WALL STREET

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market took off for renewed gains in the wake of President Kennedy's State of the Union speech in heavy trading late this afternoon.

Volume for the day was estimated at 5.5 million shares compared with 4.5 million on Friday.

Gains of key stocks went from fraction to 2 or 3 points.

The aircraft-missile stocks were especially strong following Kennedy's order for strengthening of defenses. The gold mining shares backed away sharply in the wake of the President's statement that there would be no devaluation of the dollar.

Corporate bond prices pushed higher in moderately active trading. U.S. government bonds were narrowly irregular.

Legislature Studies

Goose Lake Problem

SALEM (AP) — Rep. Robert Smith, R-Burns, today introduced a bill which would empower the Oregon Water Resources Board to enter into a compact with California over the use of the waters of Goose Lake in Lake County.

Smith said that although the bill does not specifically mention Goose Lake "a problem which exists there now is the primary reason for introducing this bill."

He said the bill permits the board to cooperate with agencies of neighboring states and submitting to the legislature interstate compacts relative to the distribution and use of waters of interstate streams, lakes and tributaries.

Any such compact would require approval of the Oregon Legislature, those of any other state involved and Congress.

He said the California Legislature has before it a bill to create a five-member Goose Lake commission which would be empowered to cooperate with a similar Oregon commission.

The lake lies on the California-Oregon border and the Oregon portion of it is in Lake County.

Smith said Lake County residents are concerned about California pre-empting the waters of the lake if something is not done to solve the problem equitably.

PUC Commissioner Hits Duplication

By PAUL W. HARVEY JR. SALEM (AP) — Public Utility Commissioner Jonel C. Hill today urged the legislature to prevent extended competition involving private and public power, gas and telephone utilities.

He said his bill, endorsed by Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, would be a spur to economic development and save consumers money in the long run.

As Hill testified before the Senate Commerce and Utilities Committee, highly controversial legislation was introduced to reduce income taxes 10 per cent, abolish the state Board of Control, and consolidate the Fish and Game commissions.

The legislature opened its fourth week today.

Hill was questioned sharply by Sen. Andrew J. Naterlin, D-Newport, a committee member who has been active in the Central Lincoln Peoples' Utility District.

Naterlin pointed to cases in Springfield and in Tillamook County where private power companies charge lower rates, which he ascribed to competition with public power agencies.

Hill replied that such benefits are only short-term, and that inevitably one utility will swallow up the other and increase rates.

The bill would not remedy present duplication. It would only prevent more of it by providing that

Clyde Olson Rites Slated

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 31, from O'Hair's Memorial Chapel for Clyde Olson, 46. Final rites and interment will be in Klamath Memorial Park.

Mr. Olson, a resident of Klamath Falls 23 years, suffered an attack during the noon hour at Weyerhaeuser Camp 9 near Silver Lake, Jan. 27 followed by his death. He had not been previously ill.

He was a timber faller for the company and had recently received recognition as a 20-year employee.

Mr. Olson was a member of the IWA-CIO Local 312 and its president for more than five years and had served as a credit union official for the local Weyerhaeuser plant. He received an honorable discharge from the Navy in 1933. The family home is at 1452 McClellan Drive.

Survivors include the widow, Maxine, this city; daughter, Betty Dailey, mother, Mrs. Grace Olson; brother, Virgil Olson; sister, Doris Clark, all of Klamath Falls, and a brother John, in San Diego.

Active pallbearers will be Ralph Darling, Art Leslie, George Coats, Al Himmell, Richard McLaren and Fred Peters.

Rotarians Hear Talks On Labor

Employer-employee relations was the program subject at the Klamath Falls Rotary Club Friday noon at the Willard Hotel. Andy Collier was chairman of the day for the club's employer-employee relations committee.

Rollin Cantrall, member of the committee and manager of the Klamath Lumber and Box Company, spoke of the fine relations that have existed many years at his firm which always has operated without unions. He credited management, under Gus Krause for many years, with the desire always to do a bit more for employees than was expected.

H. A. Hurlbut, Copco personnel manager from Medford, said that 55 per cent of the 900 Copco employees belonged to unions, and outlined the retirement, insurance and vacation plans that had been worked out at Copco.

Chuck Burman, Klamath Falls manager of Sears, Roebuck and Company, explained the many employer-employee programs of his company. Sears' profit sharing plan, which was started in 1915, is outstanding in their business and outstanding in the operation world, he said.

Sears employees' profit sharing funds now exceed one billion dollars and account for ownership of 28 per cent of Sears stock.

Youths Jailed

City juvenile officers said they jailed three 17-year-old youths over the weekend for possession of liquor.

They were taken into temporary custody in the vicinity of a South Sixth Street howling alley, officers stated. They are scheduled for an appearance in the county juvenile office.

And officers cited three youths into juvenile court Monday afternoon to answer a complaint that they started a fight with a Kingsley Field airman at Moore Park recently.

LOOKING LIKE the bombed out interior of a cathedral is this inside view of the Pelican theater as it continued to disintegrate into rubble in the smoothly planned demolition to clear the site for a parking lot. The reinforced concrete slows the rate of destruction, but everything is progressing as planned on this community landmark. Photographer Don Kettler got this unusual view late last week.

Business School Rifled By Second Story Thief

A "second story man"—literally—entered Robertson's School of Business, 411 Main Street, over the weekend and rifled a cabinet and soft drink machine of $21.

The thief entered the office building through one of the unlocked doors on the ground level, and broke a window to gain entry into the second-story school facilities.

He first attempted to pry a locked door open, said city police.

Inside, the thief found and stole keys to a cabinet containing a cash box and $12, said officers. He locked the cabinet after taking the money.

He also broke into the vending machine and took $9, officers added.

They said the culprit missed about $80 in cash in various desks. The theft was discovered Monday morning by one of the school's instructors.

In other activity, officers are checking out a report by personnel of a Safeway Store, Eighth and Pine streets, that a man attempted to steal four packages of meat worth a total of $9.66 over the weekend.

One of the store's supervisory employees told officers customers in the store told him they saw a man slip a package of meat under his clothing, leave the building and deposit the package in a wooden box outside the store.

The store employee said he went to the box and found three packages of ground beef and a roast in the box. He said he met the man coming out of the store again, this time with a loaf of bread he bought.

When queried, the man told officers he took nothing from the store except the bread. He was booked at the city jail for charges of drunkenness. Police are continuing their investigation.

Officers also are investigating a report that an apartment at 171 Hillside Avenue was broken into.

Police said a neighbor there called them with news of the break-in Saturday night. She said a paperboy on his way out of the yard stepped on broken glass. She investigated and found a window broken in the apartment nearby.

Officers were not able to find evidence of disturbance inside the apartment.

Vandals were active over the weekend, too. One man told officers he spotted two men jumping up and down on the hood of a car parked nearby as he was coming out of a grocery store at Eighth and Pine streets Sunday morning.
