

Weight Gain Is Natural

By ANN LANDERS
Dear Ann Landers: That letter from Francine was absurd. It just isn't true that a woman has to look like a blimp because she's pregnant. I gained nine pounds with my last baby. Two days before I went to the hospital I met a friend on the street and she asked me if I had a boy or a girl. She was flabbergasted when I told her I was due to go to the hospital any day.

Some pregnant women think they can eat for two and get away with it. No wonder they look like blimps. I've had two children and have never worn maternity clothes. So you see — it can be done.—SAME SIZE

Dear Same Size: Yes—it can be done, but I'd hate to leave the impression that anyone who wants to can (or should) do it. Most obstetricians want their patients to gain between 15 and 18 pounds, depending on starting weight and general physical condition.

(P.S. I'll bet your women friends hate you!!!)

Dear Ann Landers: We have four children and they are well.

COMPLETE! INTACT! NOW EVERYONE CAN SEE The Great Entertainment Show AT POPULAR PRICES! COMING SOON!

FRANK SINATRA SHIRLEY MAZEL McLAINE CHEVALIER LOUIS JOURDAN

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

EMERALD JULIET PROWSE

College Campus Move Consideration Urged

SALEM (AP)—The Senate Ways and Means Committee was urged Wednesday to consider moving Portland State College from its present location to a site in a Portland urban renewal area.

Sen. Walter Pearson, D-Portland, made the suggestion to Sen. Dan Thiel, D-Astoria, at a meeting of the Senate State and Federal Affairs Committee.

Pearson said there is inadequate parking area at the present campus.

He said that it might be possible to obtain the federal land cheaply and then sell the present campus.

Pearson said the state might lose up to 50 per cent of the cost of buildings already built, but he said this would be little compared to expansion costs in the future.

Pearson said he initially voted against the bill establishing Portland State because it specified the present site. He said he felt Oregon and Oregon State College put that in to keep the college small.

But, Pearson said, eventually something must be done and the cost of moving now is far cheaper.

He said he had talked about this with Dr. Bradford P. Millar, President of Portland State College, and that Millar thought it should be explored.

The urban renewal project is south of the Portland City Auditorium.

Pearson said the students were expected initially also to use public transportation to get to school, but that they all bring their cars and this has caused a severe parking problem.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dear Ann Landers: Gregory gave me an engagement ring after five years of steady courtship. He asked me not to wear it "for awhile" because he had been going with another woman for quite some time and wanted to break off with her gradually.

I kept the ring in the drawer for six months then told him if he didn't want me to wear it I wanted to give it back. He said O.K. and took the ring. Last night he told me he had given the ring to the other woman as a birthday gift. He emphasized it was only because he didn't want to spend any money on a present and he hoped I would understand. He begged me to be patient and to trust him.

I've cut myself off from all male companions and I'd be terribly alone if I broke off with him. Advise me.—GRISELDA

Dear Griseida: Wake up and smell the coffee—you're alone now. This man has been working both sides of the street and you would be a fool to believe anything he said. Give him the heave ho.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Walker Reports Inaugural Was Like Stampede

The inauguration of President John F. Kennedy last week was a combination of a Hollywood spectacular and an elephant stampede, according to Klamath County Judge R. R. (Bob) Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker flew to Washington, D.C., last week with Mr. and Mrs. Ned Putnam to attend the festivities. Walker said it was "quite a show," but he wound up standing on a table at the Inauguration Ball to avoid being trampled.

Walker said he had a good seat for the official inauguration ceremony, but near-zero temperatures and 30-mile-an-hour winds drove him inside to a television set to watch the subsequent parade.

The ball at the Sheraton-Park Hotel was attended by a mere 9,000 people, Walker said.

"I did better than most of the people," Walker said. "My wife and I actually danced four times." He finally climbed on a table to "keep from being crushed" while Mrs. Walker defended her ball gown from the siletto heels of other lady guests.

Fifty boxes of Klamath Gem potatoes, which preceded Walker to Washington, will be served in the Congressional restaurant at lunch Friday, Walker said. Gift packages were presented to many government officials, including President Kennedy.

The county judge seemed glad to return to the relative peace and quiet of the Klamath Basin.

SALEM (AP)—A memorial asking President Kennedy and Congress to cancel the deportation order of William Mackie and Hamish Scott MacKay was introduced in the legislature today by Sen. Thomas R. Mahoney, D-Portland. Mackie was deported to Finland and MacKay to Canada.

The government said they had subversive records, but the Mahoney memorial says that they are not a danger to the United States.

Mahoney asks Kennedy and Congress to support the bill by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to cancel the deportation order, and thus bring them back to this country.

Both lived in Portland and have relatives there.

SALEM (AP)—State Agriculture Director J. F. Short today voiced support for Gov. Mark O. Hatfield's plan to reorganize the state government.

The plan calls for making the Agriculture Department a division of a Department of Natural Resources.

He said he had talked about this with Dr. Bradford P. Millar, President of Portland State College, and that Millar thought it should be explored.

The urban renewal project is south of the Portland City Auditorium.

Pearson said the students were expected initially also to use public transportation to get to school, but that they all bring their cars and this has caused a severe parking problem.

SALEM (AP)—The Senate Commerce and Utilities Committee voted today to introduce a bill that would provide stiff penalties for fraudulently charging long distance calls to someone else.

The penalty would be a maximum of a year in jail and $1,000 fine. It also would apply to cases in which the phoner charges the call to non-existent credit cards.

It was introduced at the request of the telephone companies.

SALEM (AP)—Rep. Edward N. Fadeley, D-Eugene, today introduced a bill to purchase health, accident, life and disability insurance for state employees.

Fadeley said insurance benefits such as group insurance could be purchased at lower costs and at an income tax savings to the employees.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House had another new resident today—a cat of undetermined age and dubious background.

The latest addition to the executive mansion was introduced to the press Tuesday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, badgered for more news at his press conference, finally let the cat out of the bag by declaring that "Tom Kitten" had moved in.

Newsmen were not satisfied with just the facts: Tom is the pet of the Kennedys' daughter, Caroline, 3; he is gray with yellow eyes, of the alley variety and has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, Mrs. Kennedy's step-father and mother, in nearby McLean, Va.

Then Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, turned up with the cat. They were surrounded quickly by photographers.

The Kennedys have another pet, a Welsh terrier named Charlie, who has not moved into the White House.

Also still to move in are Caroline and her baby brother, John Jr., who are in Palm Beach, Fla.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has appointed Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Harvard University professor and historian of the New Deal, as a full-time special assistant.

Schlesinger was an adviser to Adlai E. Stevenson in his 1952 and 1956 presidential campaigns. He filled the same role for Kennedy in last fall's primary and presidential campaigns.

He will do a variety of White House jobs for Kennedy, press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen in announcing the naming of Schlesinger.

Salinger also announced the following further selections of officials in the new administration: Frank M. Coffin, former Democratic representative from Maine to be director of the Development Loan Fund, in the State Department.

James Harlan Cleveland of Syracuse, N. Y., to be assistant secretary of state for international organizations affairs.

George C. McGhee of Dallas, Tex., former ambassador to Turkey, and former assistant secretary of state, to be assistant secretary of state for policy planning.

William J. Crockett, now deputy assistant secretary of state for budget and finance, to be assistant secretary for administration.

Conrad L. Wirth, to continue as director of the National Park Service.

Carl T. Rowan, reporter for the Minneapolis Star and Tribune and former correspondent of the Baltimore Afro-American, to be deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs.

Carmine Bellino, certified public accountant who served as chief accountant to the Senate rackets investigating committee, to be special consultant to the President and to the budget director.

The White House said the State Department designations were made after consultation with Secretary of State Dean Rusk; that the reappointment of Wirth follows consultation with Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, and that Rusk will make the Rowan appointment with the concurrence of President Kennedy.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House had another new resident today—a cat of undetermined age and dubious background.

The latest addition to the executive mansion was introduced to the press Tuesday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, badgered for more news at his press conference, finally let the cat out of the bag by declaring that "Tom Kitten" had moved in.

Newsmen were not satisfied with just the facts: Tom is the pet of the Kennedys' daughter, Caroline, 3; he is gray with yellow eyes, of the alley variety and has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, Mrs. Kennedy's step-father and mother, in nearby McLean, Va.

Then Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, turned up with the cat. They were surrounded quickly by photographers.

The Kennedys have another pet, a Welsh terrier named Charlie, who has not moved into the White House.

Also still to move in are Caroline and her baby brother, John Jr., who are in Palm Beach, Fla.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House had another new resident today—a cat of undetermined age and dubious background.

The latest addition to the executive mansion was introduced to the press Tuesday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, badgered for more news at his press conference, finally let the cat out of the bag by declaring that "Tom Kitten" had moved in.

Newsmen were not satisfied with just the facts: Tom is the pet of the Kennedys' daughter, Caroline, 3; he is gray with yellow eyes, of the alley variety and has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, Mrs. Kennedy's step-father and mother, in nearby McLean, Va.

Then Pamela Turnure, Mrs. Kennedy's press secretary, turned up with the cat. They were surrounded quickly by photographers.

The Kennedys have another pet, a Welsh terrier named Charlie, who has not moved into the White House.

Also still to move in are Caroline and her baby brother, John Jr., who are in Palm Beach, Fla.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House had another new resident today—a cat of undetermined age and dubious background.

The latest addition to the executive mansion was introduced to the press Tuesday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, badgered for more news at his press conference, finally let the cat out of the bag by declaring that "Tom Kitten" had moved in.

Newsmen were not satisfied with just the facts: Tom is the pet of the Kennedys' daughter, Caroline, 3; he is gray with yellow eyes, of the alley variety and has been living at the home of