

Moscow Control Appears Slipping

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

Recent developments make it clear Moscow is becoming less and less able to impose total discipline upon foreign Communist parties.

This does not mean the Kremlin stands to lose the leadership of the world Communist movement in the foreseeable future. But it does mean Moscow is losing some control and is facing troublesome times.

The Soviet Communist party is running into disobedience and even rebellion in the ranks of the Communist fifth column in a number of areas of the world, and is encountering resentment among many of its partisans.

One of the important reasons is that the outlook of the Soviet party differs from that of many a Communist in the ranks beyond the Soviet borders.

The Bolshevik seizure of power in Russia took place 43 years ago.

Men Can't Figure Wives' 'Wait For Me' Attitudes

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Why is it wives love to keep their husbands waiting?

The habit of wifely procrastination probably has annoyed and puzzled more men than all other feminine idiosyncrasies put together.

If two women agree to meet at a department store luncheon counter at noon, they miraculously arrive simultaneously as the clock strikes twelve.

Each would get there exactly on time if she had to crawl through snowdrifts on her hands and knees to make it. Neither would think of keeping the other waiting. A woman simply doesn't do that to another woman.

Before marriage a girl is also fairly punctual about meeting her boy friend on time. But once she gets a wedding ring on her finger, she changes almost instantly.

From then on she seems to delight in keeping her husband waiting.

If she is to meet him after work, she arrives 45 minutes late—and she doesn't show up out of breath either. If they are leaving from home to go to a party, she dawdles before her mirror while her husband, fully dressed, fumes and paces impatiently in the living room.

An hour after they should have departed she enters and says: "Oh, are you all ready, dear? Why didn't you tell me?"

"I been hollering at you for a full hour," he yelps. But a lot of good it does him.

Year after year he moans, cries, screams, sobs and bellows: "Can't we ever get anywhere on time?" He never quite adjusts to the fact that no, they can't.

The other day a group of office water-cooler philosophers was discussing this strange penchant of wives for making their husbands wait unnecessarily.

Here are some of their views: "Frankly, I think it's simply a matter of revenge," said one older man. "I went with my wife three years before I decided to give her a break and marry her."

"For three years she didn't know whether she was winning or losing. That was a long time to wait. After marriage she started making me wait. She was just getting even."

"That's the way it is with all wives. They're simply getting revenge for the time we kept 'em dangling."

Another said he didn't think it was that simple.

"Actually it's a kind of feminine psychological warfare," he said. "When a woman keeps you waiting, she knows she has you off balance. It gives her a mental edge."

A third marital veteran said it was all a matter of feminine showmanship.

"Wives don't keep their husbands waiting to punish them," he said. "They just like to arrive late because it is exciting. It gives them a sense of drama."

"Well, ladies, what about it? What is the real reason you keep your husbands waiting?"
