

Tear Gas Quells Riot At Prison

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — State police with shotguns, advancing behind a barrage of tear gas, quickly quelled an attempted escape at the Eastern State Penitentiary Sunday night.

Two guards were stabbed with makeshift knives, neither seriously. A convict received a skull fracture.

Fourteen convicts engineered the attempted break, state troopers said. The 14 opened the cell doors of hundreds of other prisoners in the maximum security block, apparently in a move to create confusion, but only 18 others left their cells.

The 14 surrendered meekly in a prison garage, giving up nine hostages. One of the hostages had been wounded. Four of the convicts were in guard uniforms.

The disturbance started shortly before 8 p.m. Warden W. J. Banmiller said guard Donald Carr, 40, allowed one prisoner to enter another's cell to return a guitar.

Both jumped Carr, who was stabbed in the left shoulder. He dropped his keys and ran.

The two convicts then ran to the cell block door, unlocked it, overpowered guard Lt. William Righter, 59, and began unlocking all doors in the maximum security cellblocks. Righter suffered a superficial knife cut in the abdomen and was taken as hostage.

The first two convicts, picking up a dozen accomplices and other hostages along the way, then approached one of the main gate guards.

"They told me they were going to shoot the guards unless I opened the door," said guard Tom McDonald. "I pointed a shotgun at them through the bars and they ran away."

The 14 went to the deputy warden's office, setting it afire, before moving to the prison garage, where they located a truck and prepared to scale the wall. They had a rope fashioned from mattress covers and a ladder from the garage.

At this time state police—who with city police had ringed the prison with a heavily armed cordon—moved inside the 40-foot high gray walls of the 131-year-old brownstone prison located just a few blocks from Philadelphia's City Hall.

Citadel Reenacts Start Of Civil War

By United Press International
A group of cadets at the Citadel lined the shore of Charleston Harbor in South Carolina, and with the pull of a lanyard, changed the course of history.

When the cadets touched off the salvo of seventeen 24-pound artillery shells in the direction of a Yankee merchant ship "Star of the West," they triggered the War between the States.

The firing on the merchant ship took place Jan. 9, 1861.

Today cadets at the Citadel will again line the shore and cut loose a barrage of rounds at a ship moving up the harbor. The action is part of a centennial pageant, which will re-create the events with near-authenticity.

Commanding the cadets 100 years ago was Maj. P. F. Stevens, head of the military institution. History credits Cadet G. E. Haynsworth with the dubious honor of pulling the lanyard on the first shot.

Today, a famous military hero headed the cadets. Gen. Mark W. Clark of World War II and Korean War fame, portrayed Maj. Stevens, and Cadet Richard Maj. Clark is the president of the Citadel.

The salvo fired today was in the direction of the minicraft support ship USS Orleans Parish, rigged out in the disguise of sails, rigging and an authentic looking paddlewheel.

The entire corps of cadets—numbering more than 2,000—marched the two miles from the campus to the battery, and an elite group of 100 cadets manned the Confederate artillery pieces.

The centennial weekend at Charleston began Saturday with a full dress parade by the cadets, a speech by Civil War historian Bruce Catton and a military ball complete with hoop skirts for the ladies.

The pageant is one of the many commemorating the Civil War.

Sunday, Virginia began its observance of the centennial with a quiet ceremony at the tomb of the greatest Southern general—Robert E. Lee. The ceremony coincided with one at the tomb of the Northern general—Ulysses S. Grant—in New York. Dr. Francis P. Gaines, chancellor of Washington and Lee University, praised Lee's work during reconstruction days after the war.

Officials and students of Washington and Lee, which Lee later headed, and from nearby Virginia Military Institute attended the affair.

School Waits Negro Pupils

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI) — The University of Georgia braced to day for the admission under federal court order of its first two Negro students.

The Negroes, Hamilton Holmes and Charlyne Hunter, were expected to arrive on the 175-year-old campus shortly after 8 a.m., following a 70-mile drive from their homes in Atlanta.

This university town and the campus where there are 6,853 students appeared outwardly calm. There were a few incidents, such as a cross burning, but they were regarded as strictly a minority viewpoint.

Should the Negroes be admitted to classes at the University's winter session opened, it would be the first break in a segregation barrier that has kept Negroes out of white schools in Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina. All other southern states have dropped the color bar to some extent in educational institutions.

It was not clear just what the state of Georgia would do about the situation here.

University president O. C. Aderhold and registrar Walter N. Danner missed the dramatic moment. They were ordered to appear as witnesses at a federal court hearing in Macon where the state was making a last ditch effort to delay the Athens desegregation order pending an appeal to higher courts.

In Atlanta, Gov. Ernest Vandiver, an alumnus of the University of Georgia, was to address the opening session of the state legislature. Vandiver said after a closed-door conference Sunday with state regents and key lawmakers he would announce today what action the state proposes in the case.

The desegregation order, handed down in the Middle Georgia District Court last Friday by Federal Judge W. A. Boodle, propelled the university system of Georgia into a desperate crisis.

In a 78-page ruling, Boodle ordered the university to admit the Negroes for the current quarter and said they would have been admitted long ago had they been white.

Under a network of state laws, the admission of a single Negro to any public school or unit of the university system automatically cuts off all state funds, subjects teachers to the danger of prosecution and imprisonment, and leaves to the discretion of the governor whether the affected institution should be closed.

Aderhold said that unless ordered otherwise by the state he plans to accept the Negroes under the court order. He said the university could continue operation for an indefinite time even though its state appropriations are cancelled temporarily.

Train Wreck Injures 3

EASTPORT, Idaho (AP) — Three trainmen were hospitalized and over five train units derailed when an arriving freight train rammed the rear of a standing Canadian train at this border town Sunday.

Two engine units and four cars of the arriving double engine freight were derailed in the collision. The caboose of the Canadian train was nearly demolished and the unoccupied coach and rear truck of one diesel unit derailed. About 250 feet of track were torn up and the depot platform was damaged.

The Spokane International Railway freight, made up of 42 cars, apparently failed to slow at the station entrance and crashed into the waiting three-unit Canadian Pacific Railway train.

The injured, members of the Canadian crew, were hospitalized at Bonners Ferry, Idaho, about 30 miles south of here. They were Harold Osborn, 64, the conductor who suffered a broken leg; John Deman, 45, brakeman, broken right shoulder, and Leslie Colledge, 43, possible broken ribs and head injuries. All live in Cranbrook, B. C.

Walt Graydon, Union Pacific public relations officer, said investigation will be necessary to determine the cause of the wreck. He reported the railroad line was back in operation by 8 p.m. Sunday.

The two lines transfer passengers and freight cars at this station on the Idaho-British Columbia border.

COMPARES DEATH TOLLS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The high-way death toll in the United States over the Christmas weekend was higher than the number of persons killed in all of the aviation mishaps in 1960, Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney said Sunday.

The Oklahoma Democrat, who appeared on a TV show, said the nation should have uniform traffic laws and codes on drivers' licenses.

Reds Take Bribes

MOSCOW (AP) — Three men have been arrested in the Ukraine for accepting bribes to speed up delivery of new Soviet tractors, the Economic Gazette reported.

Two were officials of a material supply station; the other was in the shipping department of a tractor factory. The Gazette said the bribery began in 1957.

Nine Names On Incorporation Ballot

WEED — The following introduces nine councilmen candidates whose names will appear on the special incorporation election ballot Tuesday, Jan. 10, when eligible voters will decide the future of Weed.

MELVIN SOLETTI
"We have a big job ahead and with the help of all people in the incorporation area... we can make Weed a first-class city for all to be proud of. Incorporation should have been done 25 years ago," says Melvin Soletti, 40-year-old grocer of the Angel Valley section, one of the candidates.

Soletti has lived in Weed for the past 33 years. He was born in Mount Shasta and lived a short while in McCloud. He has been a businessman in Weed a total of 17 years. He served with the Army Air Corps during World War II.

He is past president of the Weed Lions Club, and Lions zone chairman and is an active member of the Sons of Italy Lodge, American Legion, Knights of Columbus, Loyal Order of the Moose and the Weed Golf Club.

Soletti lives with his wife, Laura, and children, Karen, Timothy and Melvin Jr., on a Pine Street.

EVERETT D. WARREN
"To incorporate is the only way Weed can progress as a thriving community," speaks Everett D. Warren, 53, owner of extensive property in Weed and Warren Addition.

He is also shipping clerk for International Paper Company's planing mill.

Warren was born in Missouri and has lived in Weed for the past 36 years. He served a short while with the Navy during World War II. He is president of the American Gun Club chapter here, vice president of Northern California Wildlife Conservation Association and a member of the American Legion. With his wife, Loretta, he lives at 212 Shasta Avenue.

ELWIN ADAMS
"Weed has no doubt been bypassed on industrial progress due to our unincorporated status. We shouldn't wait any longer," says Elwin Adams, 58-year-old grocer.

Adams was born in Scott Valley and has lived in Weed since 1927. For 15 years he operated a service station on the old south highway and since 1942 has owned and operated a grocery store on Main Street.

His wife, Willie, assists with store operation and Adams is employed with International Paper Company in the box factory department.

He is a past president of the Weed Lions Club, served 12 years on local school boards, nine years with Siskiyou Joint Union High School District and three with Weed Elementary School District.

board; three years on the Siskiyou County Planning Board and active in the local chamber of commerce, Masonic Lodge and Order of the Eastern Star.

His three sons are married and away from home. They are E. G. of Sacramento, Robert of Weed Jr. and James, with the armed forces. The family home is at 556 Oregon Street.

FRANK RIZZO
"It's time to step forward. We've been behind too many years. Any improvement now is for the best," says Frank Rizzo, businessman here since 1946, in announcing his candidacy for councilman.

Rizzo, 40, owns and operates a liquor and grocery store and a motel on South Highway 99.

He is a native of Italy and has lived in Weed since he came to this country 31 years ago.

Rizzo served 3 1/2 years with the Army in World War II.

His wife, Jean, assists with the business. They have two daughters, Margaret and Teresa, and a son, Glenn.

He is a member of the Weed Chamber of Commerce, Order of Redmen, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Sons of Italy.

PETE BELCASTRO
"If incorporation goes through, we have a tough job... lots of work, and we will need good concrete planning with everyone working together."

"If elected, I'll do the best I can to help make a city we will all be proud of," said Pete Belcastro.

A Weed native, former junior heavyweight wrestling champion of the world, Belcastro, 50, is a native of Sterling City, Calif. He has lived in Weed the past 49 years and has been a businessman for the past 14 years, operating a dairy with his brothers.

Before entering the dairy business he owned and operated a service station on the old south highway.

Belcastro is past president of the Weed Lions Club and is a member of the Yreka Elks Club.

He lives at 448 Walnut Street with his wife, Nina. Their daughter, Nancy, is now Mrs. James Lawson and lives in Oklahoma.

FRED PILLOW
"The town and all concerned would have been better off if incorporation had taken place years ago. We have to start sometime... this should be the time," stated Fred Pillow, candidate.

Pillow, 45, a businessman for the past 11 years, owns and operates a service station on South Highway 99. He is a native of Weed.

He served three years with the Air Force, one year overseas.

Presently Pillow is an active member of Weed Chamber of Commerce and Weed-Shastina Volunteer Fire Department. For many years he was active in various service and fraternal organizations and is a past vice president of the chamber group.

He lives at his home on Grove Street with his wife, Anita, his daughter, Sharon, and son, Fred Jr.

JESSE GREENE
"Incorporation will be to the best interest of all people in the area," states Jesse Greene, 39, a native of Louisiana and a resident of Weed for the past 15 years.

Greene served three years in the Army during World War II, overseas two years. He was a sergeant at the time of discharge.

Now a member of the Siskiyou County Grand Jury, he is also president of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, Weed branch; assistant secretary of Prince Hall No. 130, AF & AM; treasurer of the Local 2907 Credit Union and a member of the Executive Board of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers Union 2907. He is a minister of Mount Shasta Baptist Church, Weed. He assisted with the Boy Scout movement in Weed during the past years.

He lives with his wife and daughters, Cynthia and Mary, at 3 Dixie Street.

ROLLAND RILEY
"Incorporation will provide opportunity for Weed people to take advantage of rights and duties as responsible citizens, to become a recognized city and establish a place in the trend of progress predicted for the future of this area."

"Incorporation will invite needed businesses and industries. We will be stronger united than divided as districts," quotes Rolland Riley.

Riley, in addition to his electrical job with International Paper Company, is beginning his ninth year as chief of Weed-Shastina Volunteer Fire Department. He has worked for IPC and formerly for Long-Bell Lumber Company, for the past 30 years.

He is also completing his first term as a commissioner with Weed Police Protection District.

A native of Michigan, he has lived in Weed for the past 42 years. He is a home and property owner and lives at 505 Oregon Street with his wife, Gladys. Their two daughters are Mrs. Richard (Yvonne) Hayes, Los Angeles and Mrs. William (Judy) Clark Jr. of Sierra-Leone, British West Africa, now attending school in Paris.

Mainly active in the volunteer fire department, he is also affiliated with White Pine Masonic Lodge, and has assisted in many civic improvements during his long residency here.

J. I. KERSEY
"Weed incorporated will give us the chance to have our own government, to do things for and by our own people. We can then use money now paid out as taxes to the state and county to a better advantage for us, as a city.

"I believe the men elected as councilmen will do their best to govern and construct a well-planned city that can run on a pay-as-you-go basis," are the words of J. I. (Jack) Kersey, 31, has served as chairman of the Citizens Committee for Incorporation, whose members are community citizens backing the incorporation movement, spearheaded by the Weed Chamber of Commerce.

He is a native of Texas and has lived in Weed for many years. He first came here in 1922 and moved in 1926. Before settlement in Weed since 1946, he and his family lived in Klamath Falls, Alturas and Sacramento. He served two years with the Air Force during World War II.

Kersey is an elder of Grace Presbyterian Church here and a former vice president of Siskiyou County Society for Crippled Children. He served as chairman of the Lions Club committee that originally formulated the existing recreation district for the Weed area.

He has been assistant manager of a mercantile store here since 1952. He has been with the firm since 1946—formerly as manager of the grocery department.

His home is at 19 Main Street. He and his wife, Dorothy, have two daughters, Mrs. Larry (Christy) Johnson, and Mrs. Raymond (Kay) Caldwell, Sacramento, and son, David, Redding.

Polling place for the Weed incorporation vote is the Weed Court Club adjacent to Weed Post Office. A favorable vote for incorporation will also elect the first council to govern the new city.

Pipe Smoking Ancient Found

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The skeleton of a pipe-smoking Indian, termed by a Texas technological college professor as a major archaeological find, was discovered Sunday in a canyon near Lubbock.

Dr. David Kelley, professor of anthropology, estimated the skeleton had been buried 500 to 700 years. Nearby was found a pipe, made of a marble-like stone, with charred tobacco in the bowl.

The hunters, who found the skeleton in a grave burrowed in the side of the canyon, first reported the discovery to the sheriff's office, which closed its file on the case with the notation "no attempt to locate next of kin."
