

Sour Husband Should Cheer

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: My husband just left for work yelling, "No woman can be such a lousy money manager. You must be keeping a man on the side!" I've been married to this sour puss for 20 years. After three years of his handling the money I had to go to work and pull us out of the hole. This is my record since he turned the money over to me:

"We now own two cars, our house, a boat, color-TV, good furniture and we have no bills. We have sent his mother $35 a month for the past ten years. Our two children take music lessons and have good clothes, bikes, camera equipment, and everything they need."

"When we married he was making $5,000 a year. Now he makes $12,500 but remember the cost of everything has gone up. Will you please print your opinion of my record?—UNAPPRECIATED

Dear Unappreciated: Cheers! You should be Secretary of The Treasury!

Dear Ann Landers: I met a boy at a summer resort last July. He is 20 and I'm 17. I never fell so hard and so fast for anyone in all my life. We met late in the season and had only a few dates before he had to leave.

Several days ago I was passing through the city where he lives and I phoned him to say hello. He was out but his mother suggested I drop him a line. I started my letter "Dear Jim" and closed with "Love, Sue." My letter was friendly but not mushy. His reply came yesterday and it made me feel like a fool. He closed with "Buenos Dias."

I want to write to him again but I don't know what to do about a beginning and an end. Can you help me?—BELITTLED

Dear Belittled: "Dear Jim" is still a good beginning. It's the conventional way to start a letter—and even bill collectors start this way. It doesn't mean "You are dear to me" or anything like that.

The "Love, Sue" was too friendly. Sign off with "Buenos suerite" and let him look it up.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married four years and are very happy. He has three children by a former marriage and pays a whopping support bill.

I didn't meet Wendell until after he was divorced so his ex-wife can't accuse me of breaking up her marriage. When Wendell and I started to go together she tried to get him to remarry her but it didn't work. Last year she gave up and married a mediocre guy who promptly lost his job.

The ex-wife called Wendell a few months ago, and said the children were getting nervous and insecure because their stepfather was unemployed. Could he put the guy to work? Wendell agreed and now they're in our hair but good. They drop over frequently "to talk business" and the ex looks at Wendell in a way I don't like. Any advice?—N. W.

Dear N. W.: It was good of Wendell to get the guy a job. His mistake, however, was employing the fellow himself.

You are justified in resenting the woman's presence in your home. Tell your husband he must find his ex's husband a job elsewhere. This set-up is unhealthy.

Earth, Stars and Man (21) Invisible Worlds

by Don Oakley and John Lane

ELECTRON MICROSCOPE
In the quest for more knowledge about the workings of life, men have had to enter worlds we normally never see.

One of the most wonderful of man's artificial extensions to his senses is the microscope. But the ordinary optical microscope is limited. It can only magnify objects about 1,500 times. The indispensable tool today is the electron microscope, which magnifies up to some 200,000 times—capable of penetrating deep into the living cell and of revealing the smallest of organisms, the viruses.

Viruses illustrate the fact that it is difficult to say just what the difference is between living and nonliving things. For scientists have actually broken viruses down into their separate chemical parts, then reassembled them—literally manufactured viruses of the shelf.

No microscope, of course, is powerful enough to reveal atoms. In a certain experiment, however, physicist Dr. E. Muller of Pennsylvania State University succeeded in obtaining the amazing magnification of 2 1/2 million. His "field-ion" microscope projected an image of the actual atomic structure of the tip of a tungsten wire that was so thin as to be almost invisible.

Biologists are drawing near to an understanding of the way in which the cell reproduces itself. Present-day research indicates that the key is a long, chainlike molecule in the cell called deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA for short). Two Britons, J. D. Watson and F. H. C. Crick, have made a "model" of this molecule. It looks like two interlocking spirals. The spirals are connected by four nitrogen compounds known by their initials: A, T, C and G.

It is believed that these four compounds are the "code letters" of life. A few thousand of them make up a gene; thousands of genes in the cell spell out the characteristics of every organism. Thus these four letters, arranged in seemingly endless combinations (possibly five billion in man), determine the shape and behavior of every thing that lives, ever did live or ever will live.

To crack this code is one of the greatest challenges of modern science.

Court Picks New Senator

MEDFORD (AP)—Lyndal W. Newby is the new state senator from Jackson County, filling the term of Congressman-elect Edwin Durno.

Newby, whose father was Oregon secretary of state, was named by the Jackson County Court today in a unanimous vote.

The Newby family owns orchard properties in the Phoenix-Talent area and a packing house in Ashland which the new senator has managed for a number of years.

He has been a member of the Jackson County Budget Committee and is a member of the county Board of Equalization.

County Judge Earl Miller said, "in making this appointment the County Court hopes that the people of Jackson County will give Mr. Newby their full support."

The Republican Central Committee had recommended appointment of Evelyn Nye, who was defeated in November for reelection as state representative. The recommendation was not binding on the court.

BOYS DROWN
ELIZABETHTON, Tenn. (AP)—Two boys who ventured onto frozen Doe River fell through a thin spot in the ice and drowned. The body of Donald Guy, 7, was found about 10 yards downstream shortly after the boys were reported missing from their homes Wednesday night. The body of Timothy Simerley, 9, was found early today.

Rev. L. J. Hall Will Be Tenor Soloist In 'Messiah'

The Rev. L. J. Hall, prominent in this area as a vocalist, has been selected as tenor soloist for a community presentation of Handel's "Messiah" Sunday evening in Pelican Court at Klamath Union High School.

Hall has been pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church here for the past 18 months. He previously served churches in Gold Beach and Prineville.

He is a native of Winnipeg, Canada, and while attending public schools there, took private voice lessons and handled leading roles in several light operas. He also participated in the Manitoba Spring Music Festival for several seasons. He attended the Northwestern Schools in Minneapolis, where he continued his musical activities and obtained his degree in theology.

On arrival on the West Coast, he obtained additional religious training at Simpson Bible College in Seattle and studied voice with Russell Marshall. He sang tenor roles in the "Messiah" with the Renanah Choir.

Pastor Hall was a featured soloist at the county teachers' institute this fall. He has also made many club appearances here.

He is handling the tenor roles in the local presentation of the "Messiah" for the second straight year.

Pastor Hall and his wife, Linda, live at 1530 Lookout Avenue with their three sons.

The performance begins at 8:15 p.m. More than 300 voices from the community, including many from Klamath Union High School, and about 70 musicians forming the augmented KUHS symphony orchestra will perform. Director is M. Dale Hallack, who is in charge of vocal music in city schools.

Tickets are available from KUHS orchestra and chorus members and they will be available at the box office.

Hallack suggests that they be purchased early. Last year's performance, the first ever presented here, was nearly a sellout, and this year's can be expected to be more polished and even more attractive, said Hallack.

Sen. Jackson Sets Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, today set Jan. 21 for a meeting of the committee to choose his successor.

Jackson had said previously that he would hold the post only during President-elect John F. Kennedy's election campaign because "I wish to devote full time to my duties as a senator." He said in a statement he would resign as chairman at the time the committee meets Jan. 21.

Ask Judge Salary Hikes

SALEM (AP)—The Oregon Bar Association is circulating among state legislators a study calling for increased salaries for judges in the state.

The study, contained in a booklet, proposed no specific amounts, but said Oregon judicial salaries were below those in neighboring states.

The association said its goal is that judges should be on the bench "only after painstaking and long schooling; after wide experience in the practice at the apex of his energy and ability."

"One of the most serious of the problems involved arises from the comparatively low level of salaries paid to Oregon judges. This has had the practical effect of limiting the range of choice in the selection and retention of judges for our courts."
