

4-H NEWS

Lake County Lens

By JO DEELY

LAKEVIEW—Thirty one consecutive years in service of Lake County and its people will come to a close at the end of this month when C. H. Langslet retires as county judge. "Retiring" is a misleading word in his case. Although he has no definite plans, his special interests include completion of Adel-Winnemucca Road, his project for the past two years. He played a major role in bringing the road to its present state.

C. H. LANGSLET
— Jones Studio Photo

His savings were frozen in a bank during the depression of 1907 by Teddy Roosevelt's decree. Langslet admits he "would have been pretty hungry if it were not for sandwiches put up by an aunt. Two years passed before he was able to draw his money from the bank.

Langslet worked in the Missoula area with survey gangs and with a utility company for two years. But when a wet winter brought flood waters from Hellgate and Big Blackfoot rivers to the height of telephone wires, 55 feet in the air, Langslet's distaste for such weather drove him to Drews Valley with an Oregon Valley Land Company survey gang. The company capitalized on a military land grant, gridded the land into small tracts, and sold them to people all over the country.

Langslet later worked with the Warner Valley Irrigation Company on a survey program. In the fall of 1910, he came to Lakeview and started a cleaning, pressing and clothing alterations business. His father, a tailor, had trained him. The business flourished for 19 years.

He married and raised three sons. He ran during an election for county assessor, won and spent 25 years on the job. He became a county judge candidate in 1954 and won, then worked hard to push through such programs as paving highways through Fort Rock from Horse Ranch, extending pavement on Westside Road to Dry Creek, building a standard road from Silver Lake to Buck Creek and Klamath Marsh and a standard road from Camas to Plush.

When the last bid was let early this month, Langslet's favorite project, the Adel - Winnemucca Road, became practically a reality. The route will allow swift passage between Highway 40 in Nevada, and Portland, Lakeview is about halfway between.

The route has received a lot of national attention and is thought of in some quarters as a mainline of the future of coast-to-coast traffic. One of his most prized possessions is a certificate signed by D. R. Cook, president of the Association of Oregon Counties, presenting him with life honorary membership in the association. Only two other men in the state have received the award. Langslet plans to spend the next few months "just relaxing."

The temperature dropped to 52 degrees below zero during one week that winter, 1905, and drove him to Minneapolis and worked for a railroad survey gang, then went to Montana.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES—Reports of campaign expenses on file today disclosed that losing Democratic congressional candidate Edwin M. Nelson of Rockford, Ill., received only one $5 campaign contribution—from a Mrs. Harriet L. Saunders of Rockford.

Republican Chester E. Emanuelson, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in Chicago, included a $3 traffic ticket in his campaign expenses.

YEAR-END USED CAR CLEARANCE SALE AT DUGAN & MEST CHEVROLET 410 So. 6th - TU 4-3101

MALIN BEEF CLUB—The Malin Beef Club held its third meeting Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the Stanley Johnson home. The club voted to have a constitution.

At the next meeting, Marcia and Kathy Kenyon are going to tell us about the State Fair. We decided to hold our next meeting Jan. 8 at 2 p.m. at Conroy's.

Kathy Clark, News Reporter.

JR. BRONCS HORSE CLUB—The Dec. 8 meeting of the Jr. Broncs was held at the club house. The roll call topic was questions pertaining to the parts of the horse and saddle. Twenty nine members were present and seven absent. The new members who joined the club this meeting were Rodney Blackman, Roy Wagner, Dee Hunter, Ralph Hunter, Linda Vian and Vicki Adams.

This year for the community project, the club decided to collect gifts for the Klamath Nursing Home and toys for the Moose Lodge toy distribution program.

The annual hayride and dinner, which is held in honor of the new members and their parents, was held at the Henley Grange. Approximately 75 people were in attendance. Wayne McFadden, the president of the club, was named Member of the Year.

The next meeting of the Junior Broncs will be held Jan. 12. Carol Frei, News Reporter.

OLENE BUCKAROOS CLUB—The second meeting of the Olene Buckaroos Beef Club was called to order at the Olene Grange Hall Dec. 4 at 2 p.m. There were 28 present, including parents and younger brothers and sisters.

At the first meeting of the club the officers were chosen as follows: Barbara Marshall, president; Teresa Grimes, vice president; Julie Rhodes, secretary; Karla Bray, treasurer; Martha Ragland, news reporter.

This year there are 19 members in the club, showing an increase over last year's total. The new members are as follows: Gena Spielman, Karla Bray, Diane Bray, Susan Tubach, Leroy Hunter, Barbara Marshall, Dan Whitlatch, Larry Hilyard and Jim Rhodes.

Former members received last year's record books with their scores on them and the records were explained to the new members.

The next meeting was scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 8, at the Olene Grange Hall.

Martha Ragland, News Reporter.

"DENNIS THE MENACE"

DON'T LET HER WORRY YA, JOEY. SANTA CLAUS IS SPOOLED TO BE FAT! HE'S NOT GONNA HAVE NO HEART ATTACK!

WORKERS STRIKE—BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Thousands of Belgian workers struck Tuesday to protest an austerity program planned by the Social Christian-Liberal coalition government of Premier Gaston Eyskens. The program calls for expenditure cuts equivalent to $200 million and new taxes of $120 million.

He married and raised three sons. He ran during an election for county assessor, won and spent 25 years on the job. He became a county judge candidate in 1954 and won, then worked hard to push through such programs as paving highways through Fort Rock from Horse Ranch, extending pavement on Westside Road to Dry Creek, building a standard road from Silver Lake to Buck Creek and Klamath Marsh and a standard road from Camas to Plush.

When the last bid was let early this month, Langslet's favorite project, the Adel - Winnemucca Road, became practically a reality. The route will allow swift passage between Highway 40 in Nevada, and Portland, Lakeview is about halfway between.

The route has received a lot of national attention and is thought of in some quarters as a mainline of the future of coast-to-coast traffic. One of his most prized possessions is a certificate signed by D. R. Cook, president of the Association of Oregon Counties, presenting him with life honorary membership in the association. Only two other men in the state have received the award. Langslet plans to spend the next few months "just relaxing."

The temperature dropped to 52 degrees below zero during one week that winter, 1905, and drove him to Minneapolis and worked for a railroad survey gang, then went to Montana.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES—Reports of campaign expenses on file today disclosed that losing Democratic congressional candidate Edwin M. Nelson of Rockford, Ill., received only one $5 campaign contribution—from a Mrs. Harriet L. Saunders of Rockford.

Republican Chester E. Emanuelson, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in Chicago, included a $3 traffic ticket in his campaign expenses.

YEAR-END USED CAR CLEARANCE SALE AT DUGAN & MEST CHEVROLET 410 So. 6th - TU 4-3101

MALIN BEEF CLUB—The Malin Beef Club held its third meeting Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the Stanley Johnson home. The club voted to have a constitution.

At the next meeting, Marcia and Kathy Kenyon are going to tell us about the State Fair. We decided to hold our next meeting Jan. 8 at 2 p.m. at Conroy's.

Kathy Clark, News Reporter.

OLENE BUCKAROOS CLUB—The second meeting of the Olene Buckaroos Beef Club was called to order at the Olene Grange Hall Dec. 4 at 2 p.m. There were 28 present, including parents and younger brothers and sisters.

At the first meeting of the club the officers were chosen as follows: Barbara Marshall, president; Teresa Grimes, vice president; Julie Rhodes, secretary; Karla Bray, treasurer; Martha Ragland, news reporter.

This year there are 19 members in the club, showing an increase over last year's total. The new members are as follows: Gena Spielman, Karla Bray, Diane Bray, Susan Tubach, Leroy Hunter, Barbara Marshall, Dan Whitlatch, Larry Hilyard and Jim Rhodes.

Former members received last year's record books with their scores on them and the records were explained to the new members.

The next meeting was scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 8, at the Olene Grange Hall.

Martha Ragland, News Reporter.

JR. BRONCS HORSE CLUB—The Dec. 8 meeting of the Jr. Broncs was held at the club house. The roll call topic was questions pertaining to the parts of the horse and saddle. Twenty nine members were present and seven absent. The new members who joined the club this meeting were Rodney Blackman, Roy Wagner, Dee Hunter, Ralph Hunter, Linda Vian and Vicki Adams.

This year for the community project, the club decided to collect gifts for the Klamath Nursing Home and toys for the Moose Lodge toy distribution program.

The annual hayride and dinner, which is held in honor of the new members and their parents, was held at the Henley Grange. Approximately 75 people were in attendance. Wayne McFadden, the president of the club, was named Member of the Year.

The next meeting of the Junior Broncs will be held Jan. 12. Carol Frei, News Reporter.

LAKEVIEW—Thirty one consecutive years in service of Lake County and its people will come to a close at the end of this month when C. H. Langslet retires as county judge. "Retiring" is a misleading word in his case. Although he has no definite plans, his special interests include completion of Adel-Winnemucca Road, his project for the past two years. He played a major role in bringing the road to its present state.

His savings were frozen in a bank during the depression of 1907 by Teddy Roosevelt's decree. Langslet admits he "would have been pretty hungry if it were not for sandwiches put up by an aunt. Two years passed before he was able to draw his money from the bank.

Langslet worked in the Missoula area with survey gangs and with a utility company for two years. But when a wet winter brought flood waters from Hellgate and Big Blackfoot rivers to the height of telephone wires, 55 feet in the air, Langslet's distaste for such weather drove him to Drews Valley with an Oregon Valley Land Company survey gang. The company capitalized on a military land grant, gridded the land into small tracts, and sold them to people all over the country.

Langslet later worked with the Warner Valley Irrigation Company on a survey program. In the fall of 1910, he came to Lakeview and started a cleaning, pressing and clothing alterations business. His father, a tailor, had trained him. The business flourished for 19 years.

He married and raised three sons. He ran during an election for county assessor, won and spent 25 years on the job. He became a county judge candidate in 1954 and won, then worked hard to push through such programs as paving highways through Fort Rock from Horse Ranch, extending pavement on Westside Road to Dry Creek, building a standard road from Silver Lake to Buck Creek and Klamath Marsh and a standard road from Camas to Plush.

When the last bid was let early this month, Langslet's favorite project, the Adel - Winnemucca Road, became practically a reality. The route will allow swift passage between Highway 40 in Nevada, and Portland, Lakeview is about halfway between.

The route has received a lot of national attention and is thought of in some quarters as a mainline of the future of coast-to-coast traffic. One of his most prized possessions is a certificate signed by D. R. Cook, president of the Association of Oregon Counties, presenting him with life honorary membership in the association. Only two other men in the state have received the award. Langslet plans to spend the next few months "just relaxing."

The temperature dropped to 52 degrees below zero during one week that winter, 1905, and drove him to Minneapolis and worked for a railroad survey gang, then went to Montana.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES—Reports of campaign expenses on file today disclosed that losing Democratic congressional candidate Edwin M. Nelson of Rockford, Ill., received only one $5 campaign contribution—from a Mrs. Harriet L. Saunders of Rockford.

Republican Chester E. Emanuelson, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in Chicago, included a $3 traffic ticket in his campaign expenses.

YEAR-END USED CAR CLEARANCE SALE AT DUGAN & MEST CHEVROLET 410 So. 6th - TU 4-3101

MALIN BEEF CLUB—The Malin Beef Club held its third meeting Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the Stanley Johnson home. The club voted to have a constitution.

At the next meeting, Marcia and Kathy Kenyon are going to tell us about the State Fair. We decided to hold our next meeting Jan. 8 at 2 p.m. at Conroy's.

Kathy Clark, News Reporter.

OLENE BUCKAROOS CLUB—The second meeting of the Olene Buckaroos Beef Club was called to order at the Olene Grange Hall Dec. 4 at 2 p.m. There were 28 present, including parents and younger brothers and sisters.

At the first meeting of the club the officers were chosen as follows: Barbara Marshall, president; Teresa Grimes, vice president; Julie Rhodes, secretary; Karla Bray, treasurer; Martha Ragland, news reporter.

This year there are 19 members in the club, showing an increase over last year's total. The new members are as follows: Gena Spielman, Karla Bray, Diane Bray, Susan Tubach, Leroy Hunter, Barbara Marshall, Dan Whitlatch, Larry Hilyard and Jim Rhodes.

Former members received last year's record books with their scores on them and the records were explained to the new members.

The next meeting was scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 8, at the Olene Grange Hall.

Martha Ragland, News Reporter.

JR. BRONCS HORSE CLUB—The Dec. 8 meeting of the Jr. Broncs was held at the club house. The roll call topic was questions pertaining to the parts of the horse and saddle. Twenty nine members were present and seven absent. The new members who joined the club this meeting were Rodney Blackman, Roy Wagner, Dee Hunter, Ralph Hunter, Linda Vian and Vicki Adams.

This year for the community project, the club decided to collect gifts for the Klamath Nursing Home and toys for the Moose Lodge toy distribution program.

The annual hayride and dinner, which is held in honor of the new members and their parents, was held at the Henley Grange. Approximately 75 people were in attendance. Wayne McFadden, the president of the club, was named Member of the Year.

The next meeting of the Junior Broncs will be held Jan. 12. Carol Frei, News Reporter.

LAKEVIEW—Thirty one consecutive years in service of Lake County and its people will come to a close at the end of this month when C. H. Langslet retires as county judge. "Retiring" is a misleading word in his case. Although he has no definite plans, his special interests include completion of Adel-Winnemucca Road, his project for the past two years. He played a major role in bringing the road to its present state.

His savings were frozen in a bank during the depression of 1907 by Teddy Roosevelt's decree. Langslet admits he "would have been pretty hungry if it were not for sandwiches put up by an aunt. Two years passed before he was able to draw his money from the bank.

Langslet worked in the Missoula area with survey gangs and with a utility company for two years. But when a wet winter brought flood waters from Hellgate and Big Blackfoot rivers to the height of telephone wires, 55 feet in the air, Langslet's distaste for such weather drove him to Drews Valley with an Oregon Valley Land Company survey gang. The company capitalized on a military land grant, gridded the land into small tracts, and sold them to people all over the country.

Langslet later worked with the Warner Valley Irrigation Company on a survey program. In the fall of 1910, he came to Lakeview and started a cleaning, pressing and clothing alterations business. His father, a tailor, had trained him. The business flourished for 19 years.

He married and raised three sons. He ran during an election for county assessor, won and spent 25 years on the job. He became a county judge candidate in 1954 and won, then worked hard to push through such programs as paving highways through Fort Rock from Horse Ranch, extending pavement on Westside Road to Dry Creek, building a standard road from Silver Lake to Buck Creek and Klamath Marsh and a standard road from Camas to Plush.

When the last bid was let early this month, Langslet's favorite project, the Adel - Winnemucca Road, became practically a reality. The route will allow swift passage between Highway 40 in Nevada, and Portland, Lakeview is about halfway between.

The route has received a lot of national attention and is thought of in some quarters as a mainline of the future of coast-to-coast traffic. One of his most prized possessions is a certificate signed by D. R. Cook, president of the Association of Oregon Counties, presenting him with life honorary membership in the association. Only two other men in the state have received the award. Langslet plans to spend the next few months "just relaxing."

The temperature dropped to 52 degrees below zero during one week that winter, 1905, and drove him to Minneapolis and worked for a railroad survey gang, then went to Montana.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES—Reports of campaign expenses on file today disclosed that losing Democratic congressional candidate Edwin M. Nelson of Rockford, Ill., received only one $5 campaign contribution—from a Mrs. Harriet L. Saunders of Rockford.

Republican Chester E. Emanuelson, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in Chicago, included a $3 traffic ticket in his campaign expenses.

YEAR-END USED CAR CLEARANCE SALE AT DUGAN & MEST CHEVROLET 410 So. 6th - TU 4-3101

MALIN BEEF CLUB—The Malin Beef Club held its third meeting Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the Stanley Johnson home. The club voted to have a constitution.

At the next meeting, Marcia and Kathy Kenyon are going to tell us about the State Fair. We decided to hold our next meeting Jan. 8 at 2 p.m. at Conroy's.

Kathy Clark, News Reporter.

OLENE BUCKAROOS CLUB—The second meeting of the Olene Buckaroos Beef Club was called to order at the Olene Grange Hall Dec. 4 at 2 p.m. There were 28 present, including parents and younger brothers and sisters.

At the first meeting of the club the officers were chosen as follows: Barbara Marshall, president; Teresa Grimes, vice president; Julie Rhodes, secretary; Karla Bray, treasurer; Martha Ragland, news reporter.

This year there are 19 members in the club, showing an increase over last year's total. The new members are as follows: Gena Spielman, Karla Bray, Diane Bray, Susan Tubach, Leroy Hunter, Barbara Marshall, Dan Whitlatch, Larry Hilyard and Jim Rhodes.

Former members received last year's record books with their scores on them and the records were explained to the new members.

The next meeting was scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 8, at the Olene Grange Hall.

Martha Ragland, News Reporter.

JR. BRONCS HORSE CLUB—The Dec. 8 meeting of the Jr. Broncs was held at the club house. The roll call topic was questions pertaining to the parts of the horse and saddle. Twenty nine members were present and seven absent. The new members who joined the club this meeting were Rodney Blackman, Roy Wagner, Dee Hunter, Ralph Hunter, Linda Vian and Vicki Adams.

This year for the community project, the club decided to collect gifts for the Klamath Nursing Home and toys for the Moose Lodge toy distribution program.

The annual hayride and dinner, which is held in honor of the new members and their parents, was held at the Henley Grange. Approximately 75 people were in attendance. Wayne McFadden, the president of the club, was named Member of the Year.

The next meeting of the Junior Broncs will be held Jan. 12. Carol Frei, News Reporter.

LAKEVIEW—Thirty one consecutive years in service of Lake County and its people will come to a close at the end of this month when C. H. Langslet retires as county judge. "Retiring" is a misleading word in his case. Although he has no definite plans, his special interests include completion of Adel-Winnemucca Road, his project for the past two years. He played a major role in bringing the road to its present state.

His savings were frozen in a bank during the depression of 1907 by Teddy Roosevelt's decree. Langslet admits he "would have been pretty hungry if it were not for sandwiches put up by an aunt. Two years passed before he was able to draw his money from the bank.

Langslet worked in the Missoula area with survey gangs and with a utility company for two years. But when a wet winter brought flood waters from Hellgate and Big Blackfoot rivers to the height of telephone wires, 55 feet in the air, Langslet's distaste for such weather drove him to Drews Valley with an Oregon Valley Land Company survey gang. The company capitalized on a military land grant, gridded the land into small tracts, and sold them to people all over the country.

Langslet later worked with the Warner Valley Irrigation Company on a survey program. In the fall of 1910, he came to Lakeview and started a cleaning, pressing and clothing alterations business. His father, a tailor, had trained him. The business flourished for 19 years.

He married and raised three sons. He ran during an election for county assessor, won and spent 25 years on the job. He became a county judge candidate in 1954 and won, then worked hard to push through such programs as paving highways through Fort Rock from Horse Ranch, extending pavement on Westside Road to Dry Creek, building a standard road from Silver Lake to Buck Creek and Klamath Marsh and a standard road from Camas to Plush.

When the last bid was let early this month, Langslet's favorite project, the Adel - Winnemucca Road, became practically a reality. The route will allow swift passage between Highway 40 in Nevada, and Portland, Lakeview is about halfway between.

The route has received a lot of national attention and is thought of in some quarters as a mainline of the future of coast-to-coast traffic. One of his most prized possessions is a certificate signed by D. R. Cook, president of the Association of Oregon Counties, presenting him with life honorary membership in the association. Only two other men in the state have received the award. Langslet plans to spend the next few months "just relaxing."

The temperature dropped to 52 degrees below zero during one week that winter, 1905, and drove him to Minneapolis and worked for a railroad survey gang, then went to Montana.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES—Reports of campaign expenses on file today disclosed that losing Democratic congressional candidate Edwin M. Nelson of Rockford, Ill., received only one $5 campaign contribution—from a Mrs. Harriet L. Saunders of Rockford.

Republican Chester E. Emanuelson, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in Chicago, included a $3 traffic ticket in his campaign expenses.

YEAR-END USED CAR CLEARANCE SALE AT DUGAN & MEST CHEVROLET 410 So. 6th - TU 4-3101

MALIN BEEF CLUB—The Malin Beef Club held its third meeting Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the Stanley Johnson home. The club voted to have a constitution.

At the next meeting, Marcia and Kathy Kenyon are going to tell us about the State Fair. We decided to hold our next meeting Jan. 8 at 2 p.m. at Conroy's.

Kathy Clark, News Reporter.

OLENE BUCKAROOS CLUB—The second meeting of the Olene Buckaroos Beef Club was called to order at the Olene Grange Hall Dec. 4 at 2 p.m. There were 28 present, including parents and younger brothers and sisters.

At the first meeting of the club the officers were chosen as follows: Barbara Marshall, president; Teresa Grimes, vice president; Julie Rhodes, secretary; Karla Bray, treasurer; Martha Ragland, news reporter.

This year there are 19 members in the club, showing an increase over last year's total. The new members are as follows: Gena Spielman, Karla Bray, Diane Bray, Susan Tubach, Leroy Hunter, Barbara Marshall, Dan Whitlatch, Larry Hilyard and Jim Rhodes.

Former members received last year's record books with their scores on them and the records were explained to the new members.

The next meeting was scheduled for Sunday, Jan. 8, at the Olene Grange Hall.

Martha Ragland, News Reporter.

JR. BRONCS HORSE CLUB—The Dec. 8 meeting of the Jr. Broncs was held at the club house. The roll call topic was questions pertaining to the parts of the horse and saddle. Twenty nine members were present and seven absent. The new members who joined the club this meeting were Rodney Blackman, Roy Wagner, Dee Hunter, Ralph Hunter, Linda Vian and Vicki Adams.

This year for the community project, the club decided to collect gifts for the Klamath Nursing Home and toys for the Moose Lodge toy distribution program.

The annual hayride and dinner, which is held in honor of the new members and their parents, was held at the Henley Grange. Approximately 75 people were in attendance. Wayne McFadden, the president of the club, was named Member of the Year.

The next meeting of the Junior Broncs will be held Jan. 12. Carol Frei, News Reporter.

LAKEVIEW—Thirty one consecutive years in service of Lake County and its people will come to a close at the end of this month when C. H. Langslet retires as county judge. "Retiring" is a misleading word in his case. Although he has no definite plans, his special interests include completion of Adel-Winnemucca Road, his project for the past two years. He played a major role in bringing the road to its present state.

His savings were frozen in a bank during the depression of 1907 by Teddy Roosevelt's decree. Langslet admits he "would have been pretty hungry if it were not for sandwiches put up by an aunt. Two years passed before he was able to draw his money from the bank.

Langslet worked in the Missoula area with survey gangs and with a utility company for two years. But when a wet winter brought flood waters from Hellgate and Big Blackfoot rivers to the height of telephone wires, 55 feet in the air, Langslet's distaste for such weather drove him to Drews Valley with an Oregon Valley Land Company survey gang. The company capitalized on a military land grant, gridded the land into small tracts, and sold them to people all over the country.

Langslet later worked with the Warner Valley Irrigation Company on a survey program. In the fall of 1910, he came to Lakeview and started a cleaning, pressing and clothing alterations business. His father, a tailor, had trained him. The business flourished for 19 years.

He married and raised three sons. He ran during an election for county assessor, won and spent 25 years on the job. He became a county judge candidate in 1954 and won, then worked hard to push through such programs as paving highways through Fort Rock from Horse Ranch, extending pavement on Westside Road to Dry Creek, building a standard road from Silver Lake to Buck Creek and Klamath Marsh and a standard road from Camas to Plush.

When the last bid was let early this month, Langslet's favorite project, the Adel - Winnemucca Road, became practically a reality. The route will allow swift passage between Highway 40 in Nevada, and Portland, Lakeview is about halfway between.

The route has received a lot of national attention and is thought of in some quarters as a mainline of the future of coast-to-coast traffic. One of his most prized possessions is a certificate signed by D. R. Cook, president of the Association of Oregon Counties, presenting him with life honorary membership in the association. Only two other men in the state have received the award. Langslet plans to spend the next few months "just relaxing."

The temperature dropped to 52 degrees below zero during one week that winter, 1905, and drove him to Minneapolis and worked for a railroad survey gang, then went to Montana.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES—Reports of campaign expenses on file today disclosed that losing Democratic congressional candidate Edwin M. Nelson of Rockford, Ill., received only one $5 campaign contribution—from a Mrs. Harriet L. Saunders of Rockford.

Republican Chester E. Emanuelson, an unsuccessful candidate for Congress in Chicago, included a $3 traffic ticket in his campaign expenses.

YEAR-END USED CAR CLEARANCE SALE AT DUGAN & MEST CHEVROLET 410 So. 6th - TU 4-3101

MALIN BEEF CLUB—The Malin Beef Club held its third meeting Dec. 11 at 2:30 p.m. at the Stanley Johnson home. The club voted to have a constitution.

At the next meeting, Marcia and Kathy Kenyon are going to tell us about the State Fair. We decided to hold our next meeting Jan. 8 at 2 p.m. at Conroy's.

Kathy Clark, News Reporter.

OLENE BUCKAROOS CLUB—The second meeting of the Olene Buckaroos Beef Club was called to order at the Olene Grange Hall Dec. 4 at 2 p.m. There were 28 present, including parents and younger brothers and sisters.

At the first meeting of the club the officers were chosen as follows: Barbara Marshall, president; Teresa Grimes, vice president; Julie Rhodes, secretary; Karla Bray, treasurer; Martha Ragland, news reporter.

This year there are 19 members in the club, showing an increase over last year's total. The new members are as follows: Gena Spielman, Karla Bray, Diane Bray, Susan Tubach, Leroy Hunter, Barbara Marshall, Dan Whitlatch, Larry Hilyard and Jim Rhodes.

Former members received last year's record books with their scores on