When It Comes To Gobbledygook, Government Experts Are Second

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Mathematical Society is meeting here this week to hash over such matters as the "lattice isomorphisms of finite non-abelian groups of exponent P."

This sounded like fun, so I beat it over to the society's headquarters to see if I could horn in on the festivities.

I have a keen interest in mathematics because I use it a lot in making out expense accounts. People who make out an expense account automatically qualify as theoretical mathematicians.

At times, their mathematics may even become hypothetical.

It wasn't, however, my professional interest that attracted me to the society's meeting. What drew me into this circle of heavy thinkers was my deep-seated fascination with doubletalk.

Having spent a number of years here in the center of bureaucracy, I thought I had seen some real experts in the field of linguistic density, which the layman knows as 'gobbledygook."

Cites Some Specimens

But let me tell you that our government officials are raw amateurs compared to those mathematicians when it comes to making themselves incomprehensible.

Consider, if you please, some of the specimens I collected while browsing through the society's program:

"The parallelizability of solv-manifolds. . .grunsky inequalities and coefficients of bounded schlicht functions. . coboundary operators on the ring of alternating tensors on a manifold. . .analysis of the bi-stable oscillations in the parametrong by Lyapunov's method."

It will, I predict, be many years before any bureaucrat is able to achieve a protective coloration as thick as that. The mathematicians, it would seem, have devised a perfect way of keeping us from knowing what they are up to.

Later, however, I learned that this was not the intended effect. Actually, the society is eager to communicate with the public and would like to find some method of getting its message across to us.

Blackjack Only Hope

I attended a lunch at which several society officials discussed this problem with a group of reporters. I could understand their yearning to establish contact with the outside world, but that was about all I could understand.

Despite their efforts to simplify things for us, I was forced to conclude that mathematicians are doomed to spend their lives in exclusive conversation with other mathematicians.

The only hope for enlightenment I can see lies in a talk to be given Thursday by Dr. Edward O. Thorp of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. His topic will be "Fortune's Formula: The Game of Blackjack."

I was told that Thorp has figured out a surefire way to win at blackjack. If so, I plan to invite some neighbors to my house Thursday night for a lesson in applied mathematics.

FOREST GROVE (AP) — The National Association of College and Research Libraries Saturday announced an award of $1,000 to Pacific University.

Donnybrook Expected In Election

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Everyone expected a donnybrook in New Jersey's election for governor this year. With the election still more than nine months away, all advance notices have been more than fulfilled.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner, a Democrat, is finishing his second four-year term and is constitutionally barred from running again. A herd of candidates, announced and unannounced, already is in pursuit of the right to take the oath of office Jan. 16, 1962.

On the Republican side, the entry of James P. Mitchell, who was President Eisenhower's secretary of labor, has stirred a bitter fight.

Three state senators already were in the race when Mitchell entered a week ago. Most of the Republican majority in the State Senate has formed a loose alliance against Mitchell.

On the Democratic side, Meyner and party leaders talk of anywhere from 20 to 30 candidates, depending on how good their memories are on a given day.

Rep. Frank Thompson Jr. of Trenton, a close friend of President Kennedy, and State Sen. Donal C. Fox of Essex County, largest in the state, have popped up as those mentioned most frequently.

Mitchell's entry into the Republican primary represents a drive by U.S. Sen. Clifford P. Case to provide state leadership for the GOP, something the party has had difficulty locating since Meyner ended a long Republican reign in 1953.

State Sen. Walter H. Jones, head of the Bergen County organization renowned for big Republican pluralities, was considered a substantial favorite until Mitchell's entry. State Sens. Wayne Dumont Jr. and Charles W. Sandman, both representatives of small rural counties, were in the race but had nothing like Jones' organizational head start.

Some Democrats figure that if they cannot begin to get organized soon, Kennedy may take a hand. The sight of what a Washington-Trenton split did to the Republicans has made some of the Democrats more amenable to working out their own problems.

Confidence In Trains Is Shaken

TOKYO (AP) — If anything is certain in Japan, the Japanese will tell you, it is death, taxes and the national railway schedule.

But this country's confidence in both the punctuality and safety of its trains has taken a beating lately.

The causes are the severest Japanese winter in 15 years and a rash of crossing collisions.

Newspapers are filled with comment and expressions of concern.

"It had been generally thought that riding in electric trains and cars was safe and that automobiles was dangerous, but recent events have shown this is not necessarily so," said Japan's largest newspaper, Asahi.

This was after five serious crossing smashups in four days killed 9 persons and injured 150 train passengers.

On the subject of late trains, the newspaper said "Japan National Railways schedules, which were considered the most accurate in the world, have certainly fallen."

A familiar sight at the railway stations these winter mornings is the issuance of "tardy certificates" — slips of paper from the stationmaster which wage earners use as excuses for being late to work.

The national railways is rushing development of faster and more powerful rotary snowplows to cope with blizzards that stalled about 150 trains over the New Year's holiday.

But in Tokyo, where it is chilly but seldom snows, the problems are more complex than clearing snow.

On recent cold mornings, 10 of every 30 Tokyo rush-hour commuter trains were canceled when operations fell hopelessly behind schedule. The reason was crowding at stations and loading delays.

Rush hour congestion is aggravated these cold days by commuters lingering under warm covers until the last possible moment —then rushing to the station at the same time and trying to crowd aboard the same train, a spokesman said.

To make matters worse, the spokesman said, bulky winter overcoats have reduced passenger capacity by 20 per cent.

To cut loading delays, 450 schoolboys have been hired to push passengers through train doors.

The earth takes about one-thousandth of a second longer to rotate around its axis today than it did three years ago.

State Land Board Defends Position

SALEM (AP)—Members of the state Land Board Monday defended the investment of $3 million in federal government bonds, which drew criticism Friday from Rep. Clarence Barton, D-Coquille.

Barton said the money should have been invested in real estate loans at 5½ per cent interest instead of in the bonds which bring only 3 per cent.

State Treasurer Howard Belton said that the interest on mortgage loans is not all clear profit, but includes a considerable overhead expense.

He said it costs money to keep appraisers on the road to check the property and to see that taxes are paid.

Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, chairman of the board, said that "if we didn't have this money in government bonds it would be in our vaults."

Belton said the money is invested in short term bonds, some for only a few weeks.

Members of the Land Board agreed with Barton's suggestion that the percentage of the value of land on which money could be loaned should be increased.

The Land Board is allowed to loan up to 50 per cent on land and 50 per cent on buildings within a city.

Hatfield suggested that this should be liberalized to allow loans on suburban property. He pointed specifically to the Portland West Hills area as a place outside city limits where loans should be allowed.

Belton said he would favor increasing the percentage of value on which loans could be made to 60 per cent. He said he would favor 65 per cent only if appraisals were conservative.

Barton had suggested the 65 per cent figure.

Edgar Pierce, secretary of the Land Board, said the board had never lost a penny on a loan since he had been secretary. He said he opposed going over 60 per cent because it would increase the risk.

The board approved draft legislation that would allow International Pulp & Paper Co. to run a waste pipeline out to sea across state beach land near Gardiner.

Another draft proposal approved would permit the company to raise the level of waters of Siltcoos and Tahkenitch lakes over state tide and overflow lands.

The company had requested authority for both actions in connection with the planned construction of a paper mill in the area, north of Reedsport.

The state Board of Control this morning agreed to have a block near the Labor and Industries Building in the Capitol Mall area in Salem cleared as a parking lot. This would help alleviate a parking problem at the Capitol.

Gets Life Term

MEDFORD (AP) — A plea of guilty to second degree murder brought a life sentence Monday to Keith Duane Adams, 32, who killed his ex-wife at her home last August, three days after she divorced him.

Adams had been charged with first degree murder and his trial was to have started Monday.

Instead, his attorney asked that the charge be reduced, to eliminate the possibility of capital punishment. Circuit Judge James M. Main approved this and Adams then pleaded guilty.

Robert R. Dickey, Adams' attorney, had told the court that a trial for first degree murder would probably result in a recommendation from the jury which would eliminate the death penalty, so the plea would result in the same penalty without necessity for a trial.

Sentence was pronounced immediately after the plea.

Sentenced

GRANTS PASS (AP) — O. H. Bengtson, Medford lawyer, was sentenced just before noon Monday by Circuit Judge Orval M. Millard to serve two years in the state penitentiary for larceny by embezzlement.

He was convicted Jan. 13 by a Josephine County Circuit Court jury of embezzling $1,700 of the funds of Medford Escow Co., about Feb. 2, 1960. Bengtson was secretary of the firm at that time.

The new sentence is to run consecutively to one of three years, imposed when Bengtson was convicted on a similar charge in Jackson County Circuit Court in October, 1960.

Boy Wounded

LEBANON, Ore. (AP) — A 16-year-old boy was wounded twice while hunting rabbits along the Santiam River east of here Sunday.

Brian Donald McEdowney said the bullets apparently came from other hunters or target shooters in the vicinity.

The boy said he used his rifle as a crutch in the hour it took him to walk to the Calvin Mason home for help.

One bullet pierced the calf of his left leg, the other grazed his hip. After surgery at the Lebanon Community Hospital, he was released.

Green To Speak

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., will be one of the featured speakers at the American Baptist Convention here Tuesday through Thursday.

About 1,500 delegates are expected. Other speakers will include the Rev. Paul Albrecht of Geneva, Switzerland, of the World Council of Churches, and David R. Meade, religion editor of the Chicago Daily News.

Flames Sweep News Plant

PORTLAND (AP) — Flames Sunday swept through the Clarke Publishing Co., the plant where 13 Portland shopping newspapers are printed.

The flames did not destroy the plant, but business manager Reginald Knutson said damage would run to several hundred thousand dollars.

Owner Leslie F. Clarke said other printing companies would take on some of the production until repairs are made.

Glenn Richards, fire investigator, said the cause of the fire was not determined at once. He said the flames apparently originated in a room for salesmen.

Two firemen suffered minor injuries in fighting the flames, which broke out shortly before dawn. The plant is located at NW 14th Ave. and Glisan St.

State Welfare Eyes Surpluses

PORTLAND (AP) — President Kennedy's order providing more and better food to needy persons from stockpiled surpluses will be considered by Oregon's Public Welfare Commission.

Joseph W. Harvey Jr., chairman of the commission, said that Gov. Hatfield recently ordered the commission to look into the possibility of using federal surplus food. Harvey said that county courts throughout the state had decided not to take advantage of the earlier program because distribution costs equaled the value of the food.

Harvey said that increase supplies and better food, which Kennedy has ordered to be made available, may change the picture in Oregon.

Shea Mass Set

PORTLAND (AP) — Requiem mass will be said Wednesday for Tom E. Shea, 61, former editor of the Portland News-Telegram.

He died Sunday after a long illness.

Shea, who was editor of the newspaper from 1933 until it ceased publication in 1939, started his newspaper career in his home town of Astoria. He came to Portland in 1922 to the Telegram, which later merged with the News.

In recent years Shea had been in public relations and business management. He leaves a widow, two daughters, a son, two brothers and six sisters.

Hits 100 Mark

PORTLAND (AP) — Mrs. Gertrude Decker White observed her 100th birthday Sunday.

The former Pendleton woman, who has been in a convalescent hospital since 1951, stepped from her wheel chair and crossed a room to preside at the cutting of her birthday cake.

A native of New York, she went to Pendleton in 1887 and came to Portland two years later. She is the widow of L. Ward White.

Idahoan Killed

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — An automobile heading east toward Ontario from Vale slammed into another eastbound car just ahead of it early Monday, killing an Idaho man.

It was the driver of the car that struck the rear of the other who was killed. He was Charles A. Hanson, 37, Council, Idaho.

State police said it was foggy, but there was no indication whether this was a factor in the accident.

Hanson's car, after hitting the other, left the highway and struck a telephone pole. The other car overturned. Its driver, John William DeBoer, about 25, Ontario, was unhurt. His passengers, Beverly L. Eckley and Grace Emma Supan, both New Plymouth, Idaho, were released from a hospital after examination.

Skiing Victim

BEND, Ore. (AP) — A University of Oregon student suffered fatal injuries Saturday when he crashed into a tree while skiing.

The victim was Nicholas Dan Utt, 23, whose home was at Belvedere, Calif.

Death apparently was due to a skull fracture and chest injuries.

Dr. Harry Cloyd, a psychiatrist at the Oregon State Hospital, performed an emergency tracheotomy on Utt as he was being moved by truck from the Hoodoo Bowl ski resort area to a hospital at Bend.

Dr. Cloyd said Utt suddenly stopped breathing. The doctor said he used his penknife to open the windpipe in an effort to permit Utt to breathe.

Dr. Dean K. Brooks, the superintendent of the state hospital, gave first aid to Utt at the accident scene. Both doctors had been skiing at the resort.

Utt was dead on arrival at the Bend hospital.

To Celebrate

ASTORIA (AP) — Lord John Jacob Astor of London plans to bring his family to Astoria April 12 to help celebrate the 150th anniversary of the city's founding by his great grandfather, John Jacob Astor.

Astoria Mayor Harry Steinbock said that Lord Astor had written him saying that he, his wife, their son and two grandchildren will arrive in Oregon April 10. They will leave Astoria April 14 for San Francisco to visit friends before returning to London.

Lord Astor is chairman of the board of the London Times.

More than 10 million parakeets are owned by seven million families in the United States.
