Legion Baseball, Owl Football Top KF Stories In '60

In glancing back at the busy schedule that was 1960 on the local sports scene a pair of accomplishments stand out but just one, from sheer community pride and spirit aroused, and from the fact it enabled Klamath Falls to crack national sports news, must be recognized as the top story of the year.

Although the Klamath Falls American Legion baseball team initiated its big year quietly enough, before the season was over it had been named the West Coast champion, and, for the first time in history, competed as one of eight teams from across the nation in the Little World Series in Hastings, Neb.

The team was eliminated after two games in the tournament action but one of the teams to which it lost went on to become the undisputed champion of the world.

From its relative obscurity as a drawing card, so far as local fans were concerned, early in the season, the team gathered momentum and followers as it continued along the trail to the absolute epitome of youth baseball.

Upon its return home the team was met with the biggest and warmest welcome ever accorded any group in the history of the town.

The second feature accomplishment of the season came in football, and again a certain lack of attention figured at the start. Only in case of the Oregon Tech Owl grid squad which set OTI history with an unbeaten, untied record, neither was the team accorded any recognition on the national level as one of the very few teams in the country to reach the dreamed-of goal, nor was any particular accolade handed it locally at the finish.

1960 included many other individual accomplishments and disappointments as the sports calendar ran its course but rather than to rate them in order of importance it would seem more proper to list them as they happened.

JANUARY

At the conclusion of the holiday vacation the Klamath Union Pelican basketball team was dealt its first loss of the season,

DON WILLEY

62-46, by the Medford Black Tornado, the team to ultimately become the Oregon State prep champion. They lost again to Medford, 64-50.

They bounced back from the losses, however, to set an all-time KU scoring mark by thumping Central Point 97-61 as Dean Dunson scored 27 points and Paul Bishop hit 24.

The Kingsley Field Jets, led by Sam Bell and Jack Peoples, the latter who was to later lose his life in an airplane accident at sea, initiated their first season of interbase competition with wins over Geiger and Larsen AFBs.

The Klamath Union wrestling team retained its undefeated status for the month by whipping Redmond, Medford, Prineville, Grants Pass and Ashland.

FEBRUARY

In February the Owls moved into first place on the OCC ladder with a pair of wins over Portland State College, and managed to hold the position in spite of a loss to Southern Oregon. Before the month was over however they dropped into second after being beaten twice by Eastern Oregon and once by SOC.

KU's wrestlers lost a squeaker to Medford, their first loss, then split with Bend and Redmond. The Oregon Tech wrestling team, in its first year of reactivation, finished the season with a 5-1 record.

The Malin Mustangs clinched the B League basketball crown with a 10-0 regular season then went on to capture the B tournament championship and placed Jim Long, Randy Miller and Rick Illian on the All-Star team.

The 409th Fighter Group won the Kingsley Field Intramural basketball title with an 82-50 victory over the 827th, while Superior Troy Laundry grabbed the City League crown with an 87-57 win over Malin Ranch. The ST quint was eliminated in the state AAU playoffs by Hakkensons of Medford.

The OTI five blew a title chance when they bowed to Oregon College and the Henley Hornets were eliminated from the A-2 cage tourney by Phoenix.

MARCH

The Klamath Union Pelicans highlighted March activity by finishing third in the state A-1 tourney after taking second in the Southern Oregon Conference behind Medford. A last second layup by guard Wally Palmberg topped South Salem 67-65 for the third place ranking. Paul Bishop and Bruce Brickner were awarded berths on the tourney All-Star team.

Malin shaded St. Mary's 37-36 for the district title then went on to annex the State B title by whipping Powers 63-54. Larry Rick and Jim Long were named on the tourney All - Star first team and Rick Illian was picked to the second team.

Browning won the big annual All-Indian Tourney in Chiloquin while Yreka copped the Yreka Invitational title.

The Pelican wrestlers shared the

SOC mat crown with Grants Pass then collected a fourth at state.

The OTI cagers finished third in the OCC and placed guard Dennis McKee, the club's high pointer (13.3), on the All-Star team.

APRIL

In April the Oregon Tech Owl baseball team began what was to be a long, long season. They ended with an 0-17 record.

The Klamath Union track team notched a fourth in the Rogue Valley Relays and the KU baseball team dumped Yreka for its first win of the season.

Jerry Cote won the Klamath Falls Scratch All-Events title with a 1969 rolled at Lucky Lanes, while Bob Bess, a member of the Klamath Archers, won the Invitational shoot at Moore Park.

Four records were set in the annual Klamath County track and field meet held on Modoc Field. Henley's Wes Johnson cracked the county 440 mark with a :52.1 and Henley went on to win the title.

MAY

KU's Keith Baxter won the District 3 tennis singles crown to earn a trip to state, where he was defeated.

The Merrill High Huskies collected the B League baseball title by shading Malin 6-5 then went on to beat Prospect for the district crown. They capped their season with a win over Maupin in the quarters and a contested win over Mitchell in the semis and wrapped up the B state title when Dennis Salvadori two-hit McKenzie in the finals.

Klamath Union's Allen Phillips and Henley's Wes Johnson grabbed the track spotlight; Allen winning the State A-1 javelin title with a toss of 194' 2⅛" while Johnson set an A-2 880 record with a time of 2:00.6 at state.

JUNE

The Philadelphia Phillie major league ball team held a Herald and News sponsored baseball tryout under the direction of scouts Eddie Bockman and Glenn Elliott.

Hornet Dick Reiling was voted Henley's outstanding athlete for the 1959-60 period and KU's Blake Griggs was named the Pels' outstanding baseball player.

Estin Kiger was honored by the National Recreation Association for his efforts as a fan and booster and Joe Smith was named to represent Klamath Falls on the Oregon Game Commission.

Young Bob Moore tossed a no-hitter for Hal's Sport Shop in the KF Little League while the South Suburban Little League inaugurated its second season with a big jamboree at Gem Stadium. The league president was Gary Dawes.

JULY

The Park and Recreation Department inaugurated another "first" with the formation of tennis leagues under the direction of Jim Norland at Moore Park.

John Webb tossed a 1-hit shutout at the Medford American Legion while the local Legion club was en route to the district title. The club went on to defeat

ALAN PHILLIPS
... javelin titlist

North Bend for the area four championship.

Dennis Coffman wound up the Klamath Falls Little League regular season with a last-game no-hit, no-run game for Park - Moyina over Car-Ad-Co.

Jack Smith threw a perfect ball game in the Sub-District 3 Little League playoffs for the South Suburban nine, only to see his team eliminated the next day when Kim Coon was the winning pitcher for the Klamath Falls Little League team.

The KF nine, as host team for the District 3 playoffs at Mills Little League Park, bested Montavilla of Portland for the right to continue to Pendleton where they finished fourth in the state finals.

Musgrove Plumbing won the South Suburban Babe Ruth title while Superior Troy and Balsigers were the American and National League champions respectively in the City Babe Ruth League.

Cal-Ore of the Lakeview-Alturas Babe Ruth League went to the State Babe Ruth playoffs after coming from behind to top the National League All-Stars twice in the District Tournament in Gem Stadium.

AUGUST

The Klamath Falls American Legion team leaped center stage in August, becoming the Oregon State champion with thrilling wins over Beaverton, after having stopped David Douglas in Portland in the semis.

In order to win their West Coast championship at Bend the local club, directed by coach Hi Hatfield and captained by second baseman Don Willey, had to win two straight from a strong New Mexico team after dropping a close 2-1 struggle to the same team. During the defeat the KFers lost the services of catcher Dave Saks who broke a finger in a close play at the plate.

John Bianchi, right field, put the icing on the big win at Bend when he smashed a crucial bases-loaded home run to beat New Mexico 9-6.

Bianchi drew more raves from the fans at Hastings when he made an almost impossible catch in the KU team's final loss of the World Series. New Orleans went on to become world champs by defeating favored Montana 9-3.

SEPTEMBER

Portland's Bill Rose won his fifth straight men's singles title in the annual Herald and News Tennis Tournament staged in Moore Park and he teamed with Bill Davis to annex the doubles crown.

Keith Baxter won the junior men's title while Valerie Williamson nabbed the ladies singles crown. The Williamsons, Valerie and Ellis, teamed for the mixed doubles championship.

The Klamath Union Pelican football season opened on a bright note as the KU eleven bested Boise High 20-7. Their next time out they tied North Salem 7-7 and then lost their SOC opener, 20-12 to Ashland.

James Casey of Palo Alto en-

KEITH BAXTER

tered and won the annual Shasta-Cascade Retriever trials with "Black Cougar."

The Oregon Tech football team began its string of nine straight victories against no defeats by shading Westminster College 22-19 in Salt Lake and then trimming El Camino 19-6 here.

OCTOBER

The Owls continued their winning ways in October belting Portland State 19-14, dropping Eastern Oregon 51-6, Southern Oregon 21-19, Laverne College 35-14, then whipping Oregon College 26-13 for the Oregon Collegiate Conference championship. At the close of the OCC season the Techmen had won 12 straight conference games (three seasons).

NOVEMBER

OTI finished up the year with a 14-7 win over Whitman College then scored two touchdowns in the final 55 seconds of play to top Greys Harbor Junior College 26-19 in Aberdeen.

Meanwhile the KU footballers were taking their lumps, losing three in a row. Eureka edged them 13-12, Grants Pass dumped them 19-6, and Medford whacked them 49-6. They bounced back to top Central Point 27-6 and handle Springfield 21-0 and then bowed 26-13 to Borah in the season finale in Boise.

The Henley Hornets had a big season, stomping Illinois Valley 25-6 at the Hornet Homecoming, then going ahead to finish the season with a 7-won, 2-loss record.

The Hornets, led by coach Len Weber, placed nine men on the Rogue Valley All-Star roster.

The Chiloquin Panthers waxed all their B League football competition then were knocked out of state title contention by the St. Mary's Crusaders.

DECEMBER

The basketball season got under way, the Owls getting off to a slow start, and the Pelicans establishing themselves as the top-ranked five on the State polls while Chiloquin showed itself the probable power in the County League.

Six Oregon Tech gridders earned berths on the Oregon Collegiate Conference All-Star team while three more earned honorable mention.

A Klamath Falls archery league was established and Kingsley Field inaugurated what was hoped to be a once-a-month fight program on the base.

The Klamath Union wrestlers opened their season in a whirlwind fashion with three straight victories but the Oregon Tech Owl team got in only practice. The Henley Hornets dropped a match to the Crater High Comets, to start a mat season featuring a number of A-1 opponents.

Year On National Sports Scene Beset With Surprises

By FRANK ECK
AP Newfeatures Sports Editor

In recording the sports events of 1960—a year beset with one surprise after another—it might be best to ease into the situation month-by-month.

January began with unbeaten Syracuse turning back Texas, 23-14, in the Cotton Bowl. But in the Rose Bowl, Washington astounded Wisconsin, 44-8. Mississippi routed LSU 21-0 in the Sugar Bowl and Georgia beat Missiouri in the Orange Bowl, 14-0.

College coaches voted for the return of unlimited substitutions but the NCAA rules committee permitted the unrestricted use of only one substitute. He was called a "wild card." The NCAA barred Oklahoma indefinitely from bowl games and TV football after a booster group refused to open its books.

Paul Pender of Boston gained a split decision over ex-middleweight champion Ray Robinson who hadn't boxed in 22 months. Slugger Jack Jensen quit baseball. The National Football League named Pete Roselle, 33, a former basketball player, as its $50,000 a year commissioner. John Thomas raised the high jump mark to seven feet 1⅛ and Carol Heiss and Dave Jenkins both won a fourth straight U.S. figure skating title.

February's scene featured the eighth Winter Olympics at California's Squaw Valley. Carol Heiss, 20, easily won the women's figure skating gold medal and Dave Jenkins, 23, beat the men to match the 1956 feat of his brother Hayes. The United States hockey team, feautring goalie Jack McCartan, won this nation's only other gold medal.

Russia won seven gold medals and piled up 165½ points. Sweden finished second with 71½, beating the United States by half a point.

A Pekingese, Chik T'Sun of Caversham, walked off with best in show honors at the Westminster.

Ohio State, paced by sophomore Jerry Lucas, turned back California, 75-55, for the NCAA basketball crown. Bally Ache, a horse that cost less than $2,500, won the rich Flamingo.

March found Boston University sophomore Thomas high jumping to a world record seven feet 2½, Carol Heiss winning her fifth straight world figure skating title and the Boston Celtics taking the National Basketball Association crown.

Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain, 23, a rookie with the Philadelphia Warriors, rewrote the NBA record books, averaging 37.6 points a game with 2,707 tallies. He made a record 1,941 rebounds. He said the opposition was too rough and planned to retire.

The Big Ten ended its 14-year Rose Bowl pact.

April was a good month for shot putters. Hardly a week passed without Army Lt. Bill Nieder, Dallas Long, Parry O'Brien or Dave Davis breaking records with the heavy ball. Manager Eddie Sawyer had a premonition about the Phillies. He quit after they lost their opening game. Gene Mauch replaced him.

The San Francisco Giants opened their $15 million Candlestick Park. Stan Musial's comment: "They should have talked to the ball players first." Most National Leaguers called it a wind tunnel.

John David Martin, Oklahoma junior, pole vaulted to a world record 15 feet 9¾ inches. John Thomas set a world outdoor high jump mark of seven feet 1½ inches at the Penn Relays.

Husky Arnold Palmer, 30, of Latrobe, Pa. won his second Masters golf title in three years with birdies on the final two holes.

Bally Ache improved his Kentucky Derby stock by taking the Florida Derby. The Montreal Canadiens won an unprecedented fifth straight Stanley Cup, beating Toronto four straight after winning the National Hockey League crown.

May had its surprises. Outsider Venetian Way won the Kentucky Derby by 3½ lengths. Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs and radio announcer Lou Boudreau changed jobs. Bally Ache was sold for $1,250,000. He then won the Preakness. Venetian Way ran fifth.

Don Cardwell, 24, two days after being traded by the Phillies, pitched a no-hitter for the Chicago Cubs against the Cardinals who lost their first 11 road games.

Jim Beatty, 25, of North Carolina ran a 3:58 mile at Modesto, Calif., fastest ever run in the United States. Dyrol Burleson of Oregon, who ran a 3:58.6 mile in April, finished second.

On Memorial Day at Aqueduct 70,410 fans wagered $5,560,628, a one-day world record. Jim Rathmann, 31, took the Indianapolis 500.

June saw Floyd Patterson become the first ever to regain the world's heavyweight title. He knocked Sweden's Ingemar Johansson unconscious in the fifth round in the Polo Grounds.

Golfer Arnold Palmer shot a final round 65 to total 280 for the U.S. Open title. Bill Hartack piloted outsider Celtic Ash to victory in the Belmont Stakes. Pender outpointed Robinson again.

The Boston Red Sox ordered Manager Bill Jurges to take a rest. A few days later he was replaced by Mike Higgins, the man he succeeded a year ago. Ted Williams hit the 500th home run of his career.

San Francisco Manager Bill Rigney was only four games off the pace but was fired. He was replaced by Tom Sheehan, 66, a scout.

In July, Willie Mays got three hits in each All-Star game, the Nationals winning 5-3 in Kansas City and 6-0 in Yankee Stadium.

Three putts on the 17th cost Palmer the British Open. He finished second by one shot to Australia's Kel Nagle. Betsy Rawls, 32, won a record fourth National Women's Open and Jay Hebert, 37, took the PGA.

Olympic hopefuls set new marks. John Thomas high jumped seven feet 3¾ inches in the Trials; Glenn Davis won the 400-meter hurdles in 49.5 and Don Bragg pole vaulted 15 feet 9¼.

August heralded the start of the Olympics in Rome. One of the biggest rhubarbs developed early when Lance Larson of El Monte, Calif., was clocked first in the 100-meter free style swim. But two of three judges voted for Australia's John Devitt, and he got the gold medal.

Gary Tobian, 25, Glendale, Calif., won the first gold medal for the United States, taking the springboard dive. Bill Mulliken, 21, Champaign, Ill., and Carolyn Schuler, 17, Berkeley, Calif., won gold medals by taking the 200-meter breaststroke and 100-meter butterfly, respectively.

Army Lt. Bill Nieder broke the Olympic shot put record with a toss of 64 feet 6¾ inches. Parry O'Brien finished second, Dallas Long third.

Lew Burdette of Milwaukee turned in a no-hitter against the Phils and Blaze Hanover won two of four heats to capture the $144,590 Hambletonian at Du Quoin, Ill. Cleveland and Detroit officials fired their managers but it became a job switch, with Jimmie Dykes going to Cleveland and Joe Gordon to Detroit.

September found the United States with 34 gold medals and 564½ points but the Soviet Union collected 43 gold medals and 807½ points in the Olympics.

Chris von Saltza, 16, Saratoga Calif., swimmer and Wilma Rudolph, 20, leggy Negro from Clarksville, Tenn., starred for the U.S. Chris won three gold medals and Wilma took home three in track. Among the disappointments were Ray Norton in the sprints, John Thomas in the high jump and Harold Connolly in the hammer throw.

Milwaukee's Warren Spahn no-hit the Phils and turned in his 11th campaign as a 20-game winner. Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., won the U.S. Amateur golf title, the American Football League went into action and among the collegians the "wild card" rule, permitting a single substitution at any time, brought more field goal attempts.

October ended the long baseball season with the Yankees taking their last 15 games to win the American League pennant. The Pittsburgh Pirates copped their first National League flag in 33 years. In the World Series the Yankees were in every game and the Pirates in four. But the Bucs won their four, the deciding blow coming in the last half of the ninth of the seventh game when Bill Mazeroski drove the ball over the left field wall in Forbes Field. Other stars for the Pirates were Vern Law and Harvey Haddix, who won two games each, and center fielder Bill Virdon.

After winning his 10th pennant in 12 years, Yankee Manager Casey Stengel was fired. He was replaced by first base coach Ralph Houk. Kansas City released Manager Bob Elliott, Joe Gordon quit Detroit and hooked on with Kansas City and Lou Boudreau quit the Cubs.

Pittsburgh's Dick Groat and Boston's Pete Runnels won the NL and AL batting titles, respectively. The National League announced that New York and Houston would be added for 1962. Nine days later the AL said it would go to 10 teams, but in 1961. The Washington Senators were moved to Minneapolis. Washington was to get a new team and Los Angeles was eyed in the expansion. Adios Butler paced the mile in a record 1:54.4 at Lexington.

November went to the footballers with Navy's Joe Bellino, a 5-foot-9 halfback, regarded as the outstanding player. He led the Middies to a 17-12 victory over Army. Yale enjoyed its first perfect season in 37 years. Minnesota was rated the top team.

The United States Golf Association decided to return to the 1959 rules with loss of stroke and distance on lost balls and out-of-bound shots beginning with the new year. Mickey Vernon was named manager of Washington's new team. Baseball rookies of the year were Dodger Frank Howard and Oriole Ron Hansen. Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles had a 71-point basketball night against the hapless Knickerbockers. Bob Scheffing was named new manager of Detroit.

December found baseball in a turmoil due to expansion plans. The American League decided to field new teams in Washington and Los Angeles for 1961. Miami, Fla., was shifted to San Juan in the International League and Hawaii was admitted to the Pacific Coast League. San Francisco traded John Antonelli and Willie Kirkland to Cleveland for Harvey Kuenn and Cincinnati sold Billy Martin to Milwaukee. The Braves traded Bill Bruton to Detoit for Frank Bolling.

The United States failed to gain the Davis Cup challenge round for the first time since 1936, bowing 3-2 to Italy in the semi-finals in Australia. Gene Fullmer retained his middleweight title in an unpopular draw with Ray Robinson in Los Angeles. Benny Paret kept his welterweight crown by beating Federico Thompson.

In pro football the Philadelphia Eagles won the National League's Eastern Division title. In the American League, sectional crowns went to Houston and Los Angeles.

A Senate subcommittee delved into boxing and discovered that underworld figures were involved in championship fights.
