

Marcia Hawley Weds Thomas E. McCracken

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS McCracken will make their home in Eugene. They were married Jan. 7 at St. Pius X Catholic Church in Klamath Falls. The bride is the former Marcia Hawley. Photo by Floyd.

Marcia Hawley and Thomas E. McCracken, both of Eugene, were married at 2 o'clock on Jan. 7 in St. Pius X Catholic Church in Klamath Falls. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance F. Hawley of this city. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCracken of Eugene are parents of the bridegroom.

Father George A. Murphy performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of white and green decor. Beauty vases of white Mefo chrysanthemums and white stock accented with greens were placed on the altar which was lighted by candles.

Vance Hawley escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. She was gowned in floor length ivory satin fashioned with long sleeves and scoop neckline. The dropped waistline was enhanced with a folded drape which ended in two panels at the back which were caught with full blown satin roses. A cap of satin and seed pearls held in place the three-tiered veil of silk illusion. She carried an offside cascade of white butterfly roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Glen Knowlton of Walla Walla was matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Don Monte of Eugene and Mrs. Clyde James of Oakland.

They wore identical frocks of mistletoe green taffeta with a detail of small bows placed diagonally on the flared skirts. Feather headbands matched the dresses. Each carried a nosegay of white carnations with evergreen tips. Brian Bronson of Eugene served as best man. Ushers were the bridegroom's brothers, J. W. McCracken Jr. and Bruce McCracken, both of Eugene.

Mrs. Ronald Ormsby was the organist. Mrs. Hawley selected for her daughter's wedding a zephyr wool costume dress of Olivio green and white with matching accessories and a

ALTAMONT SCHOOL

"If a parent has his teenager's trust, love and respect, the parent has the greatest deterrent to juvenile delinquency there is." These words are from the program given by Parent and Family Life chairmen, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kennedy, Tuesday, Jan. 11, in the Altamont Elementary School.

A few suggestions given to help were: Teenagers need to have group activity stressed, rather than individual dating. They feel a need to be alike and need encouragement toward development and individual recognition. Teenagers must learn to like others; they want to like themselves and feel a strong need for others to like them.

A teenager wants to be proud of his parents and home. They need encouragement towards developing their own talents and abilities. A teenager needs to love and to be loved.

A few rules to help parents are (1) have a firm set of decisions and stick by them; (2) don't be a "nervous nelly," but rely on the teenagers previous 13 odd years of training to see him through; (3) do not try to hold onto your teenagers as a mother's pet; (4) do not be over-critical, instead build up and praise his good points; (5) do not push your teenager beyond his limits or abilities.

Following the talk by Robert Kennedy on parent-child relations was a lively discussion including audience participation. Suggestive guidance on individual problems was given by the speaker and principals Stan Sevruk and Harvey Denham. Most thought provoking for inquiring parents was a discussion on types of dating, allowances, personal and individual teenage problems, over-criticizing by parents, and what parents feel are socially accepted and not too radical ways of dress and hair styling.

Following the flag presentation and pledge of allegiance by Denham, Pack 2, the thought for the day was given by Sidney Ratzloff.

Harvey Denham reported an attendance of approximately 275 people at Altamont Junior High during the Lights On For Education program.

Room count was won by Mrs. Lois Lancaster's fifth grade in the elementary school, and Mrs. Christine Murray's seventh grade in the junior high.

It was reported the Junior High Speech Festival will be Friday, Feb. 10, at Henley.

Refreshments were served in the cafeteria following the meeting. The next regular meeting of Altamont PTA will be Feb. 14 in the elementary school and will be a Founders Day program.

Best Dressed List Eyed By Reporter

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—I have a sneaking suspicion—it creeps up at twilight when the lamps are low—that the fashion industry has just sold us a bill of goods.

The thing that I have been ogling with the old fish-eye is the recently published list of the world's 12 best-dressed women of 1960. I can't help feeling that the selection was not entirely on the up-and-up.

The winners, we are told, were picked by 2,000 fashion experts and observers who participated in an international poll conducted by the New York Couture Group.

It was, we also are told, the collective judgment of those polled that the best-dressed list should be headed by Mrs. John F. Kennedy, wife of the U.S. president-elect.

Not Suggesting Rigging
Now I am not suggesting that the poll was rigged. I credit the New York Couture Group with being more ethical than certain television quiz show producers.

Nor am I suggesting that Mrs. Kennedy didn't deserve the honor. I might have voted for her myself if I had been consulted in the matter.

Nevertheless, there are certain

Little Change Planned In White House Decor

NEW YORK (UPI)—The next first lady plans no drastic changes in the furnishings of the family living quarters of the White House.

Instead, said her decorator, Mrs. Henry Parish II, "there will be a quiet moving in of the first family's personal things. No clean sweep . . . no major overhaul."

Mrs. Parish, who has worked with Mrs. John F. Kennedy on decorating projects for the past four years, said that the new first lady is a woman of "simple tastes who wants to create a home . . . She wants actually to transplant the home she now has to the White House, because it represents their way of life."

NEW START

If your cake make-up is not blending on your skin as evenly as it should, the problem may lie in the condition of your silk sponge. If the sponge is hardened with stale make-up, wash it in a quart of liquid detergent added to one cup of medium hot water. Rinse out all traces of soap and dry. You'll find your make-up will go on smoothly and evenly.

latter, she described as "old and full of charm—we'll do it in comfortable country style."

Mrs. Parish said the family quarters—including private sitting, dining and bedrooms—are on the second floor of the White House. A playroom-nursery will be furnished on the third floor.

She said that Mrs. Kennedy plans to add many of the accessories she has collected through the years—"some lovely cigarette boxes, some lovely old French drawings." All the furnishings are antiques.

Mrs. Parish said she had helped Mrs. Kennedy do the Georgetown house, given her a hand at the residence in Hyannis Port, Mass., where the furnishings are early American, and also would be helping with the decoration of the country estate the couple has rented at Middleburg, Va. The

Vows Spoken In Reno Chapel

Parks Wedding Chapel in Reno was the setting Nov. 25 for an exchange of wedding vows by Shirley Nadine Haynes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Haynes of Tulelake, and Ronald Lee Cantrell.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lester Bell of Tulelake and Fred Cantrell of Klamath Falls.

The candlelight service was read by the Rev. Ralph Carlton. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a white lace waltz length gown with round neckline and bracelet sleeves and a shoulder veil held in place by a band of pearl daisies. Her only jewelry was a strand of cultured pearls belonging to her mother. She carried white orchids surrounded by white carnations.

Bridesmaid for her sister was Karen Haynes, dressed in a gold satin frock white headpiece and accessories. She carried a bouquet of split chrysanthemums in bronze shades. Carl Cantrell was best man for his brother.

Mrs. Haynes chose a gold brocade dress with black accessories. Mrs. Bell wore a mustard wool suit with brown accessories. Both had corsages of white carnations.

Attending the ceremony besides the parents were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Taylor, close friends of the couple.

The newlyweds are now at home in Tulelake.

Naomi Shrine

The January meeting of Naomi Shrine No. 3, Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem, was held on Saturday evening, Jan. 14, at the Masonic Temple.

Advance night was held with line officers advancing in their stations. Aura Mitchell, noble prophetess, and Almond Geiss, associate watchman of shepherds, presided in the East as worthy high priestess and watchman of shepherds, during the opening and closing ceremonies. Lois Murphy, chaplain, advanced to the station of noble prophetess and Myrtle Schieferstein, guide, to worthy shepherdess.

The business meeting was conducted by Luella Chilcote, WHP, and Frank McCormack, WOS. Plans were announced for a special ceremonial to be held on Feb. 11, to be preceded by a 4 p.m. business meeting. Practice for the ceremonial will be on Sunday, Feb. 5, at 2 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

A social hour and refreshments were served in the dining room with tables decorated in green and white, attractive with silver arrangements. Serving on the committee were Blanche Marks, Blanche Schulze, Geneva Swift and Jack Schulze.

Library Club Plans Benefit

Plans are moving ahead for the benefit bridge and tea sponsored each year by the Klamath Falls Woman's Library Club. This special event will be held on Saturday, Jan. 28, 1 p.m., at the Willard Hotel. All women in the Klamath area are invited to attend.

The theme of the party this year will be, "Our Friends Around Us," in keeping with the program of the General Federation of Women's Clubs interest in the United States relationships with the other countries of the world.

Proceeds of the benefit will be used to sponsor a program of adult patriotic education through the addition of pro-American publications for use in the public library. Mrs. W. M. Wales, project chairman, and her committee worked closely with Mrs. Addie Mae Nixon, city librarian, and found this to be a needed addition to the library.

Guests are asked to bring table covers and cards. Prizes will be awarded each table. Those who do not wish to play cards may come for the tea, which will be served at 3:30 p.m. For reservations call TU 2-1663.
