

Forced Giving Is Irritating

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Christmas will be here before we know it. This means I will soon be getting several phone calls from well-meaning mothers. (I have four children in school.) They will say this year (as they did last year) "Please send a dollar or more to school with Barbara. All the children are getting together to buy Miss Thomas a nice Christmas gift."

When I went to school, the children brought a handkerchief, or a box of homemade cookies to the teacher at Christmas. It was done on a voluntary basis — and the teacher seemed thrilled at the small remembrances.

If so happens we can afford the "contribution," but I resent being put on the spot. I feel it is unfair to children whose families have less or nothing to give. Even in these days of prosperity, some mothers find it difficult to scrape up five dollars for five home-room teachers.

I wonder if other parents share my views. I hope pressure can be brought to put an end to this unchristian Christmas practice.—MOTHER OF FOUR

Dear Mother: Thank you for your excellent letter. The envelope indicates that you live in Carbondale, Ill. You'll be happy to know that in many cities, the kids are still bringing handkerchiefs and boxes of homemade cookies. And I agree it's definitely the better way.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a happy bachelor who has been clever enough to avoid all the well-known traps contrived by females whose object is, of course, matrimony.

By nature the male animal was intended to roam free and unfettered wherever his fancies lead him. He was not meant to settle with one mate. All lower forms of life operate this way—institively — and if the truth were known, a great many of the so-called "higher" animals operate this way, too.

The female, however, needs the security of a home and a man she can call her own. She has neither the desire nor the need for freedom unlimited. Females need the moral support that marriage offers. In other words, marriage is designed strictly for women.

I challenge you to show me where I'm wrong.—ATLAS

Dear Atlas: Your thesis is lovely—but if men are meant to be single and unfettered, and women are meant to be married, who are the women supposed to marry?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's niece is 23 years old. She was sent by her mother to live with us last August.

My husband has taken entirely too much interest in her to suit me. He drives her to and from work every day and takes her to public dances twice a week. He says she's just a kid who wants to have some fun. He also claims he'd rather have her going to public dances with "Ol' Unk" than all by herself. What is your opinion of this?—OL' AUNTIE

Dear Auntie: A girl 23 is no kid. She's a grown woman. Tell "Ol' Unk" to introduce her to some gentleman her own age and stop trying to kid the troops. And I suggest you help her find a nice room someplace—as soon as possible.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Portable X-ray Developed By State Research Center

PORTLAND (AP) — An X-ray unit no bigger than a suitcase, including the power source, has been developed by Linfield Research Institute at McMinnville.

The Oregon Department of Planning and Development made the announcement today, coincident with a similar announcement in Washington by the Army Medical Service.

A request by the medical service for a portable X-ray got the Linfield scientists at work on the project. Dr. Walter P. Dyke, institute director, was credited with the original idea and design.

Until now, Army field hospitals have done their X-ray work with equipment weighing 1,000 pounds, the announcement said. The Linfield unit weighs 85 pounds. It uses a new electron tube, developed by Linfield Research Institute, so fast it eliminates blurring of chest photography even while the patient is breathing, the announcement said.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has recognized the new government of El Salvador, which came to power Oct. 26 in a bloodless coup.

The six-man junta now ruling El Salvador was notified of the U.S. action Saturday in a note delivered by U.S. Ambassador Thorsten Kajjarvi.

Mine Group Debates Money Base

SPOKANE (AP) — Which is the better backing for U.S. currency, silver or gold?

Merits of the two metals were debated before the closing session of the 66th annual Northwest Mining Association convention Saturday.

U. S. silver certificates are the only "honest money" left in the world, John Edgar, Spokane, general manager of the Sunshine Mining Co.'s mining division, said.

Dr. Elgin Groseclose, Washington, D.C., economic consultant, calling for greater use of gold and describing the U.S. currency system as "obsolete," advocated a gradual rise in the reserve ratio until currency and deposit liabilities are fully covered by gold. It might require revaluation of the price of gold, he said.

Edgar said U.S. silver certificates are the only paper money in the world now fully backed by the metal which it "purports to represent."

He also warned that world markets may run out of silver unless supply is brought into balance with demand. He said the U.S. has consumed more than a billion more ounces of silver the past decade than it has produced.

Institution Crowding Gets Action

SALEM (AP)—The state Board of Control moved today to reduce overcrowding at the state correctional institution.

It approved a letter to the state Correctional Classification Board restating the purpose of the institution, started for younger, first-term offenders to keep them away from more hardened criminals.

The board discussed a proposal by Superintendent Paul Squire to move 32 inmates to the state penitentiary. There are inmates sleeping in the hall now at the correctional institution.

This move, however, depends upon the action by the classification board.

The Board of Control also approved the sending of a letter to all judges in the state, restating the purpose of the correctional institution.

It also approved extending another year an agreement covering the lease of the Reith Ranch by the Eastern Oregon State Hospital at Pendleton.

Approved, too, was a request from Eastern Oregon State Hospital to spend funds to fix 13 television sets and a movie projector.

SATELLITE SCHEDULE

House Minority Leader Had Eye On Speaker Job

SALEM (AP) — Tall and lanky A member and officer of the First Christian Church of Eugene, Montgomery went home during weekends of the 1959 Legislature to teach Sunday School.

During the summer, Monte's voice is heard at the Eugene Emeralds' baseball park—he announces the games. Another avocation is his participation in a daily public forum radio program.

What his political future is, depends, like all such, on how the winds blow in the next few years. His friends say that Montgomery would like some day to be governor, but he might try for secretary of state on the way.
