WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed mostly higher today in an active session marked by continued year-end transactions. Steels were pacemakers in a surprising rally based on what brokers called their oversold condition. Volume was estimated at 4.1 million shares compared with 3.62 million on Wednesday. Gains of fractions to a point or more were diluted by an assortment of losers. American Telephone spurred 2 points to a new historic high of 106 1/2, leading utilities to another rise. The unexpected feature of the day was a rally by steels, based mainly on buying interest due to their depressed prices. Republic Steel and Jones & Laughlin rose more than a point each. U.S. Steel held a gain of close to a point. Autos were narrowly mixed, Studebaker-Packard losing a fraction following news of the choice of a new president. Texaco was up about a point and American Machine & Foundry more than that. Lorillard was another 1 point gainer. U.S. government bonds advanced. Corporate bonds were strong.

Dems Expected To Shun Rule Altering Demands

WASHINGTON (AP)—A caucus of House Democrats next Monday is expected to shelve or ignore demands of liberal members for a change in House rules in the new Congress. All the signs pointed today to a harmonious meeting at which the subject of breaking the Rules Committee's hold on legislation may not even come up.

"I look for a harmonious caucus and a harmonious opening day session next Tuesday," said Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., who helped draft the caucus notices sent to all 282 House Democrats.

The notices said the caucus would consider selection of a Democratic candidate for speaker, candidates for elective officers, and candidates for vacancies on the Ways and Means Committee. Significantly, perhaps, they omitted reference to consideration of "any other business" — standard language on previous notices.

Cannon questioned claims of some members that the notices as sent out precluded consideration of proposals to change the rules.

It was reported reliably that the wording of the notices was approved by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas and Majority Leader John W. McCormack, Massachusetts, who are slated to retain those posts in the new House.

Cannon said that if anyone wanted to bring up the matter of changing the rules it would be in order after all other business was disposed of. But he said he doubted that it would happen.

Kirk Gets Three-Year Probation

William Henry Kirk, 31, Chiloquin, was sentenced to three years on probation by Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg after he changed his plea from not guilty to guilty in the assault with a dangerous weapon case against him.

William and his brother Leroy were charged in August after they allegedly cut, stabbed, pistol-whipped, slugged and kicked a cousin, Donald Kirk, after a family drinking party in Chiloquin.

Deputy District Attorney Robert M. Redding told the court Thursday morning that William had no prior felony convictions. He said, however, the defendant had been in "a few minor scrapes."

Both Kirk brothers were in jail almost five months before their passes were finally disposed of. Both men were indicted four times by the grand jury.

William was convicted specifically of cutting and stabbing his cousin with a razor sharp arrowhead.

Police List Two Mishaps

Two traffic accidents were reported in Klamath Falls Wednesday and Thursday but they were not serious and no citations were issued.

A truck-car collision occurred Thursday morning at the intersection of Main and Broad streets. The car was driven by Dorothy Lee Audiss, 29, 7645 Cannon Avenue, and the truck was driven by Angelo Gasperini, 47, 2262 Reclamation Street.

Cars driven by Eileen Lillian LaRoyce, 35, 710 Lippincott Street, and Walter Wade Lee, 42, Chiloquin, were driving close together in the 1000 block of Main Street Wednesday when the bumpers hooked. Damage was minor.

City police also investigated a theft report by John Swift, 1925 Worden Street, who said that a tire and wheel from his bicycle were stolen.

Oregonian Takes Scare Seriously

SALEM (AP) — Lloyd Woolfe said Wednesday he built a shelter under his house because he does not want to watch his children die in an atomic attack.

Woolfe, 40, chief geologist for the Oregon Highway Department, used a pick and shovel to dig the hole for the 1330-foot reinforced concrete shelter. It is under his home in Clear Lake, a tiny community just north of Salem.

"I have four children," Woolfe said. "I don't want to have to watch them die because I spent my weekends fishing, golfing or watching television.

"I feel pretty strongly about this," he said. "I think it is going to happen."

Woolfe built the forms and poured the concrete. He had only the help of his 14-year-old son, Ricky, and some from two friends. It cost $350 for materials and some 500 man hours of work.

It is 19 feet long and 17 feet wide where an alcove extends out. It is vented by hand augured holes that jut out horizontally 14 feet and then turn vertically upward 10 feet to the surface. It has a drainage system and the house is served by a private well.

Inside there are bunks for six, a water tank that holds 150 gallons, a month's supply of food, enough powdered milk to make 50 gallons, an escape hatch and games to play.

The door is nine inches thick and the walls and roof are eight inches thick. The door can be barred from the inside.

He said this is not only for fallout protection but to keep out others. "I visualize great chaos," Woolfe said.

He said he considered Salem a good place for a fallout shelter because Portland is a logical target and this would bring fallout to Salem—about 50 miles south of Portland.

"It just made me sick when I thought of the consequences of atomic warfare," Mrs. Woolfe said. "I hope we'll never have to use it."

Governor Calls Meet On Salmon

SALEM (AP) — Gov. Mark O. Hatfield today asked the governors of Washington and Idaho to meet with him next month to discuss ways of increasing Columbia River salmon.

Govs. Albert D. Rosellini of Washington and Robert E. Smylie of Idaho were asked to suggest the place and time for the meeting. Hatfield suggested state and federal fisheries officials attend.

Hatfield said the meeting invitation was prompted by a letter from Idaho state Rep. C. H. Higer of Emmett.

Hatfield answered Higer that there has been "an appalling diminution of the once prolific salmon runs of the Columbia River and our coastal streams," and that it is time for "immediate and drastic action."

Many persons concerned with the fisheries problem have been "primarily interested in a division of the harvest rather than conservation of the resource," he said.

Washington should bring its fishing regulations "into a more realistic position," Hatfield said. The Oregon Resources Board wants to prevent construction of dams on the Salmon River in Idaho in order to preserve that river as a fish sanctuary, he added.

New York Banker Fills Treasury Post; Cox Is Solicitor General

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy filled a key Treasury Department position today, then started a wide-ranging discussion of international and domestic problems with Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark.

Kennedy chose Robert V. Roosa, New York banker, to be under-secretary for monetary affairs.

Secretary of the Treasury-designate Douglas Dillon, who will be Roosa's boss, said in a statement regarding the appointee:

"His wide experience in financial matters, both domestic and international, will be most helpful in advising and carrying out the policies required to preserve the soundness of the dollar as a firm foundation for a world seeking maximum freedom of trade and investment."

Kennedy Wednesday picked Archibald Cox, Harvard law professor and a campaign aide, for the job of solicitor general of the United States — the government's chief trial lawyer.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, was an overnight guest at Kennedy's home. This morning the senator and the president-elect got down to a global review of American foreign policy.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said the conference would deal also with domestic matters, but he provided no detail.

Kennedy and Fulbright arranged to play a round of golf after their talks. There was a possibility they would hold a news conference late in the day.

Kennedy headquarters said he will fly to New York next Wednesday afternoon. Salinger said he did not know how long Kennedy will remain there, but that he plans to return to Palm Beach for at least one more visit before his inauguration Jan. 20.

Police, FBI Puzzle Over $400,000 Vault Burglary

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A key combination, timetable and teamwork formed the ingredients for Florida's biggest burglary—a neat $400,000 theft from the vault of an armored car service.

Police and FBI agents were still trying to fit the pieces together today, more than 50 hours after thieves carted away the loot in 19 moneybags.

The vault contained an estimated $1 million in cash and checks. All of the sacks containing coins were left behind.

Investigators agreed that the theft could have been executed only with knowledge or actual aid provided by an employe or former employe.

Detective Inspector O. C. Beynon said officers questioned more than 20 persons and that others would be called in. No arrests have been made.

"It was definitely an inside job," E. A. Rasdale, president of the firm, said. "They knew what they were doing and timed the whole thing just right."

All of the "loss, the firm's first theft in its 23 years of operation, was insured.

Authorities pieced the burglary together like this: The intruders—at least two and perhaps as many as four—entered the company's one-story building a few minutes after midnight Tuesday. They used a key to open the front door.

Drunk Drivers To Face Stiffer Local Sentences

Municipal Judge Clarence Humble Thursday warned Klamath Falls drivers that sentences for drunk driving have been increased.

"It will cost them money to get drunk this weekend," Humble said. He was referring to a city ordinance passed Tuesday night raising the fine and bail limit on drunk driving from $100 to $300.

The judge can now levy a fine of $300 along with a jail sentence of up to 50 days.

"This is a considerable increase over our old $100 and 30-day drunk driving sentence," the judge said. "We hope this will be an added deterrent on New Year's Eve."

The new sentences will be more in line with district court policy, with fines of from $250 to $350 and jail sentences of from 30 to 90 days for drunk drivers.

Senator Says GOP May Ask For Equal Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., said today if John F. Kennedy uses White House news conferences for "propaganda" purposes Republicans may ask for equal air time.

Kuchel, the assistant Senate Republican leader, said in an interview that Kennedy's plans to hold evening news conferences on live television indicate the Democrats may be planning "dramatic shows."

"If presidential news conferences are going to be used for propaganda purposes, then we Republicans will have to consider asking for equal time," Kuchel said.

Equal time provisions of the law would not cover Kennedy until such a time as he might announce he is a candidate for reelection.

Kuchel said he had in mind speculative reports that Kennedy might call a prime hour television conference to discuss a single subject—possibly some controversial matter before Congress—and limit reporters' questions to that subject.

Kennedy's press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said at Palm Beach Tuesday that the new administration will ask the networks from time to time to carry evening presidential news conferences live but the networks will be free to carry any or all other presidential meetings with reporters on a live basis.

The press secretary said the requests might come at times of domestic or international crisis—or simply when Kennedy has something to announce which he regards as of unusual importance.

Aside from possible Republican complaints, Kennedy apparently is willing to risk in live television the kind of presidential boo-boo his predecessors didn't want to take a chance on.

Even President Eisenhower, who first approved televised conferences, insisted that the regular White House meetings with the press be taped for showing after the text of presidential remarks had been checked.

Kennedy's decision means that any possible ill-chosen word or phrase that might have international as well as national repercussions will be on the record instantly.

This will alter the present system under which the president cannot be quoted directly by reporters until a checked transcript of his remarks becomes available.

The television plan is a far cry from the precautions other presidents took to guard themselves against the Washington Naval Conference telling reporters that treaties under negotiation would not permit Japan to retain defenses on her home islands.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, who averaged about 100 meetings a year with the press, rarely permitted direct quotations of his words. He once refused to give a House committee a transcript of his conference remarks, contending this would destroy his informal relationship with the reporters.

Authorities pieced the burglary together like this: The intruders—at least two and perhaps as many as four—entered the company's one-story building a few minutes after midnight Tuesday. They used a key to open the front door.

An alarm sounded at a burglar protective agency several blocks away when the door opened. One of the men followed the password procedure used by employes when entering and leaving the building at night. He telephoned the agency and gave a name and code number.

It took the operator six minutes to determine that the name and number failed to match those on file with the agency. Police arrived at the scene three minutes after the operator called them.

During the nine minutes which elapsed, the intruders walked through an unlocked door to the vault, opened it by dialing the combination, carried out the sacks and escaped.

The act began and ended during a 30-minute interval between the departure of one armored car from the building and scheduled arrival of another.
