

Lake County Ranch Site Of Probable Oil Drilling

LAKEVIEW — Preparations for drilling a second wildcat well in Lake County were progressing this week. Tentative plans are to start drilling on the D. J. Leavitt ranch, four miles south of Lakeview, Tuesday, according to George Dabney, field superintendent for Humble Oil and Refining Company.

With announcement of plans Dabney started at once to assemble a crew so that the site may be prepared and the drilling rig of the Sun Oil Company moved from the previous location at Grasshopper Flat.

A water well to supply the drill rig is being drilled by Jack Stooksberry. Other local firms working on site preparation are Lakeview Logging Company, L. A. Decker Sand and Gravel Company and George Jackson.

Leading the rig onto trucks from local transportation companies was set for Friday. Erection of the derrick and drilling machinery was to start Saturday on the site known as the D. J. Leavitt Number One.

Adhesives Firm Picks Portland

PORTLAND (AP)—The Oregon Department of Planning and Development said today the Arabol Manufacturing Co., which has factories throughout the country, will establish a new manufacturing plant here.

The firm has purchased a building in the St. Johns District and hopes to start production by March 1, the announcement by the state agency said. Initial investment in the plant here will be about $250,000, the department said.

Arabol produces some 400 adhesive products and has eight other manufacturing plants from coast to coast.

Handel's 'Messiah' Production Is Scheduled In Klamath Dec. 18

Handel himself would be proud of the way more than 300 voice and 70 instruments have been treating his famous "Messiah" during rehearsals at Klamath Union High School, says director M. Dale Hallack.

The public is invited to come to a performance in Pelican Court Sunday, Dec. 18, beginning at 8:15 p.m.

Those who plan to attend are asked to secure tickets early. They cost 50 cents each and they are available from any KUHS symphony orchestra or chorus member and from Derby's and Bowden music companies. They will be available at the box office.

Proceeds will cover cost of the second annual Christmas season presentation.

Rehearsals, under way since early last month, have attracted the cream of vocal talent in the Klamath Basin, says Hallack. He has picked four soloists, including Mrs. Adelaide Spencer, teacher of vocal music at Ashland Junior High School and of applied music at Southern Oregon College. She is a contralto.

Other soloists will be Air Force Lt. R. G. "Bob" Bratton, baritone, Kingsley Field; Mrs. Virginia Cecil, soprano, and the Rev. L. J. Hall, tenor.

The performance will last about two hours. Hallack has selected approximately half the original work, including portions of all three of the work's main sections.

Marjorie Welman will accompany the choir with organ music. She is a KUHS senior. Choir members all will wear robes, and orchestra members, formal dress.

The huge orchestra will be composed of KUHS students, and music alumni and other local musicians, including LaMar Jensen, Normand Paulshock, Ephraim Hackett and Don Herbig, city schools music instructors. Herbig also is Hallack's assistant during rehearsals.

Juvenile System Adopted

LAKEVIEW — A system similar to that in Klamath County for handling juvenile traffic law violators for all Lake County juveniles residing south of Summer Lake will be instituted here Dec. 15, according to announcement by Circuit Judge Charles H. Foster.

Such cases will be cited into the juvenile court department of the circuit court instead of justice or municipal courts, as previously.

Effective also will be a point system covering traffic violations for this age group. Such violators will not pay fines but will be charged with points which have been drawn up for such assessment, and which will be cumulative and filed with the secretary of state.

Jack Trabont, county youth counselor, will be referee for points assessment, but the accused offender will have an opportunity for direct appeal to Judge Foster. A referee may be appointed later for the Paisley-Summer Lake area.

When a total of seven points is assessed against an individual, the driver's license or learner's permit will be suspended for 60 days, and for each additional point recorded there will be an automatic additional suspension of 30 days.

According to Judge Foster, the program is based on two theories — to point out that operation of a motor vehicle is a privilege, not an inherent right, and to encourage good driving habits.

When a youth reaches 18, traffic violations will be heard in adult court.

U.S. Hikes Its Supply Of Bullion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has increased its gold supply for the first time in several months with a $300 million bullion purchase from the International Monetary Fund.

The fund said Thursday it sold the gold so it could get dollars to invest in short term treasury securities. It said it wanted to convert some of its gold reserves into interest-earning treasury IOUs.

The timing of the transaction was a happy one for the United States when the American gold supply was at its lowest level in more than 20 years.

Foreign nations have bought about $1.4 billion of U.S. gold since the end of June. This has caused some worry that a run on gold might develop.

Foreign purchases had cut the U.S. gold supply to $17,882,000,000 as of last Monday. The new purchase pushed the total American supply back above $18,177,000,000.

The transaction was not the first of its kind for the IMF—an international institution designed to promote stable currencies. In January 1956 it sold $200 million in gold to the United States. Washington bought another $300 million in bullion from the fund in July 1959.

Treasury officials said the new sale was made without any prompting from the United States. A spokesman for the fund said there was no special significance to the timing of the sale. He added that if the transaction helps the United States "there is no reason for the fund to be displeased."

Road Job Bids Taken

SALEM — Six bids for grading and construction on a nine-mile stretch of the Winnemucca-to-the-Sea Highway were received here Friday by the State Highway Commission, County Judge R. R. (Bob) Walker reported.

Although the stretch of road is in Lake County between Adel and the Nevada state line, Walker said the project is good news for both Klamath and Lake counties because it shows that the state is going to share in the responsibility for building and financing the road.

Walker said all six bids were well within the limits allocated for the project by the highway commission.

The work involves surfacing and bridge building. When it is completed in the summer of 1961, the Winnemucca Highway in Lake County will be completely graded. The road has created considerable interest as an east-west highway running through Winnemucca, Lakeview and Klamath Falls.

Transportation companies and tourist organizations have actively promoted the project.

Girl's Conduct Reflects Parents

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who will be 11 years old soon has more clothes than anyone in the family.

She also has the choice bedroom and the newest (and costliest) bedroom suite. I want her to have nice things but the problem is she's never satisfied. She wants everything I have — hair-spray, nail polish, lipstick and cologne.

My husband used to bring me a corsage on Mother's Day and a box of candy on Valentine's Day. She raised such a fuss, wanting one, too, that he just cut out the whole practice because it was too expensive.

The other day my husband gave me a bottle of perfume for my birthday. He brought her a small bottle of cologne. She was very ungracious and spoiled the day for everyone.

Why is it that young people today are so grabby and demanding? When I was her age I had very little, and I wouldn't have dared to speak to my mother the way my daughter speaks to me. What's the matter with young folks anyway? — HURT

Dear Hurt: The "matter" with young folks today is their parents. You wouldn't have talked sassy to your mother because she wouldn't have put up with it. Apparently you do.

Who gave this 10-year-old child the choice bedroom and the most expensive suite? Who bought her more clothes than anyone in the family? Where does a 10-year-old get off wanting hair-spray, nail polish, lipstick and cologne? The mother who bows to every whim and wish of her children in an effort to "make them happy" always fails. Nothing is enough. The kids wind up spoiled, selfish, disrespectful and discontented.

Dear Ann Landers: Is it humanly possible to cut out Christmas gifts for a long list of relatives without being called an oddball or a tightwad? Both Harry and I come from large families and every year there are three or four new babies. I run myself ragged seeing that no one on either side is forgotten. This has been going on for years and I'm at the point of mental and physical exhaustion.

We are in moderate financial circumstances and because of the number of gifts we must buy I select mostly trifles which may well be considered junk. Can you help me? — YULE FOOL

Dear Yule Fool: The only person this is important to is you. The nieces and nephews may say "hm-m" for two seconds then they'll forget it.

Pass the word around that you're giving up on the Christmas gift shopping because it's just too much of a burden. And Merry Christmas.

Dear Ann Landers: We told our daughter she could not date until her 16th birthday. She turned 16 two months ago and is dated up for every Friday and Saturday night for two months ahead. At the moment there are fellows on the porch, in the driveway, and the phone is ringing.

My husband and I don't know what to do because she's a nice girl who obeys and conducts herself like a perfect lady. We just want some advice on how to keep things under control. What lines shall we draw? — WORRIED PARENTS

Dear W.P.: A girl 16 should be able to date on weekends only, never on a school night unless it's a school affair. A curfew must be decided on, and you have a right to know where she is at all times. Every boy she dates should have first been introduced to one or both parents. Twenty minutes on the phone should be the absolute limit for one conversation, and there should never be more than two a night. And lotsa luck, folks — it sounds like you've got the Town Belle.

To learn the booby-traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet, "Teenage Drinking," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Check Artists Are Active

Four more bad check reports were turned over to city police detectives Thursday as check artists continued to take advantage of the pre-Christmas rush.

Two worthless checks were reported to have been written by a woman who represents herself as Bonnie Christian, 19, 323 Cleveland Street. She is in custody in Eugene on bad check charges. She has written at least four checks in Klamath Falls — the most recent pair being $25 checks to Dick Reeder's, Fifth and Main streets, and Van Lee's 88 Cent Store, 1007 Main Street.

Detectives are intensifying their search for two more check passers operating under the names of Darlene Johnson, 25, 524 Couger Avenue, and Arthur J. Ward, 914 Pine Street. Both have written at least three worthless checks in Klamath Falls.

Miss Johnson is negotiating $75 payroll checks which police say she stole from Lois' Cafe, 1351 Wocou Road, and Ward has passed a series of smaller checks — the most recent being at Your Store, 721 Main Street, for $15. Detectives are urging store clerks to require identification.
