Thirty Participate At Half-Time

ALTURAS—Thirty Modoc Union High School students were named last week to participate in half-time activities at the annual East-West Shrine football game at Kezar Stadium, San Francisco, Saturday afternoon.

The musicians left Friday morning and planned to return Sunday. Reservations were arranged at a hotel there. Two MUHS buses transported the students.

Adult supervision was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Marks Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Cundiff, Mr. and Mrs. John Boyes and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Oxley.

Band members provided most of their expense money through sales of their "birthday calendar." Principal Marks Smith said students were assessed about $5 each.

Those participating were Gordon Bailey, Yvonne Bowman, John Boyd, Betty Clark, Marilyn Davidson, Bonnie Dorr, Shirley Dunn, Scott Fitzpatrick, Lettie Genung, John Hansen, Bonnie Hickerson, Barry Hickerson, Sharon Jackson, Jim Kerr, Kenny Lorenz, Rusty Miller, Walter Robinson.

Signup Set

McCLOUD—Laurence Lung, Red Cross first aid instructor, said signups and the first class of the year will be held Jan. 4 at 7 p.m. at the fire hall here.

Those wishing to take the standard course may register then.

Woman Slices Hubby's Throat

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Mrs. Paul English of Calgary, Alberta, cut her husband's throat with a razor blade to save his life.

The incident occurred at Pathfinder Dam, 50 miles southwest of here, on Christmas Eve. It didn't become known until a Casper physician told of it Friday.

English was unable to breathe because of a flareup in an old throat injury. Before a physician could reach him, English instructed his wife how to open his throat with a razor blade so he could get air.

Appointed

McCLOUD — William Radcliffe was appointed a member of the McCloud Elementary School Board of Trustees recently.

Radcliffe fills the vacancy created by the death of Hubert Hamilton, clerk.

Yreka Firm Timber Bid Winner

YREKA—Pine Mountain Lumber Company of Yreka has been awarded the sale of 17 million board feet of timber in the Cecil Creek Unit, Salmon River District, Klamath National Forest.

The Forest Service determined there were no other interested bidders. No bids were received when this unit was first offered for sale last summer. A special regulation provides that, if no bids are received, award may be made to any qualified bidder who meets requirements of the advertised minimum price.

This is the first large sale in the Cecilville area and is the first to utilize the full length of the recently completed Callahan-Cecilville timber access road.

Species, volumes, and advertised prices were ponderosa and jeffrey pine, 3,600,000 board feet advertised and bid at $9.15 per M (thousand board feet); sugar and western white pine, 2,800,000 board feet, $10.45 per M; white and red fir, 3,600,000 board feet, $1 per M; Douglas fir, seven million board feet, $8.20 per M; incense cedar and knobcone pine, nominal, advertised at bid at $1 per M.

Teachers Urge End Of Probe

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California State Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, has urged the state's 30 congressmen to support abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

The federation, in a resolution adopted at its annual convention Thursday, charged that the committee had denied basic human rights to witnesses appearing before it, and had done irreparable harm to the teaching profession.

The teachers accused the committee of engaging in "reckless accusations, trial by headlines and abuse of personal freedoms for sensational publicity," and said this had produced a climate of fear and intimidation.

The federation also adopted resolutions calling for:

—Legislation providing that all fulltime teachers be paid on single salary schedules based on experience and education "without respect to other considerations."

—A law establishing a minimum salary for teachers of at least $6,500 a year.

—A collective bargaining bill for state college faculty members.

—The establishment of academic senates in state colleges to give faculty members a greater voice in setting policy.

Paul Ward, consultant to the state Senate Committee on Government Reorganization, earlier told the teachers that administrators have been willing to listen to teachers "only when they say what they want them to say."

He urged the teachers to take a more active part in school affairs.

Incorporation Backers Say Project Estimates Are Attempt To Discredit

WEED—Proponents of this community's incorporation say estimates of cost for correcting drainage problems here are out of reason and are an attempt to discredit the incorporation movement.

They quoted County Supervisor Clint Jackson who represents the third district. Jackson said "figures of $20,000 to $30,000 to correct the problem here are completely out of reason."

He was interviewed by the Incorporation Coordinating Committee last week.

"The problem isn't of the nature to warrant spending that much money unless you want to pipe the waterflow all the way to the railroad and dump it into Boles Creek," Jackson said.

More than six inches of rain fell during a recent storm—more than three inches of it within 24 hours — and the unusually high runoff, worsened by water from land cleared for the projected Bel-Aire housing development, caused considerable damage in the city.

Incorporationists say the damage was due in part to lack of proper planning in the past.

Jackson said the county and local property owners ought to work together to prevent a recurrence. Ditches need to be dug deeper and culverts for improved drainage installed, said Jackson.

Residents and property owners will have to help keep culverts and ditches free of debris for their own protection, Jackson added. The county does not have enough manpower to cover all such situations throughout the county frequently enough, when exceptionally severe storms strike, he stated.

Jackson pointed out that the county's responsibility for maintaining drainage applies only in protecting county roads.

Temporary corrective work by the County Road Department is in progress in Weed, Jackson said. He added he hopes the work will alleviate the drainage problem until a permanent solution is worked out.

The road department is also making a survey in an attempt to find a feasible solution. Suggestions include extending the oiled roadbed to the curb to prevent dirt wash from drain ditches, setting up a better distribution system to take care of run-off from subdivision property by routing it west, where it flowed previously, and providing flow channels past the M. E. Ellison property, where water may be dumped into a creek.

Jackson said he expects the county to have the problem solved permanently before incorporation, if it succeeds. Complete takeover of responsibility for city streets would not occur until July 1, in that event.

A special incorporation election has been called for Jan. 10.

Jackson said he believes streets involved, now under county jurisdiction, will be in good shape by that time.

He added he does not know when certain streets will be brought to county standards by International Paper Company by agreement with the county. He stated he does not believe a time limit was specified.

The county agreed to take over jurisdiction of the roads, when they are standardized.

State Fund Available To Cities

YREKA — Sheriff A. B. Cottar reports receiving the following release from Attorney General Stanley Mosk:

Approximately $400,000 will be available June 30 to reimburse California cities and counties in the new Peace Officer Standards and Training Program.

At a meeting in Riverside recently the State Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training reported that monies accumulated in the Peace Officer Training Fund currently total $270,000 and the net increase will average over $20,000 per month. The law which established the program requires that funds be allocated annually to local police forces that volunteer to comply with standards established by the commission.

June 30 was designated as the final date on which claims can be filed for the first annual distribution of funds. Gene S. Muehleisen, executive officer of the commission, predicted that over $400,000 will have been accumulated and available for reimbursement to cities and counties by that date.

The commission also officially certified 10 law enforcement training schools. The first schools to be certified under the program are Northern California Peace Officers School of Concord, Los Angeles Sheriff's Academy, Southern California Peace Officers Basic Training School of Riverside, Fullerton Police Training School, Alameda County Sheriff's Department Training School of Santa Rita, Bakersfield Police School, Long Beach Police Academy, Los Angeles Police Academy, San Diego Police Academy and Oakland Police Academy.

The objective of the program is to raise competence of California peace officers through establishment of minimum recruitment standards followed by minimum training requirements. Training must be taken at law enforcement facilities certified by the commission.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown's latest appointment to the commission is Chief of Police Robert S. Seares of Arcadia. Other members of the commission besides Cottar are John Ficklin, chairman, Vallejo; Martin C.
