

Soviet-Red Chinese Quarrel Could Cause War; Russian Press Conditions People For Conflict

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

Here is an ominous aspect of the Soviet-Red Chinese quarrel: It could result in World War III, and Moscow seems to be preparing for the possibility.

Soviet propaganda makes much of the term peace, but at the same time it seems to be actively conditioning the minds of people in Red-ruled lands for the possibility of a preventive war against the United States.

The suspicion is reinforced by the statement of Premier Khrushchev Wednesday to Pravda on the subject of disarmament. Historically, Communist leaders have accused others of planning what, in fact, has been in their own minds.

Khrushchev accused the West of duplicity in disarmament talks, of steadily building up nuclear weapons stockpiles and of constant provocations and spying against the U.S.S.R. All this, said Khrushchev, could enable the United States to "choose the suitable moment for dealing their blow and starting an aggression."

Taken by itself, this might not appear too menacing. But this sort of thing has been publicized time

Pope Talks Of Death

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII told an international audience on his 79th birthday Friday that he is "always ready to move over to the other shore" whenever that is God's will.

The pontiff's passing remark was his third reference in recent weeks to the thought of death. All his remarks on the subject have been brief and serene.

Pope John, who appeared in good health and excellent spirits, was addressing a mass audience of 2,000, including 1,000 members of the hunger-fighting U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

"We are aging," Pope John told the audience. "I am always ready to move over to the other shore."

The audience in the Vatican's Clementine Hall was the Pope's only public appearance on his 79th birthday. Vatican City buildings were beflagged for the occasion, but it was a working day and there were no public celebrations.

Pope John got up early as usual and celebrated his daily mass at 7 a.m. (1 a.m. EST) in his private chapel, filled with flowers from the papal summer villa in Castel Gandolfo.

Assistant Vatican Secretary Angelo Dellacqua in a private audience gave the Pope the birthday greetings and best wishes of the state secretariat staff.

In contrast with the informality of Pope John's birthday Friday, church officials were already making plans for big celebrations of his 80th birthday next year.

The tentative plans call for the erection of a church in Rome with funds collected among the world's clergy. Laymen in turn will be asked to contribute money for construction of a college for Catholic lay students, especially those from mission countries.

CHAMBER COMMENTS

KLAMATH COUNTY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

There are many ways in which a community can put its best foot forward, not the least of which is in the quality of facilities offered the traveling public.

We all know that Klamath Falls and Klamath County have excellent hotels, motels and restaurants as well as up to date service stations to accommodate the motoring public. At the moment, I'm thinking about air travel, and the magnificent terminal building at Kingsley Field and the favorable impression it must leave with all persons who have occasion to use it. A quick trip to Portland and return early last week brought home the point that with the exception of the new facilities at Portland International Airport, Klamath Falls has the finest terminal building in Oregon, and quite probably the finest in the northwest for a community of this size.

Not only has this meant a favorable impression on some 2,000 commercial airline passengers per month, but also on great numbers of private or sportsman pilots and military personnel.

In addition, the structure itself has brought national attention to Klamath Falls. The August-September issue of "Timpress," a bi-monthly trade magazine published in Portland, carried colored photographs of the new terminal building on its cover and on three inside pages, along with

Gimmick To Aid Postal Transfer Suit Demo Strength

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats may go into the 1962 battle for Congress with a decided edge — thanks to population changes and a time-honored political gimmick known as gerrymandering.

The main required skill of the game is an ability to carve a state's congressional districts into shapes, however unlikely, designed to benefit the party in power.

The rewards for the winners are considerable. The penalty for the loser frequently is political oblivion.

It all comes about because of the constitutional requirement for a national population count every 10 years and, if warranted, a redistribution of congressional seats among the states.

Because of population changes in the 1950s, nine states will pick up seats in the House of Representatives in the 1962 election while 16 will lose strength.

A UPI survey showed that the Democrats have an excellent chance of coming out ahead in the forthcoming redistricting because they control 12 of the 25 states involved. The Republicans control four and control of nine is split.

Most important, the Democrats control California, which picks up eight seats, and Florida, which gains four. They hope to reshape as many as two thirds of California's 38 seats in their favor and to grab all of Florida's four new seats.

This is done through a process called gerrymandering, in which a pocket of voters favoring one party is thrown into a district overwhelmingly controlled by the opposition, thus nullifying their influence.

Their Future Depends on You — Your Future Depends on them

Never before has this dovetailing of education with our national future been as imperative as it is today. Yet, many colleges and universities are already crowded. And in ten years the number of college applicants is expected to double.

We cannot afford to let students of high promise be turned away for lack of room and lack of teachers.

But to prevent this college crisis, you must start now. Help our schools expand their facilities. Help them retain and recruit more competent instructors. Give to the college of your choice now!

and again by Soviet propaganda ever since last May, when Khrushchev, using the U2 plane incident as his excuse, was preparing to blow up the Paris summit conference.

Since then Khrushchev has given the impression that the appearance of a single U.S. plane or submarine in Soviet air or waters will be considered a military invasion—in a word, an aggression which could be answered with a big preventive blow.

Some Western experts express belief the Kremlin is engaged in a psychological buildup to justify a preventive attack should that to the Kremlin's way of thinking become necessary.

In Munich, Germany, experts of the institute for study of the U.S.S.R. say they detect such a trend. Hammering propaganda for six months has been keyed to an anti-Soviet, to hatred and distrust of Americans, to picturing the United States and West Germany, in that order, as real and present menaces to the Soviet population.

One method of psychological buildup, says the institute, is an attempt to reproduce in Russia the mood of World War II, through glorification of the armed forces and constant appeals for vigilance and defense readiness.

Month Lists Baby Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — More babies were born in the United States in September 1960 than in any previous September, the Public Health Service reported Friday.

This made two successive record months. The August total also had exceeded that for any previous August, reversing what had been a 12-month downward trend.

There were an estimated 385,000 registered births during September, the National Office of Vital Statistics said. This was 3.5 per cent more than the 372,000 for September 1959.

In August, births numbered an estimated 399,000, or 4.50 per cent more than the 382,000 in August 1959.

However, the two record months did not bring the 1960 total for nine months, which was 3,165,000, up to the 3,188,000 listed for the first nine months of 1959. The 1960 total was down 0.7 per cent.

less of risks, to expand at every opportunity.

Manifestly, this worries Khrushchev, who has contended that while communism would win, there would be little left after nuclear war on either side.

Khrushchev could lose the argument and be toppled in favor of a group more receptive to the Chinese idea. Desperation could lead to that, if an entrenched hierarchy should see in the developing argument a real threat to its continued sway over the Soviet Union and the world Communist movement.

Khrushchev has played for time, and won some time in the Communist summit which began Nov. 9 in Moscow. He is still on a spot. The dissidents—Red Chinese and those agreeing with them—will watch carefully as Khrushchev approaches the new U.S. administration.

It is possible Khrushchev will win out, and 1961 will be just another nerve-racking cold war year. It is possible also that he will lose, and 1961 will be the most dangerous year of the cold war era.

text which said, in part, "Realizing that first impressions often lead to lasting convictions, officials of Klamath Falls, Ore., determined that their new municipal airport terminal would depict the city they are striving to build—a modern, progressive community that attacks its problems forthrightly and comes up with sensible, yet distinctive solutions."

The November issue of "Mayor and Manager," a magazine circulated to mayors and city managers throughout the United States, included a full page illustrated story about our new terminal which, it says, "may well set the standard for small terminals of the future. . . ." As the lead sentence of the article points out, ". . . as more and more people travel by the air route, a city is known by its airport."

Through its Aviation Committee, the Klamath County Chamber of Commerce has long worked in concert with the city of Klamath Falls in matters pertaining to the municipal airport and commercial airline service to the Klamath area.

Under the direction of James Bocchi, the committee this year is planning an augmented program of action involving all the aviation interests of the county which, now that our best foot has been put forward, will keep it there.

SALEM (AP)—A suit to block transfer of the regional postoffice headquarters from Portland to Seattle will be filed in federal court in Washington, D.C., early this week, Acting Gov. Walter J. Pearson said today.

Postmaster General Summerfield has ordered the transfer on Dec. 1.

Pearson said Oregon Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton will ask the court for a temporary injunction to stop the move. Pearson sent Thornton to Washington, and he is there now.

The purpose of the suit, Pearson said, is to delay the transfer until the Kennedy administration takes office and the new Congress meets.

If the move is delayed, Pearson said, then appeals would be made to Congress and the new administration.

"I think we have a pretty good chance of getting the injunction," Pearson said. He said Thornton will meet Monday with Summerfield.
