Student Council members were called together last Thursday after school for a meeting to hear Principal Willard McKinney give the faculty's recommended rules for the regulation and supervision of student activities next year.

His report read, "In order to strengthen the activity program, to help students achieve social values and balance, to retain high academic achievement as a prime factor, to keep health and welfare of students uppermost, to ease the scheduling of activities, and to give students leadership and citizenship training opportunities, the faculty and administration have adopted the following recommendations:

1. That a student be allowed to hold one major office such as president, vice president, secretary or treasurer.
2. That a student who carries six subjects be limited to membership in three clubs or organizations. (Membership in clubs is exclusive of Girls' League or Boys' Alliance).
3. That a student who carries five subjects be limited to membership in four clubs.
4. That a student be required to petition to his class counselor if he wishes to carry an activity load beyond the recommended one.
5. That meetings and activities be scheduled according to categories.
6. That a fall leadership training conference be held for three days of the week prior to in-service week for elected officers of all clubs.

The reasons why the recommendations are being made is because the faculty and administration feels that too few students are participating in the activity program and that a few students are being called on to do all the work. They also believe that there are many able students who are capable of handling such assignments and with some limiting procedures these students will have more opportunities.

The faculty and administration have noted, they said, that some students are over-participating and in some instances holding major offices or the same job in more than one club or activity. "In many cases this over-participation has affected a student's academic achievement, his health, and his activity proficiency. It is believed something should be done to help correct this situation."
