PORTLAND (AP)—A man shot and killed himself here Tuesday night, police said, when he was tracked down by Multnomah County deputies after sexually assaulting a northeast Portland housewife. Sheriff's Capt. Gordon Auburn said detectives are investigating a report that Dean Leon Gleaves, the dead man, who had a long criminal record, had bragged he was responsible for the double murder last Nov. 27 of Larry Ralph Peyton and Bevelly Ann Allan, both 19. Those slayings are unsolved. Police said Gleaves put a single bullet from a .22-caliber pistol through his head after fleeing the home of friends where he had forced the 20-year-old woman to submit to a sexual assault at gunpoint. The victims were reported to have said that Gleaves boasted before the attack that he had killed two teen-agers here. Auburn said of this possibility: "It doesn't look good at the moment." He would not comment further. Investigating officers said the victims told them Gleaves had taken the pistol, belonging to his host, loaded it, and forced the husband to lie on the floor in the bedroom. He then forced the wife to submit to unnatural acts, deputies said. He was spotted a short distance away about 20 minutes after the attack, detectives said. When or-

Divisional Salvation Army Leader Speaks On Youth

Lt. Col. John Erickson, divisional commander of the Oregon and Southern Idaho Division of the Salvation Army, present for the annual report dinner meeting of the local Army. Tuesday night spoke on "Youth Rebellion."

The meeting at the Winema Hotel included naming of four new directors to the 21-man board. T. A. Derment, board chairman, presided.

The speaker based his subject on the principle that religion is primarily a youth movement, and that young people of today rebel against religion's teachings because adults and parents are failing to place emphasis on need for religion in the lives of the young.

As a remedy, the officer suggested, churches should assume their proper perspective in the community and parents should re-evaluate their own outlook to and approach religious faith.

Three Klamath Falls men were named today to the 15-member advisory board of the Medford District of the Bureau of Land Management. James F. Doyle, area administrator, Portland, today released the list of the new board which includes the names of Ned S. Putnam, 2742 Homedale Road; Vincent Bousquet, Weyerhaeuser Company, and H. E. Geiger, president, Klamath Basin District Council No. 6 (IWA-CIO). Putnam and Bousquet will represent timber and Geiger, labor. The advisory board meets quarterly in Medford to discuss problems regarding the timber industry, recreation, public, grazing or other problems confronting the Bureau of Land Management in the Medford district. The advice of this group is sought by the bureau prior to proceeding on a great number of activities. The appointments are for a one-year period, subject to reappointment. Geiger's appointment is a renewal, but that of Putnam and Bousquet is a first-time matter. Putnam termed the appointment "quite an honor" and said he felt it gave him an opportunity to be of service to the timber interests in the affairs of the BLM. Other members of the advisory board are Eric Allen Jr., Medford; Donald R. Barker, Grants Pass; F. I. Bristol, Rogue River; Warren J. Davis, Medford; Henry DeVoss, Talent; Glenn Jackson, Medford; Raymond A. Lathrop, Grants Pass; Tom Melh Jr., Glendale; Robert E. Miller, Ashland; B. L. Weather Station Discussed

A United States Weather Bureau station may be in the offing for the Klamath Falls Municipal Airport, County Judge R. R. (Bob) Walker said Wednesday. Walker said he talked to Oregon Representative Al Ullman and officials of the Weather Bureau on his recent trip to Washington, D.C., for the inauguration. Ullman, a member of the House Weather Committee, has agreed to work on the project. "We need accurate weather information in this area," Walker said. "Besides flyers, farmers and lumbermen need meteorological data." He said the nearest weather station is in Medford, which is 3,000 feet lower than Klamath Falls. The county court will submit information showing the need for a weather station and Ullman is expected to call a committee meeting next week.

KENO—Mrs. J. O. Hopkins was so pleased with the honesty displayed Tuesday by an Oregon Technical Institute student that she wanted others to know of it. Mrs. Hopkins said she lost her billfold containing money and valuable papers in the parking lot of a local grocery store Tuesday. She said she received a call from Melvin Gruell, a second-term electronics student, informing her that he had found the billfold.

Accident May Bring Charges

A Portland man faces a possible charge of failure to yield right of way as a result of a Tuesday evening collision at the corner of South Sixth Street and Homedale Road. Vernon Neil Reitan, 30, 3535 Homedale Road, said he would sign a complaint against Laurel Edwin Kurth, 39, Portland, after he accused Kurth of pulling out in front of him and causing an accident. There were no injuries. Reitan's car was towed from the scene.

State police investigated the accident. City police received the following reports: The managers of Safeway Store, 211 North Eighth Street, and Market Basket, 122 North Ninth Street, said they accepted $30 bad checks last week from a husband-wife check passing team. The woman gave her name as Lillian E. Pasbrig and the man, who wrote the checks, gave his name as LeRoy E. Pasbrig. He listed 303 South Fifth Street as an address. Detectives said the pair has written a string of worthless checks. Lawrence Ewert, 3875 Barry Street, said someone took his wife's black patent leather purse from their car, which was parked in front of Wong's Cafe, 421 Main Street. The purse contained credit cards, identification, house keys and $1.

Marion Wirth, 1575 California Avenue, told police that she lost some keys in a small blue leather case. Some men came to her door and asked for food, Blanche Richardson, 225 South Fifth Street, reported.

Jaywalkers face a tough future in the city of Klamath Falls. The City Council turned its attention to this problem at its regular meeting Monday night and instructed the city attorney to draft a new ordinance which would give the police department greater power of enforcement. Meanwhile, the council expressed concern over the possibility that unnecessary injuries or loss of life may occur because of individuals jaywalking on busy streets. They urged the public to cooperate voluntarily by observing use of traffic lanes and walk signals. A letter was read from Safeway Stores, Portland, in reference to that firm's plans to build a new store on Ninth Street between Pine and High streets and demolish their present structure on Eighth Street, converting its location and adjacent areas to parking space. The council earlier had granted the company a slight off-street parking variance. The company pointed out that while they had an option to all the property involved in the reconstruction, one parcel had a lease that did not expire until June 2, 1962, and there was some question as to whether they would be able to gain control of the property prior to that time. The council expressed an opinion that since Safeway had approved this of the problem, they would not hold the company in violation of off-street parking requirements until the expiration date of the lease. Safeway said they anticipate construction of the new building to start about the middle of the summer and after the new structure is completed, the old building will be torn down and made into a parking lot. A new area was moved into first district number two, which has a stiffer requirement for such items as structural material and wiring. The area is bounded by Washburn Way, Shasta Way, South Sixth and Austin streets. Part of this area now contains Rickfall's apartments and other high value structures, with more commercial structures planned for the area. A paving project for this area was also given the go-ahead at the council session. A single bid to pave Pershing Way from Washburn Way to Avalon and north from Pershing Way a distance of 160 feet was submitted by Asinghill Paving Company. The bid was for $25,124.60 which was also.

Will Resign

PORTLAND (AP) — Piero Bellugi is resigning effective April 30 as conductor of the Portland Symphony. In making the announcement Tuesday Mrs. Walter McConies, Symphony Society president, said engagements Bellugi has accepted in Europe will keep him away from Portland during the symphony season. He has been conductor of the Portland orchestra two seasons.

Frank R. Weaver, owner of cabins adjacent to Portland Street, appeared before the council to complain of condemnation proceedings against several of his cabins. Weaver complained that the culverts carrying the water adjacent to his property were not at proper grade. It was agreed that the capacity of the culverts was more than adequate, but maintained that the grade was not correct. City Manager G. S. Vergeer was authorized to check levels on invert and discharge levels of culverts at Portland Street and where it empties into the canal. Don Sloan, local realtor, appeared to ask the council for a continuance of two ordinances which would vacate a portion of Peach Street in Eldorado Addition, and would rezone an area in that vicinity. The council, however, determined that such ordinances, which were given first and second readings about a year ago, had been too long pending to be representative of any plans that might be in the making for the area. The council also said very little in re-instituting such actions when re-evaluations warrant them. Therefore, the council moved to do away with the original ordinances. In other action, resolutions were adopted setting Monday, Feb. 13, as a hearing date for a portion of the condemnation proceedings against unsafe or hazardous buildings. Those to be heard at that date are the east and west half of lot 7, block 12, Buena Vista Addition, lot 6, block 12, Buena Vista, and lots 1 and 2, block 4, Industrial Addition. The other properties to be condemned will be heard at a later date. Reverse parking was authorized in the 300 block of North Third Street. A request for all-day parking at 1206 Monclair was denied by the council, while pointing out that the area has been zoned for two-hour parking limitations. Another request for parking between the curb and the sidewalk at 1211 Crescent was denied as was for $25,124.60 which was also.
