

Farm Youth Education Stressed At Conference

At their annual conference at Iowa State College, Bottom explained there is "no pink pill" solution. All involve adjustments which have objectionable features when considered from the standpoint of national values.

The 11 avenues of action are expansion of domestic demand, expansion of foreign demand, new uses for farm products, marketing quotas, compulsory cropland adjustment, voluntary land retirement, restricting capital and technology, fewer farmers, price supports and storage, direct payments and multiple pricing.

These approaches to farm problem solution are discussed in bulletins available for study.

Economists generally agree that return to free prices for basic commodities is another alternative which could be expected to result in a decline of at least 25 per cent in realized net farm income.

Bottom stated the solution to the farm problem has been "put off" for 30 years.

Dr. Henry L. Ahlgren, associate director of extension at the University of Wisconsin, explained that agriculture since World War II is in a capital using, labor saving, output increasing phase based on the widespread use of science and technology.

Between world wars increased agricultural production was due largely to adoption of power and machinery and more limited application of research and education.

Prior to World War I agricultural output increased primarily only as new land came into production.

In discussing extension work in the counties he emphasized the contribution made by local people in program determination, development, and execution through such activities as outlook conferences, county extension councils and 4-H leaders' associations.

The undercapitalized small unit is not returning adequate income.

Bottom stated adjustments in agriculture are forcing adjustments in all other business and in social institutions.

He posed the problem of competition to outproduce communism without loss of values held dear in the free world. He listed progress, stability, security, justice and freedom as some of these values.

In listing the 11 choices or alternatives or avenues of action toward farm problem solution which have been outlined in bulletin form by the Center for Agricultural and Economic Adjustment

Licenses Still Valid

Motor carrier yellow and black license plates now in use are valid through 1961, Public Utility Commissioner Jonel C. Hill announced recently in Salem.

Hill's announcement was made as truckers throughout the state began making inquiries about license renewal as the end of 1960 approached. PUC plate renewal procedure calls for a new issue of plates every two years, with each issue falling due on Jan. 1 of an even numbered year, Hill said.

The next renewal period will start on Jan. 1, 1962. Forms and instructions for renewal procedure will be issued next October.

The color scheme of the plates presently in use is a yellow background with black numerals.

Overpaid Taxes Are Given Back To Wood Firms

ROSEBURG (AP) — Checks for overruled a 5 per cent assessed valuation increase of the Oregon Tax Commission.

In order to pay the owners of timber their tax refund, every property owner in Douglas County had to meet a special tax placed on top of the regular levy.

The Supreme Court in holding the 50 per cent increase illegal, upheld the late Circuit Judge Carl Wimberly, who had called it "hasty and arbitrary."

Largest of the repayment checks thus far was $131,362, to Weyerhaeuser Timber Co. International Paper Co. received $44,227.

South Korean police said the group, led by a high school teacher and including some of his students, tried to steal a 311-ton ferry sailing to Cheju Island Friday. Failing in this, after killing two passengers, the group took over the fishing boat.

36 RESCUED
TOKYO (AP)—A Japanese ship Sunday rescued 36 South Koreans whose commandeered fishing boat swamped as they tried to flee to Communist North Korea or Red China. They were turned over to South Korean authorities.
