The Oregon Tech faculty and staff wish through this column to extend to the people of Klamath Falls and the Klamath Basin the heartiest of the Christmas season's greetings. This area in which the school is located and its people have many of the attributes which contribute enjoyment of the true spirit of Christmas.

We who live on the campus feel good over the fact that students have gone for the holidays to enjoy the amenities associated with home and old friends. We perhaps have a tendency to overlook the fact that there are some students who cannot return home for Christmas because of a job, distance, finances, or other problems.

Frank Stanko, dean of men, eased this writer's mind in feeling guilty in this situation. "You'd be surprised at the plans these students have for enjoying Christmas vacation," Frank said. "Most all of the single students have one or several invitations to holiday occasions, and the married students get together for festive affairs." Frank knows whereof he speaks because for three years in a row he tramped around the campus attempting to assist in holiday planning but he found no takers for his services—which, of course, did not make him unhappy.

OTI Chapter 36 of the OSEA (Oregon State Employees' Association) installed officers during the business portion of their annual Christmas party meeting on the campus last Tuesday night according to Mrs. Molly Williams who reported the event. Outgoing president George Walker turned the gavel over to Jerald Westphal in the elaborate installation ceremonies conducted by Charles Boleyn, an ex-president. Victor Lancaster was elected vice president and Mrs. Hester Atwood and Mrs. Marguerite Gompf were reelected respectively to the secretary and treasurer positions.

Bruno Marchese, assistant business manager, is presently not assisting Business Manager Al Smith in the least. It seems that he is away on his honeymoon. He and Susan Smith, who has been assisting Dr. Dryden during the past year, were married on Dec. 10.

Although the students are on vacation, there is little rest for those who work with student records according to Howard Rowe, registrar. Elsie Bush and Marsha Griggs are hurrying to get out fall term grades so they can get started hurrying to get out registration packets for students returning for winter term.

R. L. Smith, dean of students, informs us that 64 students graduated at the end of fall term but that more than 100 new students and ex-students have been registered indicating that enrollment during winter term will remain approximately the same as fall term.

Bill Darmoh, a foreign student from Liberia, spoke at the Klamath Lutheran Church last Tuesday evening according to Mrs. Martha Skoe, secretary to the business manager. Darmoh discussed the celebration of Christmas in his country.

Members of the OTI Student Loan Committee met all day Monday approving student loans. A. E. Smith and R. L. Smith from the administration and instructors, Max Saunders, Bill Swartz and Ray Garrison awarded $9,109 in long-term NDEA (National Defense Education Act) loans to students for winter term loans.

Otto Biber, plant superintendent, says that physical changes which will be required in various departments during the next biennium were reviewed by the campus planning committee last week. These improvements include a new exhaust system in auto tune-up, enlargement of the test-stand section in auto-diesel, and lighting improvements in drafting rooms. Members of the committee besides Biber are A. E. Smith, R. L. Smith, Deans R. W. Bingham and Paul Meier, Wayne Rawson and R. L. Turner.

Mrs. Dorothy Sudbury, secretary to the dean of students, reports that townspeople have been more than generous with Christmas dinner invitations to foreign students on the campus. "It's too bad we don't have more foreign students to take advantage of these offers," Mrs. Sudbury said. "It is good for both the students and the families who are their hosts."

Frank and Betty Stanko are the proud possessors of a new 8 lb. baby boy born at 8:30 p.m. last Monday night.

Music from the OTI firehall will continue to add to the Christmas spirit on the campus throughout the holiday season according to Fire Chief Loomis. Student firemen made wreaths and hung them on doors in the administration building as has been their custom in previous years.

Merry Christmas

...and all good wishes for a completely happy holiday season

GRANGE NEWS

MIDLAND

Alex Cammock, master of Midland Grange, announced that the organization's debt has been liquidated, during a meeting December 21 at the grange hall.

He produced the mortgage on grange property to prove it and called for mortgage burning ceremonies as soon as practicable. Cammock thanked those who loaned money for the new grange building and those who helped raise money to retire the debt during the last four years.

Cammock also expressed thanks to and satisfaction for the year's officers.

Nine former members of Henley Grange became Midland Grange members. They were Cliff and Caroline Kelly, Myron and Laura Taylor, M. Williams, Elizabeth Williams, Gladys Morrison, Gretchen Inman and Mary Dixon. Henley Grange disbanded this month.

Nearly all officers were present at the meeting. Opening drills were led and the flag presented by Louie Stork, steward; Guy Galletti, assistant steward; Verda Urbach, lady assistant steward, and Betty Aiken, Ceres.

Fight Battle For Truth, Urges Prelate

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII, 79, called on the world's Roman Catholics Saturday to fight what he called a "diabolical conspiracy against truth" being carried out through all forms of art and mass communications media.

"In face of the open or covert treason of this (Christian) ideal, our heart cannot restrain its anguish and our voice shakes," the Pope said in a sad but confident Christmas message to the world.

The pontiff's 5,500-word address was broadcast around the globe by the powerful Vatican Radio and by a link-up of national stations in other countries.

It was devoted for the most part to the theme of "truth"—divine revelation and doctrine as preached by the Roman Catholic Church.

Against this truth, the Pope said, a current of modern thought is raising an "antidecalogue"—the opposite of God's Ten Commandments—encouraging man to kill, to commit adultery, to steal and to bear false witness.

Pope John did not at any point refer specifically to Communism, and his remarks seemed to be of a general nature rather than aimed at any one group.

to new officers.

New club officers were installed during a program presented by Mayme Cammock, lecturer. Officers are Kathryn Smith, chairman; Grace Stork, vice chairman; Eleanor Sugraw, secretary, and Thelma Houck, treasurer.

Members of the installing team were Alice Hoover, installing officer; Minnie Andrieu, installing marshal; Marjorie Sayles, assistant marshal; Betty Aiken, es-
