

Grade School Cage Jamboree Set At KU

Sixteen teams of Klamath Falls grade school basketball players will parade their talents before friends, fans and parents in the annual Grade School Jamboree which is slated for Pelican Court beginning at 6:30 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 14.

The young cagers will square off in nine 15-minute games which are set to be played just as rapidly as is possible. The Mills School teams are the only ones that will appear in more than one game. Directed by coaches Joe Roberts and Jerry Kempf the Mills squads will open the program in games with the Altamont representatives and then return in the nighttime for contests with Fairview.

All proceeds from the show are destined to wind up in the coffers of the grade school athletic fund.

Admission charges are 50 cents for adults and 15 cents for youngsters. The program is under the direction of Jim Johnson, city athletic director, and is sponsored by the Pelican Booster Club and the Klamath Union Letterman's Club.

Concession stands will be in operation, during the two-hour long performance.

Johnson noted that the teams would be allowed no warm-up periods between games so as to speed the programs as much as possible. Each club will be allowed only one time out per game.

All warm-up activities will be held in the KU girls' gym prior to each game, Johnson said.

Other teams and coaches represented include Altamont coached by Irv Fletcher, Conger directed by Eldred Anderson, Roosevelt led by coaches George Hanson and Merlin Phelps, the Altamont Midgets coached by Daryl Whipple, the Fairview teams, handled by Sam Redkey and Bill Hamilton; Riverside coached by Oren Perkins, Pelican led by Ernie Baglogh, and the Fremont Midgets headed by Al Fitzgerald.

Hawaii Club Officially Joins PCL

HONOLULU (UPI) — Professional baseball came to this sunny land today with the long-awaited announcement that Honolulu will be in the Pacific Coast League this season.

Nick E. Morgan Jr., Salt Lake City businessman who owns the new franchise, planned to name the field manager late today. He said the name of the club will be decided in a contest among the islanders.

The entrance of Honolulu into the Triple-A Pacific Coast League could turn into a break for Kansas City, whose fiery new general manager Frank Lane is always on the lookout for any new source of talent. Morgan has announced that he plans to bring top-flight players from the Philippines and the Far East to stock the club in order "to give the team an international flavor."

The A's will undoubtedly supply plenty of players to the new club, but also naturally will skim off any talented players from the baseball-happy Far East who may perform here.

The official announcement bringing baseball here has been prolonged for days while negotiations were carried on to guarantee the new club will be able to perform in the local ballpark. That agreement was finally arrived at Wednesday night.

The final arrangements were much different than the many proposals discussed in recent weeks.

Morgan will rent Honolulu Stadium from the Honolulu Stadium Corp., of which the university is majority stockholder. He will pay $11,000 per year for five years.

Other teams in the Pacific Coast League are San Diego, Portland, Seattle, Salt Lake City, Vancouver, B.C., and Tacoma and Spokane, Wash.

Lakeview, Henley To Host Cage Foe

The Henley Hornets and the Lakeview Honkers take a shot at a set of A-2 Rogue League opponents Friday and Saturday nights on their home hardwood.

The Hornets tangling with Illinois Valley Friday and Phoenix on Saturday while the Honkers get them just the other way around.

The visitors are making their first stand against the Hornets and are appearing against the Honkers for the second time.

Neither Lakeview (9-1) nor Henley (7-1) has been defeated in conference activity, although the Honkers dropped a narrow 47-44 decision to Illinois Valley in the Holiday Classic, a non-counting affair.

Last weekend the Hornets stung Eagle Point (44-36) and Rogue River (54-20) and the Honkers inflicted 56-42 and 58-50 losses on the same two clubs.

Double victories for each of the Klamath area schools will considerably heighten the interest in next weekend's activities when the Honkers travel to Henley for a single game.

FAIRVIEW FLASHES — Coach Sam Redkey is sending this quintet into action on Pelican Court Saturday night as the Fairview representatives in the big annual Grade School Basketball Jamboree. From the left they are, center, Jim Tucker, forward Bill Hodges, guard Kurt Fiedler, forward Terry Milne and guard Chuck Baldwin.

Coliseum To Use Bowerman 'Boards'

The rubber asphalt board broad jump runway which created such a stir at the national decathlon championships at Eugene last summer will get its indoor test next Saturday night at the Memorial Coliseum during the Oregon Indoor Invitational meet at 8 p.m.

Meet Director Bill Bowerman, who first designed the rubberized asphalt covering for the boards to enable the shifting of the outdoor pit to a better spot for the spectators to watch, merely converted the mixture to flat panels for the indoor meet.

The covering gives the jumpers extra speed and better distance, and in the decathlon meet almost every competitor exceeded his previous all-time best.

Bowerman is hopeful it will prove as successful indoors.

One of the nation's top collegiate jumpers, Oregon State's Darrell Horn, will be one of the top three or four men in the field Saturday night and the Beaver ace is expected to be tough to beat. He finished last season very strong, and was an alternate on the Olympic team.

He'll be facing Jerry Close of Oregon, one of the few collegiate jumpers to hold a decision over him, and John Kelly, the former Stanford ace who was ranked among the nation's top ten for two years.

Another well known name in Portland athletic competition, Mel Renfro of the Oregon Frosh, will make his collegiate track debut in this event and might give top three a stiff battle.

Game Enthusiasts To See Elk Films

Indications are that elk hunters and lovers of the fascinating, untouched back country will turn out in large numbers to see Jim Bond's greatest camera work on the wild elk. Bond was almost three years in producing this exceptional sequence and has been greeted with huge crowds wherever he screens the picture. While it is unusual from beginning to end, it was definitely made with the hunter in mind. Camping with the nervous cows, playing calves and challenging bulls, and using a battery of telephoto lenses, Jim was able to capture on film the story that has pleased so many people — the story of the magnificent Bugler.

Bond had this to say upon his arrival in the city, "The reception given this elk picture pleased me beyond words. This film gives the audience the feeling of the real wilderness in which the elk prefers to live. The bugling, in stereophonic sound, is something you will long remember. Naturally I will pass along a few tips on where to find the large trophy bulls — and I'll also show you a few dozen right close up."

Two other carefully edited films are included in the two-hour colorful show, "Trapping and Transplanting Mountain Goats" and "The Montana Fisherman."

"Be sure to bring the whole family," Bond added.

Dave Johansen, speaking for the sponsoring Jaycees, said, "We know we are going to have a packed house each night, but we urge you to go tonight if possible. We have sold a good many tickets already and we are getting calls from 75 miles away. This is an exceptional show that will change your elk hunting ideas completely. But even if you never hunted elk in your life you'll love these true wilderness films."

The films will be shown tonight and Friday night at Mills Auditorium.

Four Colts, Two Packers Earn Berths

LOS ANGELES (AP) — West Coach Vince Lombardi has named four Baltimore Colts — and only two of his own Green Bay Packers — to a tentative starting offensive lineup for Sunday's pro bowl game at the Coliseum.

Green Bay's Paul Hornung, who set a National Football League record last season by scoring 178 points, is not among the starters. He suffered a leg injury late in the season, and again in the playoff game against Philadelphia, but is expected to be able to play Sunday.

Buck Shaw of Philadelphia, coach of the East all-stars, hasn't announced his lineups.

Tentative starters in Lombardi's backfield are quarterback Johnny Unitas of Baltimore, halfbacks Lenny Moore of Baltimore and Jon Arnett of Los Angeles and fullback Jim Taylor of Green Bay.

Up front are ends Gail Cogdill and Jim Gibbons of Detroit, tackles Jim Parker of Baltimore and Bob St. Clair of San Francisco, guards Tan Jones of Chicago and Art Spinney of Baltimore and center Jim Ringo of Green Bay.

The West is favored by one point, the smallest margin odds-makers have assigned to any team in the 11-year history of the event.

The West has won 6 of 10 previous games.
