

Parent-Son Event Set

LAKEVIEW — The 24th annual parent-son banquet of Lakeview Future Farmers of America Chapter attracted 170 persons Friday evening, said Richard Sneddon, FFA adviser and agriculture instructor at Lakeview High School.

Greetings were extended by Jim Steward, LHS student body president, and Mary O'Malley, president of Future Homemakers of America at the high school.

Principal speaker was Stewart Holmes of Redmond, state FFA official. He reviewed history of the organization.

Honorary chapter farmer degrees were conferred upon Oris Rudd, extension agent for Lake County, and Tom Goss Sr., father of the chapter's president, Tom Goss.

Nineteen high school freshmen were initiated. David Griffin and Chuck Reed showed colored slide photographs taken at the National FFA Convention in Kansas City last October. They were delegates. Dwayne Davis gave the chapter report.

The first "establishment in farming" award went to Bill Tracy and the second to Wayne Wolf. The Rotary Club award, $200, was presented to the chapter to help pay for national convention expenses.

Don Hill received a pen and pencil set for keeping the best chapter project record book. Fred Williams was named star chapter farmer and won a Rotary Club award. Brian Newcomer, a freshman, received a $25 savings bond as a prize. He was named best all-around scholarship representative.

The latter award, a new one this year, was presented by Bryant Williams, Federal Land Bank representative for Klamath and Lake counties.
