Drug Executive Slams Investigation

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The head of one of America's biggest prescription drug concerns said today a Senate committee investigation of his industry has created an atmosphere "which seems likely to delay the introduction of new and life-saving drugs."

Francis Boyer, board chairman of Smith Kline & French Laboratories, in a prepared speech to the 65th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Bar Association said a probe by a committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., is rather explosive and has been admired as a masterpiece of propaganda technique.

"If so many people weren't going to suffer from it," he added, "one would have to take his hat off to its sheer virtuosity."

Boyer said the real success of the Kefauver hearings "was in securing a series of carefully engineered, sensational headlines—that modern drugs are often fakes; that they were mostly invented by foreigners anyway, that they are sold by untruthful advertising; that they cost too much money, and that consequently our industry should be subject to vastly increased federal regulation."

The SKF chairman said during the third quarter of 1960 the federal Food and Drug Administration approved introduction of only five new drugs, compared with 17 for the similar 1959 period.

Whatever happens to the drug industry as a result of the investigations, Boyer said, "will pretty surely determine the kind of medical treatment you and your family are going to get in the years to come."

Hugh Bell, harness driver who paced the split Yonkers Raceway season with 75 winners in 1960, had 19 nights in which he won two races. He also had two triples.

GIANTS TO FACE YANKEES

NEW YORK (AP) — The San Francisco Giants and New York Yankees will meet in a charity exhibition game in Yankee Stadium Monday night, July 24. It will be their first meeting since the Giants moved west after the 1957 season. The Giants will be coming east from Cincinnati and then move to Pittsburgh after facing the Yankees.

FISH PROVED A STORY

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—Fishing with a friend, Mrs. R. M. Denison caught a large bass and hooked it on a line on the bank. Telling about it later she was unable to prove her story—the fish was gone. Two hours later her fishing partner, Mrs. James Curby, caught the same fish—line and all.

Trout flesh varies in color depending upon the kind of food the fish has eaten.

Rising Cost Of Living Sums Up Family Plight

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — President Kennedy today joins President Eisenhower in setting forth the State of the Union.

But for millions of Americans the state of the family's economy is pretty well summed up in another report: The rising cost of living.

And the slide rule boys, without much of a glance at world and domestic political turmoils, think that the outlook for the index of consumer prices is in for more of the same.

That is, still rising. Slowly, probably. But surely.

The family heads, furthermore, know that the index doesn't cover everything. There are other costs that keep going up. The cost of putting the children through school, for example. The cost now looming on the horizon of updating the womenfolk in line with the latest fashion news from Paris. The cost of many another on a long list of items that deal with status—in the neighborhood, at the office.

Maybe these don't belong in a factual index like the Bureau of Labor Statistics' one on consumer prices. This considers the things that the average middle-income family in cities buy.

The BLS changes the contents of the index from time to time, to keep up with changing consumer habits. But always there are those extras—the ones that the family income earner learns about quickly, even if the BLS doesn't.

Its index covers plenty of things, however. Almost all of them have gone up this past year. The BLS officials say price levels probably will go right on creeping higher this year, as they did last year.

You remember last year? That's the year the experts told you to stop worrying about inflation. It was a dead issue. In financial circles it was. But in family circles inflation usually means the cost of living, monetary experts to the contrary, notwithstanding.

The BLS index uses the 1947-49 average as a base of 100. It reports the December figure as 127.5. A year ago the index was 125.5.

Biggest gainer, both in 1960 and in the long haul since the 1947-49 era is medical care. It is now carried at 158.0, a really whopping rise. In 1960 it went up 4.8 from the 153.2 a year ago.

The next biggest advance over the stretch from the starting point is rent, now 142.8, and up 2.0 in the last year.

Food, however, is the biggest culprit of recent weeks. Much of the latest price rise is blamed on bad weather that sent up delivery costs and caused shortages. That part of the index is now 121.4, a gain of 3.6 in a year.

The BLS lists other year-to-year rises as follows: Gas and electricity, up 2.9; housing and recreation, each up 1.9; apparel, up 1.4.

Then we come to the heroes in the latest figures on the index, those that are lower than in December 1959.

Transportation is down by 2.2. Much of the drop is credited to the popularity of the compacts, which cost less to buy and to run. But the current index level of transportation is 146.5, second only to medical care in the increase over the 1947-49 base.

House furnishings are running 0.3 lower than the year ago figures, and their gain over the base year is the lowest in the index. They stand at 103.9.

Fuels other than gas and electricity also are 0.3 below the year ago index, but the latest reading is 137.0, while gas and electricity is 125.6.

What's likely to go up more?

Well, bad weather could keep food higher for a time, and this year's crops are still in the weatherman's hands.

As for the rest, there are the conflicting forces: Competition holding down prices of many goods, but warring with rising production costs. And there's still no sign that the cost of services has reached a peak.

Africa Aid Plan Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States announced Saturday plans for sending 150 young American teachers to help fill a critical teacher shortage in four east African lands.

The operation could work out as a pilot project for President Kennedy's much-discussed "youth corps."

The teachers will go to the territories of Kenya, Tanganyika, Uganda and Zanzibar, all of which are in process of attaining full independence from British rule.

"I'll road test them for nothing!"

Black Flu Kills 935 In Britain

LONDON (UPI) — The Health Ministry announced Saturday that "black flu" has killed 935 persons in Britain since Nov. 1, but a spokesman said British authorities don't consider the situation serious.

"We don't take this very seriously," the spokesman said. "We don't regard it as an epidemic. . . deaths are high anyhow at this time of year, and this flu isn't like smallpox or one of your big infection killers. . .

"We are taking no precautions, like mass inoculation, or closing schools and cinemas, and we see no reason for panic."

A health officer at the Port of London said precautions are being taken to prevent flu sufferers from entering Britain, but no restrictions are being placed on outgoing passengers to check the spread of the disease.

"There's really nothing we can do," he said. "We believe the New York port authorities are taking measures to keep the flu from entering the United States."

Although most of the deaths so far, 762 of which were reported this month alone, have occurred in northern England or Wales, authorities here anticipated an early spread of the disease to the London area.
