Even Opponents Have Their Respect For 'Man With A Steel Trap Mind'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Even his opponents agree that Arthur J. Goldberg, the new secretary of labor, is a man with a steel-trap mind.

Goldberg, as general counsel of the United Steelworkers Union, argued labor's case last year before the Supreme Court in a dispute over a Taft-Harley injunction to halt the marathon steel strike.

The court allowed the injunction to stand, and Goldberg lost his case. But after it was over, a steel company lawyer came up to him and said: "Of course you were all wrong, but you argued it so brilliantly."

And some of the Supreme Court justices themselves have been quoted as saying privately that they had never heard a more brilliant presentation in the great marble chamber.

But Goldberg is not a calculating machine. He smiles easily and for 25 years has gotten along well in the top echelons of big labor. He also is special counsel to the AFL-CIO and was one of those who implemented the merger of the two labor organizations.

At 52 Goldberg has graying hair, wears thick framed black spectacles and dresses impeccably.

He was the youngest of eight children born to near-penniless immigrant parents in Chicago. He remembers what it is to be poor. He can be expected to play a leading role in the Kennedy administration's drive to raise minimum wages.

Goldberg worked his way through Northwestern Law School and made a scholastic record that stood for many years before it was matched. He was admitted to practice at the age of 21. From the beginning he was a labor lawyer.

The late Philip Murray brought him into his Steelworkers Union as counsel and later as general counsel to the CIO when Murray became its president.

During World War II Goldberg played a behind-the-scenes part in the Office of Strategic Services. He organized an espionage network of anti-Nazi labor union officials throughout Europe. By all accounts it was very effective.

Goldberg is credited with persuading Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell to step in actively to end the deadlock of the record 116-day steel strike that started last fall.

Goldberg is married to the former Dorothy Kurgans, a well known abstract painter. They have two children.

Basin Junior Rodeo Plans Furthered At Meet Here

Hopes for holding the annual Basin Junior Rodeo at the Klamath County Fairgrounds in 1961 were expressed during the no-host public-relations dinner at Sari's recently. Places were marked for 47.

The rodeo has been held at the Tulelake-Butte Valley Fairgrounds for the past two years through courtesy of the fair board and the rodeo officials voiced appreciation to the board members.

Silver belt buckles were presented to past presidents, Warren Woodard, Henley, and Gordon Givan, Beatty. Givan was reelected president.

Others elected to the rodeo board include: Ken Holbrook, Macdoel, vice president and director; Judy Decker, treasurer; Mrs. Ida Lee Givan, secretary; Dr. C.M. McFadden, Clarence Adams, Bob Hunt, Jim McGilvray, Luther Noble, Louis Randall and Elwin Hall, directors.

CAPTURE RED SHIP

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The South Korean navy today captured a North Korean Communist vessel after a brief exchange of gunfire just south of the truce line in the Yellow Sea, a government source said.

TB Association Sends Out Gifts

Gifts and greeting cards were mailed last week from the Klamath County Tuberculosis and Health Association to Klamath residents who will spend Christmas in tuberculosis hospital beds.

Five from this county, four men and a 7-year-old boy, are receiving treatment at the Oregon Tuberculosis Hospital in Salem, and two other men from here are patients in the tuberculosis ward of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Portland, according to Mrs. Dean Miller, association president.

During Christmas week at the state hospital, patients are entertained by caroler groups and special organ music. Dr. R. E. Joseph, the superintendent, visits all of the wards on Christmas Eve while Santa Claus distributes gifts.

Reaches Goal

LAKEVIEW — Lake County's United Fund total reached its $10,575 goal Tuesday, said Dorman Turner, co-chairman of the drive with Don Hotchkiss.

The UF organization received a $500 check from a local trust company to reach the top.

Other contributions still are expected. They will be placed in reserve for next year's drive.

ILLEGAL EMERGENCY

MONROE, N.Y. (UPI)—William E. Rhode Jr. was forced to land on a highway near here when the gas line on his light plane froze, and he immediately was hauled before a justice of the peace on charges of violating a "general business law" which makes such landings illegal.
