court said reorganization in these cases can be accomplished without a vote of the people.

Quesseth said another suit, filed in Washington County, claims that another portion of the act is unconstitutional.

West To Gain In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Westerners will be in strong positions in the next Senate.

Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., is likely to become the Senate majority leader. He would, as leader, work closely with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson in seeking to carry out legislative programs asked by President John F. Kennedy.

Johnson, majority leader in the past session of the Senate, had Mansfield as his assistant leader, or whip.

If he does not become the leader, Mansfield is in line for chairmanship of the Senate Rules Committee—a housekeeping group.

Several westerners will head Senate committees. They include Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash.

Magnuson probably will keep his chairmanship of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee.

Although he hasn't the seniority to get a Senate committee chairmanship, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., will be influential as a close friend of the new President. He plans to continue as chairman of the Democratic National Committee until April at least.

Westerners probably will be added to the Senate Interior Committee to fill vacancies caused by the retirement of Sen. James Murray, D-Mont., and Sen. Joseph O'Mahoney, D-Wyo.

Sen-elect Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., wants assignment to the Interior Committee. So does Sen-elect Keith Thompson, R-Wyo.

Among senators on Interior this year and expected to continue next are Jackson, Frank Church, D-Idaho and Henry Dworshak, R-Idaho.

Burglars Rob Country Club

CORVALLIS (AP)—Burglars broke into the Corvallis Country Club Friday night and stole 24 golf clubs, 15 cartons of cigarettes and 30 fifths of whiskey.

Sheriff's deputy Cliff Brown said the thieves hauled the loot in golf carts to the getaway car in a parking lot. Then they took the cars, too.

Under Quarantine

SALEM (AP)—Only sixty-three Oregon cattle herds are under quarantine for brucellosis, the lowest number since the statewide program to eradicate the disease started five years ago, the state Department of Agriculture said.

High blood pressure affects twice as many women as men in the United States, says the Health Insurance Institute.

Lawmakers Warn West

PARIS (AP)—Lawmakers from the 15 North Atlantic Treaty countries were told Friday Western Europe must bridge the gap between its two rival trading groups or face serious political as well as economic consequences.

A report to the annual NATO parliamentarians conference described relations between the six-nation common market and British-led "Outer Seven" as a "most urgent" problem facing the Western alliance.

All the common market nations — France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—are also members of NATO. But three of the seven in the free trade zone—Austria, Sweden and Switzerland—are not.

The report suggested the projected new organization for Economic Cooperation and Development as the best channel for the two trading systems to reach an understanding. All 13 countries are to join the OECD when it comes into effect next year.

Abandoned Pickup Trips Escaped Convicts Alert

KELLOGG, Idaho (AP)—A five-state alert for two convicts who escaped from maximum security at the Washington State Penitentiary was broadcast after a stolen pickup truck was found abandoned along Highway 10 here early Friday, its windshield wipers still running.

Sought are profusely-tattooed Joseph Nichols, 29, King County, Wash., and Gordon Graham, 28, Spokane. The police broadcast described the two escapees as dangerous.

Both were serving sentences for robbery when they escaped from the penitentiary at Walla Walla, Wash., Wednesday night by hiding in a truck and then leaving the compound during heavy construction traffic.

The pickup found in Kellogg Friday bore Walla Walla County license plates and had been reported stolen in the Washington city. Police spotted the vehicle as it moved along Highway 10 on the outskirts of the city and when they swung back to make a check, found the vehicle abandoned.

A few minutes later, a car was reported stolen in nearby Osburn. Police believe the men may be trying to reach the Montana border, a short distance east of Osburn.

Police were put on the alert in Montana, Idaho, Washington and even Oregon and Utah.

Graham, who once was a professional boxer, was arrested in Seattle Feb. 18 by police who besieged the house in which he was hiding and routed him with tear gas. He was sentenced for the $7,000 robbery of a Spokane grocery store Feb. 14 and charged with other holdups.
