Carol Lee Douglas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Douglas of Oakland, and Scotty Sanford Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Stephens Sr. of Klamath Falls, recited their marriage vows Jan. 14 at the Gospel Chapel in Oakland.

The Rev. Kenneth Logie performed the ceremony in a garden setting provided by a large arch covered with orchid chrysanthemums, white carnations and ferns.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown with chapel train of lace and organza. The fitted lace bodice featured a shirred midriff of silk organza. A rose of self material accented the scalloped neckline. The lace skirt was fashioned with bouffant puffs of organza which extended from above the scalloped hemline and were held in place just below the waistline with silk roses. A princess crown of aurora borealis beads held the lace edged fingertip veil and she carried a cascade of philanopsis orchids centered with a purple orchid.

Doris Romero of Oakland was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Audrey Laikam of Fresno, and Pauline Sandoval and Mrs. Aslyn Logie, both of Oakland.

The attendant's frocks, identical in style, were in different shades of lavender. Each carried a cascade of orchid chrysanthemums. Patsy Weaver, flower girl, was dressed in white lace over lavender taffeta and carried a basket of white carnations.

Ted Stephens Jr. of Fossil was best man for his brother. Ushers were the Rev. Sandy Sandoval, Aslyn Logie and Alf Hayden, all of Oakland.

Marvin Avila of Hayward was the ring bearer.

Mrs. Douglas wore a powder blue street length dress with black accessories. Mrs. Stephens chose a shell gray lace dress lined in pink taffeta with matching accessories. Philanopsis orchids were corsages for both mothers.

Mrs. Dianna Streit was the organist and Ruby Bristo, the soloist.

A reception at the Oakland City Ballroom of the Oakland Auditorium followed the church ceremony.

The newlyweds are at home in Oakland after their honeymoon trip to Northern California. The new Mrs. Stephens is employed in Hayward and her husband will attend Oakland City College.

Tech-Mates Plan For Year Anniversary Is Celebrated

The newly elected officers of Tech-Mates, the Oregon Tech student wives' organization and their advisers met Wednesday night, Jan. 11, at the home of Mrs. Virginia Madsen to plan their program for the coming year. The organization, with a potential of approximately 200 members, has as their objective the promotion of the spirit of friendship and good will and neighborly feeling among the students and their families. The executive group said that one of their primary goals was to plan ways to have fun without spending much money.

Scheduled for programs in the near future are a games party, program for a hair stylist, and a valentine party.

The group meets on first and third Wednesdays. It is an interesting sidelight that Mrs. Lloyd Olson, a faculty wife who is presently an adviser to the group, was once a member of the organization when her husband was a student on the campus.

TRAVELERS FETED

MOUNT SHASTA—Mrs. Annie Sheldon and Mrs. Bertha Brown, who toured the Hawaiian Islands last fall, were feted at a reception Jan. 19 at the Wagon Wheel Club. Mrs. Rose Kennedy was in charge of arrangements which were all made using the theme of the Islands. Hawaiian music was also played during the evening.

McCLOUD — Mr. and Mrs. James Colombero entertained on New Year's Eve in honor of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Caswell, who celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

Open house was from 5 to 7 p.m., followed by dinner served to Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tolosano of Millbrae, Mr. and Mrs. Dom Sirianni of Dunsmuir, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Frost of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Dais of Yreka, Jerry Caswell, the honoree and the host and hostess.

After dinner, the cake decorated in white and silver with doves was cut by the couple and served with coffee.

FASHIONS FIRST FOR OREGON'S FIRST LADY

How does a governor's lady dress the part, when she also happens to be a busy young mother, a three-meals-a-day housewife and the state's official hostess in the bargain? To find the answers to this complicated fashion question, the editors of Glamour Magazine on a 13-city fashion junket recently traveled to Salem for a day with pretty Mrs. Mark Hatfield, starred in the coming all-American February issue.

Aux. Holds Installation

DUNSMUIR — Gowned in a blue formal against a background of blue decorations, Carole Livingston accepted the obligations of office as president of the Mrs. J. A. Fillmore Division of the Grand International Auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at installation ceremonies at the Dunsmuir Masonic Temple on the evening of Jan. 7.

Just before her installation she received a bouquet of flowers from her young daughter, Teri, who was also dressed in blue for the occasion. The flowers were a gift from the new president's husband.

Her corps of officers are Mildred Chiles, vice president; Phyllis Ingersoll, guide; Opal Morgan, sentinel; Helen Eachus, treasurer; Carol McMillan, relief secretary; Alleene Lovelle, secretary; Betty Wendell, past president; Grace Livingston, chaplain; Jessie Herrin, musician; Amelia Ahl, flag bearer; Signe Ahlstrom, star marshal; Ethel Cahow, crescent marshal; Frances Home r Elizabeth Shoupe, Rita Langrehr and Wanda Young, the four pillars.

The Glamour editors agreed with her own choice and love of blue, bronze and green. Her wardrobe, chosen for simple lines and containing little or no black (except in black, black-brown or putty color accessories), is equally right in small town or big city settings and correctly on the quiet side. Example: a three piece spring suit she wears in the magazine feature consists of a classic cardigan, hipbone jacket, a pleated skirt and the new sleeveless matching top worn beneath the jacket.

Tiny dancers from Margaret Periera's dance school provided a program of three numbers as an entertainment feature. The serving of refreshments concluded the evening's festivities.

"Good Luck, Carole!" was emblazoned across the backdrop behind the president's station and pink carnations were arranged in bouquets about the room.

After dinner, the cake decorated in white and silver with doves was cut by the couple and served with coffee.

THE "AT HOME" look for Oregon's charming First Lady is bright and casual. Shown above at her desk in the Governor's Mansion in Salem, Mrs. Mark Hatfield was selected by the visiting editors of Glamour Magazine to feature in the coming all-American February issue. Her costume is one of her colorful knits, a first in fashion, casual spring cardigan worn with a gentled skirt.

Bridge Winners

Thirteen tables were in play at the Thursday, Jan. 12, open pairs duplicate bridge two-session tournament at the Klamath Falls City Library.

First overall score was held by Mrs. Leona Robertson and Mrs. Lloyd Goble. Mrs. Emil Albrecht and Mrs. Gertrude Toile were second; Mrs. Lena Smith and Mrs. William Groves, third; Frank Ricky and George McClary, fourth; Mrs. Lois Serruys and Mrs. Harold Cloake, fifth, and Mrs. J. L. Calhoun and Mrs. J. S. Stilwell, sixth.

At the Tuesday morning, Jan. 17, masterpoint open 10 tables were in play.

Four players tied for first and second places in the north-south position. They were Mrs. Lena Smith and Mrs. Lloyd Goble and Mrs. Frank Ricky and Mrs. Claire Ellis. Third place went to Mrs. Harold Cloake and Mrs. George Myers and fourth to Mrs. E. C. Lemler and Mrs. William Cunningham.

In the east-west position a tie resulted for first and second place, also, between Mrs. F. W. Hyde and Mrs. Robert Chilcote and Mrs. Warren Bennet and Mrs. Frank Tarr. Mrs. Charles Ramp and Mrs. N. J. Rosenbaum were third, and Mrs. J. L. Calhoun and Mrs. J. S. Stilwell, fourth.

CDA Slates Potluck Date

The annual potluck dinner of the Catholic Daughters is scheduled for Monday, Jan. 23, 6:30, in the Sacred Heart Parish Hall. Mrs. Vincent Herlihy and Mrs. Julian Abbott, co-chairmen of the event, announced.

All Catholic Daughter members are invited to bring husbands or guests. The group will furnish rolls, butter and coffee, and the couples are asked to bring a hot dish, salad or a dessert.

Following dinner, cards of choice will be played, with prizes for the competitors.

Further information may be had by contacting either of the co-chairmen.

"Adopted Child" Writes To Club

YREKA—Highlighting the luncheon meeting of the Yreka Rotary was the reading of a letter from their recently "adopted" daughter in Italy.

Mrs. Floyd Dill, president, conducted the session held Monday in the Empire Room.

The letter from Elisa Galana was read by Mrs. Lynn Cecil. The club had recently "adopted" the little girl through the foster parents plan. The letter was received in its original Italian, accompanied by one translated into English.

The little girl told that she had received her first month's financial aid and also a box of supplies.

The Yreka club sends at least one letter and one package each month in addition to the package sent through the Foster Parents Aid Plan.

MALIN—Prosperity Chapter No. 160 OES met Thursday, Jan. 12, at the Masonic Temple with Frances and Louis Kalina, worthy matron and patron presiding in the east.

Introduced and escorted to the east were Mildred Brattain, member of the Home Endowment Fund Committee of the Grand Chapter of Oregon; Georgiana Clark, grand representative to Washington; Lorene McCollum, worthy matron of Manzanita Chapter No. 172; Helen and Burton DeGraw, worthy matron and patron, Tule Lake Chapter No. 539.

Under good of the order the visiting Master Masons were honored with an addendum, "The Tie That Binds." Each was presented with a blue bow tie stenciled with the Masonic emblem.

The Masons were instructed to wear these ties to serve at the guinea dinner. The worthy patron on chifon cake, too.

presented each with a Masonic coin.

A "Welcome to Mildred" was presented by the star point officers, conductress and associate conductress, after which Mildred Brattain gave a very interesting report on the Masonic and Eastern Star Home at Forest Grove. Paul Brattain, associate patron of Fremont Chapter, Paisley, was introduced.

The dining room was cleverly decorated in a winter wonderland theme by the committee. Gladys Halousek, Barbara Victorin and Florence DeMerritt. Assisting with the serving and dish washing were Charles Hale, Joe Halousek and Bob Victorin.

Any malted milk powder in the house? It's delicious added to a chocolate butter frosting for sponge or angelfood cake. Good guinea dinner. The worthy patron on chifon cake, too.

Lions Auxiliary Hears Travelogue

Mrs. Elmer Harnden entertained the Klamath Falls Lions Auxiliary members with a delightful travelogue of her recent visit to the Orient. The group met Monday, Jan. 9, at the home of Mrs. E. L. Miner, who was assisted by Mrs. Vic Samples, Mrs. Roy Lien and Mrs. Hal Schilder.

Special prizes were received by Mrs. Ed Robinson and Mrs. Estin Kiger.

Mrs. Robert Garrison was presented a gift for her new son. Several coffees and a card party are scheduled as money raising projects for this spring.

The annual sweetheart party given by the auxiliary members for their husbands will be Monday evening, Feb. 17, at the Yacht Club. All members will be called at a later date regarding this affair.

There are only 107,000 inhabitants in the 70,800 square miles of territory that make up Alaska.
